Dublin, 24th November, 1923.

MULLINGAR DISTRICT MENTAL HOSPITAL.

THE JOINT COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT will, at their Meeting to be held on THURSDAY, 13th December, 1923, consider Tenders for the Supply of the following articles, viz.:—BREAD, for a period of three months from 1st January, 1924; OTHER PROVISIONS AND GROCERIES, for a period of six months; and HARDWARE, STATIONERY, CLOTHING, etc., for a period of 12 months from 1st January, 1924.

CLOTHING MATERIALS.
FURNITURE AND HARDWARE.
PROVISIONS.
GROCERIES AND STATIONERY.
Medicine and Medical Appliances.
Feeding Stuffs for Cattle.
Winding and keeping in repair all the Clocks in the Asylum Premises.
Advertising, per line.
Printing the Annual Report of the Resident Medical Superintendent.
Books and Stationery.
Shoeing Horses, Ponies, and Donkeys.
Cleaning Chimneys.

A preference, other things being equal, will be given to Irish Manufactured Goods.

Special conditions are drawn up in connection with the several classes of articles required, as all tenders must be subject to the conditions of their respective classes.

Lists of various articles, with samples, and a Form of Tender, can be obtained at the Asylum Office (none other will be considered) between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily up to Saturday, 8th December, 1923, on a deposit of £1 as a proof of bona-fide, which will be returned after the declaration of the contract, and in the case of the successful contractor, after he has completed his bond, which must be within 14 days, or deposit forfeited.

A separate Tender Form must be used for goods under different headings—viz., Clothing, Provisions, Hardware, etc., and each item must bear the number it bears on the contract sheet.

Sealed Tenders are to be deposited in the Hospital Tender Box on or before 11 o'clock a.m. on Thursday, 13th December, 1923; or, if by post, to be addressed to the Resident Medical Superintendent, marked "Tender for ———," and reach the Hospital on the 13th December, 1923.

Each contractor, with two solvent sureties, will be bound in such penal sum as the Committee may deem necessary for the due fulfilment of the contract. The contractor to be bound by the terms of the following resolution:—

"That in future any contractor whose tender has been accepted must perfect his bond within fourteen days. Any contractor not complying with this order forfeits his contract, and will, for a period of three years, be debarred from receiving any contract in this Hospital; and that a list of all such offending contractors' names be posted in the Boardroom of the Hospital."

Tenders must be signed with the genuine signature of the Contractor and Sureties, and properly witnessed, and the Contractor and Sureties must afterwards, if Tender be accepted, sign a Bond at the Office of John J. Macken, Solicitor to the Joint Committee.

Contractors to deliver their goods free on rail, Mullingar.

The Joint Committee of Management do not bind themselves to accept the lowest or any tender.

N.B.—It will be obligatory on the Contractors to supply the Resident Medical Officers of the Hospital with anything they may require at contract prices.

By Order,
J. J. KING, Clerk.

Boardroom, 8th Nov., 1923.

UNIVERSITY OF MADRAS.
APPOINTMENT OF REGISTRAR.

Applications are invited for the post of Registrar of the University. The appointment will be (in the first instance) for a term of 5 years from, or about, the end of April, 1924, on a salary of Rs.600 per mensem, rising by annual increments of Rs.50 per mensem to Rs.800. The successful applicant will be appointed under a written contract, in which the conditions of service, including leave, resignation of appointment, etc., will be defined. He will be eligible for reappointment at the end of the first term of office on such conditions of service as may hereafter be prescribed by Statutes and Ordinances to be framed under the Madras University Act, 1923.

The Registrar will be required to devote his whole time to the duties of his office, and not to absent himself from his duties without the permission of the Syndicate.

Statute III. of the Madras University Act, 1923, provides as follows:—

> "The Registrar shall act as the Secretary of the Senate, the Syndicate, the Academic Council, and the Council of Affiliated Colleges; he shall, subject to the control of the Syndicate, manage the property and investments of the University. He shall be responsible for the preparation of the financial estimates and the annual accounts. Subject to the powers of the Syndicate, he shall be responsible for seeing that all moneys are expended on the purposes for which they are granted or allotted.
>
> "All contracts shall be signed by the Registrar on behalf of the University. He shall exercise such other powers and perform such duties as may be prescribed."

Applications from candidates for appointment should reach the Vice-Chancellor not later than Tuesday, the 15th January, 1924.

Herein Lies the Secret of the wonderful resilience and downy softness of the Vi-Spring Mattress. The Vi-Spring has a SEPARATE POCKET for each of its 1,000 steel springs, and the construction renders it the most luxurious, durable and hygienic mattress in the world. No other MATTRESS HAS THIS "SEPARATE POCKET" DEVICE.

THE

is made in several qualities, but each quality contains the same number of springs, is made with the same scrupulous care, and is equally durable

The Vi-Spring is a top mattress, and can be used on any of the usual supports—i.e., Woven Wire Chain box Mattress, etc. Made in five qualities and all sizes; 3ft. 0in. wide, £7/4/0 to £15/16/0; 4ft. 6in. wide, £10/5/3 to £20/19/3. Illustrated Catalogue sent free on request.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

SECOND DAY AT MANCHESTER.

INVERVEIGH'S EASY WIN.

CEYLONESE FOR NOVEMBER HANDICAP.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

MANCHESTER, Friday Night.

Until Mr. Albert Lowry's Argos Lass won the last race this afternoon—it was only a modest apprentices' plate—an Irish owner had not raised a winning flag at the meeting, and the large contingent of Irishmen present were rather in the dumps. The defeat of Up Garryowen by a short head in the Flying Handicap was a severe blow. It was only in the last stride or two that Anchorsholme got up on the post to rob him of the stakes and his backers of the big sums of money for which they had supported him.

He had made all the running, and was a certain winner until little Richards, on Anchorsholme, came at him and ran him out of the spoils. His former owner, Mr. T. Singleton, who was present, was emphatic in his opinion that no light weight can ever do justice to this colt, and that with a man on his back he is an infinitely better horse than with a light weight, even if it is so strong a jockey as Smirke.

AN OUTSIDER'S VICTORY.

There was no over-weening confidence behind O'Dempsey in the Sedgeley Handicap, though Jefferey expected him to run very well. His Irish St. Leger opponent, Darragh, was favourite, though it is well known that this colt is affected in the wind, and I am sure that Lord George Dundas was not too confident of winning. The second favourite was Light Jester, who was Donoghue's mount.

All three were beaten by the outsider, Red Letter, who gained an easy victory over Light Jester by a length and a half. O'Dempsey ran well, but in the straight Carslake, who rode him, was baulked for an opening, and had to pull round to the outside. The Heath colt was swishing his tail at the finish as if he did not relish the pressure, and just missed third place, which was filled by Bessie, a well-backed candidate, owned by Major McCalmont.

In the Ellesmere Welter Grave Fairy was preferred in the market to Bachelor's Heir, but the actual favourite was Mr. Cogan's Zanoni. We never saw the grey in the race at all with a winning chance, and Grave Fairy was always going better than Bachelor's Heir; but neither had anything to do with the finish, in which Retaliate brought off a 10 to 1 chance for Captain Homfray, the owner, and Robert Sherwood, the trainer, of Red Letter, the Friar Marcus filly winning easily by a length and a half.

DONOGHUE WITHOUT A WINNING MOUNT.

In the Lancashire Nursery Lord Wolverton's colt, on which Donoghue had the mount, did not go so well in the market as his stable companion, Sunstone. Live Wire, however, ran much the better of the pair, but was well beaten by Lord Durham's Inverveigh, who made practically all the running on the rails, and came home an easy winner by two lengths, the favourite, Coramond, finishing third, a length and a half behind Live Wire.

Thus the day passed without Donoghue being any nearer the Jockey Championship. His rival, Elliott, had no better luck, as his one mount, Indiscretion, in the first race, was unplaced, Fair Castilian bringing off a well-backed 8 to 1 chance for Frank Hartigan.

Elliott goes to Lingfield to ride to-morrow, and they say that three very likely winners have been chosen for him. They are Santolina, in the November Nursery, which she certainly should win, as Merriment does not run; Melibeus, from his own stable (Jack Jarvis), in the Finale Handicap, and Sweet Auburn in the Country Open Two-Year-Old Plate.

A FROZEN COURSE.

There is just a possibility that Donoghue may not have a mount at all here to-morrow, for there may be no racing. Although it was a sunny afternoon, it was freezing very hard this morning. There was just a doubt about the racing taking place this afternoon, for the course was frozen very hard. The Manchester Executive have done everything possible, but there is so much frost in the ground already that a continued low temperature throughout the night might make racing impossible.

It is to be hoped, however, that the Manchester November Handicap will take place. Ceylonese continues to be a strong favourite, and his price to-morrow may be a short one. London Cry is all right again, and has come back to favour, his trainer being quite confident about him. Mrs. Collie is here to see Little Marten run, and the Irish colt was well backed this afternoon. Moabite and Sun Charmer have both chances on their Liverpool Cup running in the summer, and Orpi is not out of it. Thoughtless may run quite as well as Little Marten.

I believe that Alec Taylor entertains great hopes of Puttenden, who could probably have won the Derby Cup at a mile and a half—the distance of this race. While I think that CEYLONESE should win, it might be advisable to couple him with PUTTENDEN for a win and place. ROYAL HUSSAR may win the Beresford Stakes, and BALLYHANWOOD the Worsley Nursery. STEAMER will win the Farewell Handicap.

An item of gossip is that Captain Arthur Boyd-Rochfort, V.C., is taking a trainer's licence. He anticipated it yesterday by being photographed in a group of all the leading trainers for the purposes of a charity, he and Mr. Persse flanking Mr. Cottrill in the centre of the front row.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

NOVEMBER HANDICAP.

The last day of Manchester, and incidentally the last day of the flat racing season, boasts of an excellent programme, including as it does the November Handicap and the Final Plate, races which should prove particularly interesting, especially the Final Plate, as Sir Greysteel, Legality, Lighthouse, and the Manton-trained Richard the First are all due to compete. For the November Handicap the following are the

PROBABLE STARTERS AND JOCKEYS.

040 PUTTENDEN (Mr. Cazalet), 4, 8-6...J. Childs
133 NORSEMAN (Mr. J. White), 4, 8-6 G. Hulme
013 CEYLONESE (Sir A. Bailey), 4, 8-4 F. Bullock
001 HARPENDEN (7lb. ex.) (Mr. Curzon), 4, 8-2 ....R. Jones
012 LONDON CRY (His Majesty), 4, 8-1 H. Wragg
100 CARPATHUS (Mrs. J. Watts), 4, 7-13 W. McLachlan
114 MIWANI (Sir H. Lawson), 5, 7-12 G. Richards
100 MOABITE (Lord Derby), 3, 7-12 ...T. Weston
320 LITTLE MARTEN (Mrs. Collie), 4, 7-11 H. Gray
000 SUN CHARMER (Sir D. Broughton), 4, 7-11 ....S. Donoghue
400 ORPI (Mr. Kenyon), 6, 7-9 ....J. Thwaites
200 THOUGHTLESS (Mrs. Roundell), 6, 7-6 G. Walsh
100 EL OBEID (Lt.-Col. Blacker), 4, 7-6 R. Perryman
040 PERFECTUS (Mr. A. Gordon), 4, 7-3 C. Smirke
433 OLD NIC (Sir H. Bird), 3, 6-7 ....A. Burns

I take on my side Ceylonese, London Cry, Puttenden, Sun Charmer, and Perfectus. The first-named is naturally a good favourite, but I do not personally care about his chance today. I rather fancy he is a horse who, once at his best, trains off, and the severe preparation and hard race in the Cesarewitch will, in my opinion, have left its mark. The same argument can be advanced against London Cry, but he has shown recently that he is none the worse of his hard time this season, and there are many who considered him very unlucky not to have won the Derby Cup. Be that as it may, I feel sure that whatever beats him to-day will be returned the winner. Puttenden is a difficult proposition, and I am not sure he is any too genuine. Sun Charmer has been well backed by his connections, and on the Liverpool running clearly has the beating of Moabite. Perfectus has suffered in his recent runs from lack of sufficiently strong handling, and with Smirke, who is in rare form just now, in the saddle I have a great liking for him. However one looks at the race one is forced to the conclusion that London Cry each way is the soundest investment in the race, and I have every hope that the season will end with a Royal victory. I fancy the Final Plate will be won by Legality or Lighthouse, and give the latter my vote as being the more genuine. Selections:—

Farewell Handicap—Shri.
Beresford Stakes—A.B.C.
November Handicap—London Cry each way
Last Selling Handicap—Coeur de Lion.
Worsley Nursery—Haine.
Final Plate—Lighthouse.

AONACH TAILTEANN AND AMERICA.

At the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of the U.S.A. in Detroit this week, Mr. M. F. O'Hanlon, Commissioner for the Tailteann Games, was specially invited to address the gathering. The convention unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed America's participation in the Games, which will take place in Dublin from 1st to 18th August, 1924, and promised the fullest co-operation.

LINGFIELD.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

As usual, the final day's flat racing sees Lingfield clashing with Manchester. The prospects for the Southern wind-up are fair. Frost is about, but at the moment of writing the going is fairly good, and fields will be large. The Finale Handicap over two miles must rank as the most important event on the card, and already there is the nucleus of a pretty good field. Mr. Adam Scott, who likes to win, and generally does win, a race at the meeting, has three engaged—the Manchester winner, Be a Lad; the veteran Nant Coch, possessing past knowledge of the course; and Jazz Band. It is believed that the last-named will be the choice of Mr. Scott. Revival, the disqualified at Windsor, and thus a winner without a penalty, had not arrived last night, but if coming this morning his chance is obvious. Bombino, second to Spes at Warwick, with Sailor Son and Tregenwell unplaced, is in at a very nice weight, and perhaps East Tor will come along from Manton. Solace possesses eminently consistent form, and we cannot ignore the possibilities of Shippon, Gianforte, and Melibeus—the last-named, indeed, is marked dangerous; but the choice now is Bombino, in the probable absence of Revival, and Solace the next best. Selections:—

November Nursery—Elevation filly.
Apprentices' Plate—Midnight colt.
Back End Handicap—The Bow.
Finale Handicap—Bombino.
Country Plate—Sword Play.
Club Welter—Sans Peche.

[The figures in front of the names of the horses are an index to placings in their last three engagements—reading from right to left; (s) signifies started slowly.]

LONDON BETTING—YESTERDAY.

Ceylonese wound up an easy favourite for the November Handicap last night, at the early call-over, at 95 to 20. London Cry travelled well, but the feature was the run on Little Marten, who came from 9's to 15 to 2, leaving 7's the top offer. His stable companion, Thoughtless, was naturally easier, but did not go back beyond 13's. Of the rest, Harpenden went decidedly the best. Details:—

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

An American sportsman recently approached Mr. James Daly, Manager of the Leopardstown Club, claiming to have authority, on behalf of the owner of Zev, to bring that colt to Ireland and engage him in a match at Leopardstown against any horse in training in Ireland. Mr. Daly could not accept the proposal, and pointed out that it was for the owner of Zev or his agent to issue a challenge to Irish owners, and that with them rested the onus of either entertaining or declining the proposition.

Mr. F. S. Myerscough's Cramond, having finished his racing career, goes to the stud next season at Brownstown House, Curragh, where Prince Hermes also stands. Another horse that has been taken out of training and goes to the stud is Mr. J. C. Sullivan's Zria's Charm, who won at the Curragh on Wednesday. He will be located at his owner's place, Kilberry, Navan.

The Maiden Plate at Punchestown has closed (first entry) with 35 subscribers.

Happy Man, the Ascot Gold Cup winner, is in the private sale list, the price put upon him being £5,000.

Mr. A. Macomber has made a donation of £100 to the Jockey Club Accident Fund, and one of the same amount to the Rous Memorial Hospital.

We understand there is a probability that a "Barbican Cup" will be added to a stake to be run for at a coursing fixture at Newmarket, on February 27th and following day.

RUGBY.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

Five senior matches appear in to-day's list, and chief interest will centre in the meeting of North of Ireland and Bective Rangers at Donnybrook. The second meeting of the clubs this year, Bective hope to reverse the result of the previous match at Ormeau. Blackrock College meet Lansdowne on the latter's ground, and Clontarf will be at home to Wanderers, both of which should result in close matches. Monkstown will meet University College at Sydney parade, and Old Wesley travel to Milltown for their match with Palmerston. At Oxford Dublin University will conclude their tour, and following up their good win against Edinburgh on Thursday may be expected to give the unbeaten Oxford side a close game. All matches are timed to start at 2.45 p.m.

NORTHERN IRELAND

SIR JAMES CRAIG AND THE ELECTIONS.

On the motion for the adjournment of the Northern House of Commons yesterday, Mr. McGuffin asked the Prime Minister whether, considering the pressing election now proceeding on the other side, and the very serious issues before the country, he would think it opportune now, or, if possible, on the date of prorogation, to address the House on the general situation.

Sir James Craig said that he was never very desirous of making statements, if they could be avoided; but sometimes he found it difficult to produce a good excuse for not making one. He thought, however, that on this occasion it would be improper for himself, or any member in that House, to pronounce in any way upon the political controversy which was going on outside, and which affected their Imperial members. The proper place for that was upon the platform, outside that House.

Mr. McGuffin—It was not in regard to the political issues that I made my inquiry, but in regard to other matters pertaining to this Government.

Sir James Craig—I am always quite ready to discuss anything that applies to our Parliament.

COUNTY ANTRIM CANDIDATES.

Major the Right Hon. Hugh O'Neill and Captain the Right Hon. Charles C. Craig were unanimously chosen as Unionist candidates for Co. Antrim, at a meeting of delegates, in the old Town Hall, Belfast.

Captain Charles C. Craig said that he thought that the bulk of the people of Northern Ireland were, as he was, Tariff Reformers; but whether they liked Tariff Reform or not, they wished to keep in power a Government that was most favourable to Ulster, and there could be no doubt that the Conservative Government was that Government. They shuddered to think what would happen if a Labour Government was returned to power, as that party, all through their history, had been with their political enemies—the Nationalists—in this country. If they were in power they would do everything, he felt certain, to upset their Government in Ulster, and if possible throw them into the Free State.

There was another point in the policy of Mr. Baldwin, to which he wished to draw the attention of those interested in agriculture, and that was the promise of a subsidy to agriculture. He did not know if it was quite clear to them what was to happen to Ulster in that connection. The Customs was a reserved service that the Northern Government had nothing to do with, and if tariffs were put on goods, they would apply in Ulster as well as England.

That being so, they were entitled to any benefits which would accrue from the setting up of tariffs, and Mr. Baldwin had told them that they were to get their share of them.

Captain Hugh O'Neill said that every sensible working man knew that the interdependence of Capital and Labour was so essential that, without stability of Capital on the one hand and contentment of Labour on the other, they could not have prosperity in the country. (Applause.)

There was also the question of the boundary. The solution of these matters lay largely in London, and not in Belfast, and so he thought they should have representing them at Westminster people who had been there before, who had attained a certain experience, and who would be able in those very difficult and delicate negotiations to make the voice of Ulster heard and listened to in the best and most respected way. (Applause.)

TYRONE AND FERMANAGH.

Mr. James A. Pringle, K.C., was selected at Aughnacloy yesterday as Unionist candidate for Tyrone and Fermanagh. It is believed that no other Unionist candidate will be put forward.

RUSSIAN PRINCE IN AMERICA.

SEEKING THE RETURN OF FAMILY HEIRLOOMS.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Prince Youssoupoff, of Rasputin fame, together with his wife, the Princess Irene, who is a niece of the late Tsar, arrived here to-day on board the Berengaria, in company with Baroness Wrangel.

In the course of an interview, the Prince declared that one of the chief objects of his visit was to arrange for the return of two Rembrandts, family heirlooms, with which he parted two years ago to Mr. Joseph Widener, the art collector, of Philadelphia. The Prince has brought with him a collection of antiques, miniatures, snuff-boxes, bibelots and jewels, including a necklace of black pearls, which he hopes to sell for enough to redeem the paintings.—(Reuter.)

RAILWAY NATIONALISATION.

LABOUR PARTY'S BILL IN THE DAIL.

NO OPPOSITION TO FIRST STAGE.

In the Dail yesterday the Labour Party's bill for the nationalisation of the railways and the creation of a Ministry of Transport received a first reading, "without prejudice."

Mr. Thomas Johnson, who introduced the measure, commended it to the House as an earnest attempt to solve the transport problem, and asserted that it dealt generously with the stockholders and all the other interests involved.

Several other bills received a second reading, and the Judiciary Bill was considered on report. The House adjourned until December 4th.

FIRST TWO DAILS.

DISCHARGE OF LIABILITIES.

In the Dail yesterday, the Minister for Home Affairs moved for leave to have printed and circulated a bill to make provision for the disposal of the property of the first Dail Eireann and the second Dail Eireann, and for the redemption and discharge of the loans floated by those bodies. He said that it was appropriate, when they were about to float a loan, that they should introduce a measure dealing with the financial liabilities of the first two previous Dails. This bill was for redemption and discharge of loans and other liabilities incurred by the first and second Dails. He asked that it be read a first time.

The motion was agreed to.

THE RAILWAYS.

Mr. Johnson introduced a bill, signed by himself and Mr. William Davin, to provide for the acquisition by the State of the railways in Saorstat Eireann, for their management, and the management of the Post Office, and for the co-ordination of road, motor, aerial, and other transport services. He said that if the bill were passed, it meant the Nationalisation of the Irish Railways and the co-ordination of all transport services, including railways, canals, roads, postal service, aerial communication, and the like.

It was not thought that all this would be accomplished on a given date. It was proposed to establish a Ministry of Transport and Communications, and that the Minister would be responsible to the Oireachtas for all the communications, including the Postal Service. It would mean eventually the absorption of the Ministry of Postal and Telegraphs into the Ministry of Transport and Communications. The Minister for Transport would be responsible to the Oireachtas, but he might or might not be a member of the Dail. He would be a Minister, but would not be a member of the Executive Council.

The actual management of the railways would be undertaken by a director of railways, who would be in supreme command of the actual working of the railways, subject to the Ministry of Transport. He would be assisted by a council or board, representative of the interests concerned with railway traffic, agriculture, commerce, manufacturers and workers generally and the Treasury. The intention was that the transfer would be on a basis which should be fixed by a tribunal consisting of three persons. The Chairman would be a person who held, or had held, high political office. The tribunal would have the assistance of competent accountants, one of whom would be nominated by or approved by the railway companies.

STOCK.

It was intended that railway stock should be issued by the State in exchange for present holdings. The stock would be issued in the form of redeemable stock certificates at 4½ per cent., or terminable annuity certificates carrying 4½ per cent. for the first five years and 4¼ per cent. for 67 years. The terminable annuity certificates would be in many cases desired by the present stockholders; in other cases the annuity certificates would be preferred. It was proposed that a tribunal to decide the price at which the railways would be taken over by the State would determine the value according to all the circumstances, the maximum price being based upon the average profits earned and distributed during the five years preceding 1914.

It was calculated that by those means it would be possible to conduct the railways in such a manner as would allow of a redemption in charges and an improvement in the services. It was proposed to set up a Rates Tribunal, a semi-independent body, whose functions would be to fix rates in such a manner that they would pay the charges, without seeking any margin. This Rates Tribunal proposal was one which he thought should commend itself to all industrial and agricultural interests. It was proposed also that charges upon County Councils and baronies in respect of those railways which had been guaranteed should be removed, and that the County Councils should be relieved of any liability in respect of a guarantee.

The position of the employés of the railway company were safeguarded on much the same lines as had been decided by the recent bill passed in Great Britain, touching the amalgamation of railways there.

It was intended that, so far as the railways over which at present the Oireachtas has no jurisdiction were concerned, the day of transfer to the State should be deferred until a decision was taken as to the transfer of those railways, or such portion of them as might be decided upon.

The bill would not fulfil all the equities, as he conceived them. It was very generous in its interpretation of the rights of stockholders, and was such a bill as might have been introduced by Deputy Hewat, combined with Deputy Gorey. If it could not be taken over by the Government as a whole, he hoped that it would be considered as a serious attempt to meet the transport problem, and a serious proposal for the co-ordination of all those services which were needed to carry on the trade, commerce and social life of the community.

Mr. Davin seconded the motion.

The Minister for Home Affairs said that it was not proposed to oppose the first reading of the bill, and deputies would have an opportunity of satisfying their curiosity in regard to it. Deputy Johnson had made a somewhat longer statement than was usual on a first reading, and he (the Minister) wished to make it quite clear that the decision to give this bill a first reading without opposition was made very much without prejudice.

The bill was read a first time.

LOCAL ELECTIONS.

The Minister for Local Government Board (Mr. Burke) moved the second reading of the Local Government Electors Registration Bill, 1923. The object of the bill was to legalise the position with regard to the preparation of the registers of Local Government electors. It was obviously to the interests of all of them and in the interest of economy to have the Local Government register prepared as soon as possible, and he saw no valid reasons why the two registers should not be compiled together.

The second reading was passed.

The same Minister moved the second reading of the Local Elections Postponement (Amendment) Bill. One deputy, he said, had declared that those elections were hanging over the heads of representatives of local bodies like the sword of Damocles. That was a thing that was not confined purely to local representatives. In the light of experience it might be found necessary to change the whole system of local government. He would again point out that the measure was entirely an emergency one.

Alderman Corish asked the Minister to give the House some information regarding the probable date of the elections.

The Minister said that he could not give any definite date. Much depended on the time which the passage of certain bills occupied and the behaviour of local bodies.

Mr. Wilson contended that it was not fair to local representatives to have those elections postponed indefinitely.

The bill was given a second reading.

INDEMNITY BILL.

The second stage of the Local Authorities (Indemnity) Bill was next taken. The object of this measure is to establish the validity of certain acts and omissions of local authorities during the period 31st March, 1920, and 6th December, 1922, when the decrees of the British Local Government Board were, on the advice of a rival Local Government Department, being defied by local bodies.

Alderman Corish expressed the opinion that local authorities should not be called upon now to compensate servants who had acted in opposition to them during the "national struggle" by continuing to carry out the will and decrees of the British Local Government Board.

Mr. Kevin O'Higgins said that they should remember that not everybody in the country approved of the policy of Sinn Fein during that period, and the servants of local bodies were entitled to their individual opinions as well as everyone else. Those men just happened to be victims of circumstances, and they should be compensated either by the local authority or the central authority; there could be no victimisation.

Alderman Corish and Mr. Doyle declared that the effect of that decision would be to impose an intolerable burden, for one thing, on Wexford ratepayers.

The bill was read a second time.

CIVIL SERVICE.

The Committee stage of the Civil Service Regulation (No. 2) Bill was next taken.

Major Bryan Cooper had several amendments on the paper, the object of which was to make the position of the Civil Service Commissioners comparatively independent, and to ensure that all candidates at examinations should have the same treatment.

After some discussion, and an undertaking from Mr. Blythe that the deputy's views would be considered on the report stage of the bill, the amendments were withdrawn.

An amendment to Section 9 was moved by Major Cooper. This section provides that the Minister of Finance may from time to time make regulations for controlling the Civil Service, and provide for the classification, remuneration, and other conditions and terms of service of all persons employed in the Service, whether temporarily or permanently. The amendment took the form of a proposed additional section laying down that every such regulation should be laid before each House of the Oireachtas at least one month before it became operative, and if both Houses should, within 21 days, then pass resolutions annulling the regulation, the latter should, accordingly, be annulled.

The amendment gave rise to a lengthy discussion. Major Cooper's argument was that the new section would safeguard civil servants against a possibly arbitrary Minister, and the operation of any drastic or autocratic conditions governing employment.

Professor Magennis supported the amendment, for the reason, as he said, that he always stood for democratic control as against bureaucracy. It seemed just that those regulations, before becoming operative, should have the sanction of both Houses of the Oireachtas.

The Minister of Finance said that the Executive should not be hampered in the discharge of its Executive duties. The Ministry should be given full responsibility for dealing with any irregularity or trouble that might arise in the service. The essence of democratic control was control of the Executive, and not to limit the functions of the Executive. It seemed absurd, if an occasion arose to change, say, the lunch hour, that the regulation should come before the Oireachtas for sanction.

Captain Redmond, in supporting the amendment, said that the present occasion seemed to him to be one on which the Government were blindly following a British precedent. The amendment would not lessen the power or authority of the Executive in any way.

Messrs. Good, Hewat, and Gorey opposed the amendment.

Mr. Alton said that he considered the amendment a reasonable one. They did not seek to put trivial restrictions on the power of the Minister.

Mr. Johnson said that if regulations were not laid on the table civil servants would, indeed, have a grievance, and the refusal to accept the amendment was inviting civil servants to canvass deputies.

Mr. Blythe assured the House that regulations made under the bill would be laid on the table, and there would be the usual opportunity of discussing them.

Major Bryan Cooper accepted the assurance, and withdrew his amendment.

The bill went through Committee.

JUDICIARY BILL.

The Courts of Justice Bill was next considered on report.

The Attorney-General moved an amendment, of which the object was to prevent High Court judges from being called unnecessarily into the Supreme Court.

Captain Redmond said that he could not see the force of it.

Professor Magennis said that the Attorney-General's amendment was most useful, and commended itself to the Bar of Ireland.

The amendment was agreed to.

Rapid progress was made with several amendments proposed by the Attorney-General on behalf of the Government.

Mr. Johnson asked if it was intended to make a change in the number of circuits which in the bill were eight.

The Attorney-General said that it was inconceivable that the present number of circuits could be reduced.

Captain Redmond said he was glad to hear that. He thought, rather, that the circuits might have to be increased in the future. He thought that a part of one county ought not to be transferred to another circuit without the people having a word to say in the matter.

The sections of the bill up to 41 were agreed to.

Mr. O'Higgins at this stage, it being 7 o'clock, moved the adjournment of the House until Tuesday week, December 4th.

In reply to Mr. Johnson, Mr. O'Higgins said that in the meantime the Government would consider what their programme of legislation would be up to Christmas. There would be a short adjournment over the Christmas holidays.

The House then rose.

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTION.

POINTS FROM THE SPEECHES.

Mr. Baldwin:

The Prime Minister to-day has two great anxieties beyond all others—one was the state of Europe, and how to get a settlement between the French and the Germans—that nearly broke Mr. Bonar Law's heart—and the second one, which hung to some extent upon the first, was the question of unemployment.

It is impossible to give the assistance that will be given to the manufacturing industries, without giving, at the same time, substantial help to the agricultural community.—At Tenbury.

Mr. Walter Runciman:

The Government's policy is a policy of more taxation. They have abandoned all idea of economy, and, with the recklessness of spendthrifts with other people's money, are offering millions here and there to any interest with whom they have sympathy, and whose support they can only retain by direct subsidies, or by the benefits of import duties.

The next Budget will involve this country either in a Budget with a heavy deficit or a big rise in income tax.

Employment in France had nothing to do with high tariffs, and, as a matter of fact, her wages were about 12 per cent. lower than ours, and instead of her currency being worth 25 to the £, it was barely worth 80 to the £. Surely the Chancellor of the Exchequer does not want us to copy this.—At Brighton.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald:

The Labour Party set the five thousand pounds limit on capital levy because the burden of the National Debt was at present borne far too heavily by the working class and far too lightly by the people of wealth.

Capital levy is not a party question, but a question of sound finance, and sooner or later the Tories would have to face it.—At Blarnavon.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain:

The dangers which my father foresaw twenty years ago have all come about, intensified by the conditions created by the war.

The Government is convinced, after careful consideration, that Protection is the only remedy for unemployment.—At Birmingham.

Mr. Churchill:

The Liberal Party stands on the basis that there is no quack remedy for all the evils from which the world is suffering on the morrow of the war.

Liberals are convinced that steady persistence along the old road will be the best and surest way by which the country will get out of its troubles.—At Leicester.

Mr. Amery:

Cheapness is not the last word in economies.—At Widnes.

Sir Montague Barlow:

The proposed fiscal re-arrangement, besides protecting the home markets and giving power of bargaining, will unite the Empire with closer reciprocal bonds.—At Shrewsbury.

Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame:

Foreign nations must be treated as they treat us.

We can get out of the vicious circle of high prices by protecting our industries against unfair competition.—At Coventry.

Sir Alfred Mond:

If Mr. Baldwin has something to cure unemployment, it is extraordinary, considering how long he and his friends have been in office, that they did not think of doing something before, because whatever they proposed now can have no effect before the winter of 1924.—At Dursley.

Mr. Asquith:

The policy of the Liberals is much more capable of dealing with the actual realities of the world as it existed than that of the Communists, whose policy only had relation to a world of dreams.—At Paisley.

Sir Samuel Hoare:

In my own view, there is no risk whatever of any serious rise in prices as the result of the Government policy, but if we found that the effect of putting duties upon any particular goods was to create trusts, and to enable them to charge exorbitant prices against the consumer, we shall, if necessary, take the duties off and pass legislation to deal with them. We do not intend that the duties should be used as an instrument by the great trusts for putting up prices against consumers.—At Chelsea (London).

Sir W. Joynson-Hicks:

The predominant factor in politics to-day is that unemployment is worse now than it has been for a hundred years. America, by her protective tariff, has absorbed in two years the five million unemployed she had when the war ended. Surely that is an example worth following.—At Devonport.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans:

The Conservative policy is a positive policy, and really does represent an active step forward in the direction of finding a remedy for unemployment. Voters had to answer to the wives and children of the unemployed, and I appeal to all, by their votes, to give the women and children a chance in life.—At Ipswich.

Mr. Clynes:

One of the reasons for the dissolution is the belief that the quarrel over imports will divert attention from the Government's failures on international and social questions.

The proposed duties on imported articles will not touch the causes of unemployment, which mostly affects the trades least troubled by imports.

Dominion preference would make food more dear.

Food taxation should be ended, thus raising the standard of life, and increasing public spending power, which is the surest way of improving the home market.

As to the capital levy, the Labour Party did not call for it to cure unemployment, but to reduce the national debt. The rich and favoured should as willingly help to save the country from bankruptcy as the poor people helped to save it from defeat.—In his election address.

Thousands of ladies keep a box of Martin's Pills in the house. Those who use them recommend them, hence their enormous sale. Price 5s. Sold by all Chemists and Stores; or post free from Proprietors, Martin, Chemists, Southampton.—(Advt.)

Brigadier-General C. E. Macquoid, who had experience of education in India, has been co-opted a member of the London County Council Education Committee.

DUBLIN AND THE PROVINCES.

DUBLIN.

DUBLIN CIVIC SURVEY.—The civic survey, in course of preparation by a Committee of the Civics Institute, is making satisfactory progress. Since the beginning of the month a hundred and fifty forms of questionnaire have been issued to the public with a request for information. When these forms have been returned, the answers will be classified and all the information edited. In the section devoted to archæology considerable progress has been made. In the recreation section, the information shows that there is a lack of ground for games other than at exorbitant rates. Teaching authorities are responding generously to the request for information about education. In the section referring to public hygiene, the Dublin hospitals are giving valuable aid. Useful industry, commerce, and traffic information is also being received. Voluntary workers are needed. A few weeks of spare-time service is all that is required, and particulars may be obtained at 9 Ely place, Dublin. Owing to the voluntary assistance offered by the public, the expenditure on the survey has been kept within very reasonable limits.

PEAMOUNT DANCE.—A dance, organised by the Peamount After-Care Committee, will take place in Clery's Ballroom, Sackville street, next Friday. This society looks after patients in the sanatorium, and supplies extra clothing where necessary. An announcement will be found in our advertisement columns.

"MANCHESTER MARTYRS."—Mr. D. Breen was present at a concert held in commemoration of the Manchester martyrs' anniversary in the Round Room of the Mansion House, Dublin, last night. Mr. Breen delivered a brief oration on Allen, Larkin and O'Brien. He made no direct reference to the present political situation. There was a large attendance at the concert, which was in aid of the Irish Republican Prisoners' Dependents' Fund. The contributors to the programme included:—Madame Cogley, Mrs. J. O'Sheehan, the Misses Fullerton, Mr. Denis Cox, Mr. James Rawle, and Mr. H. Carrick.

IRISH CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP.—A public meeting will be held in the Molesworth Hall next Monday at 5 p.m., at which the principal speaker will be the Rev. C. E. Raven, the hon. secretary of "Copec," the conference to be held next April on politics, economics, and citizenship. All the Churches in England are co-operating in "Copec." There will be an opportunity for questions and discussion after the address, the subject of which will be "The Social Implications of Christianity."

STEAMER'S LONG VISIT TO DUBLIN.—The Ulster Steamship Company's steamer Fanad Head has just terminated a long visit to the port of Dublin. The ship arrived at the Alexandra Basin from Montreal and Quebec on July 31, but could not be discharged for many weeks owing to labour troubles. When these were settled and the discharge began, another hitch arose over the donkey-engine operator, but this dispute was also settled. The Fanad Head has part cargo for Belfast. A sister ship, the Ballygally Head, which has been in the Liffey for many weeks, is still awaiting the owner's orders.

BUTTER DEARER.—The Irish Dairy (Producers and Shippers) Association has fixed the price of salted butter, free on rail, Ireland, at £10 2s. a cwt. for the week ending next Thursday. Last week's quotation was £10, and in the previous week £9 5s. In the Dublin shops yesterday butter was 2d. a pound dearer than on the previous Friday.

MUNICIPAL AUTHORITIES' CONFERENCE.—A conference of the Association of Municipal Authorities of Ireland will be held in the Mansion House at 11 o'clock next Tuesday to discuss improvement of municipal laws. Alderman Hadden, Wexford, will read a paper on "Housing."

PIRATE SHIPS.—Chartered steamers continue to carry cargoes from British ports to Dublin, although the regular cross-Channel goods steamers are again in commission. These "pirate ships," as they were dubbed during the shipping strike, apparently intend to continue in the Dublin and cross-Channel cargo-carrying business.

CONNAUGHT.

LOUGHGLYNN MURDER PETITION.—A petition for the reprieve of Thomas McDonagh, of Loughglynn, County Roscommon, who lies under sentence of death for the murder of Mrs. Ellen Rogers, of Loughglynn, in May, 1922, has been prepared by Mr. M. A. Farrell, solicitor, Ballaghaderreen. It has been signed by a large number of people in the district where the crime was committed, including the Parish Priest of Loughglynn. Other signatories are the Bishops of Achonry and Elphin, Lord de Freyne, Mr. J. C. Kane, Dr. Coen and Dr. Beirne. The petition will be presented to the Governor-General within a few days.

LEINSTER.

BRAY TRADES COUNCIL.—At a meeting of the Bray and District Trades' Council on Wednesday, arrangements were made for a series of lectures on social topics during the winter months. It was resolved that the attention of the Irish Labour Party should be directed to the danger of a large number of the workers being faced with starvation this winter unless immediate steps are taken to provide work or unemployment benefit; further, that the Labour representatives in the Parliament be urged to have the question of unemployment and remedies pressed forward without delay. It was also resolved that the Labour Party should be asked to find out what procedure is adopted by the Government in fixing the cost of living figures, and that steps should be taken by the Government to compel shopkeepers to exhibit price lists.

RATHDOWNEY ESTATE DIVIDED.—The lands of Akip, Rathdowney, Queen's County, containing about 180 Irish acres, formerly the property of Captain Stubber, Moyne House, Durrow, which were acquired two years ago for distribution under the Sailors' and Soldiers' Settlement Land Act, have now been divided. A hundred acres were divided into farms containing from fourteen to eighty acres, and given to ex-Service men. The remainder was divided among uneconomic holders in the locality. The former herd on the estate was allotted eighteen and a half acres.

ARMED ROBBERS.—Patrick Whelan and John Carr were each sentenced to a year's imprisonment and Frank Whelan and William St. John to eight months at Longford for having taken part in armed raids on two private houses on October 30, and for being in possession of stolen property. The prisoners live in the Carriglass district. It was stated that three of the men, with their faces masked, and carrying revolvers, raided the houses at night, intimidated the occupants, and stole money, jewellery, and various articles.

ECHO OF THE NORTHERN BOYCOTT.—On Thursday at Meath Quarter Sessions, the Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., claimed £174 14s. 0d. for damage to tobacco, snuff and cigarettes, consigned to various customers. The goods were burned at Oldcastle and Kilmainhamwood Stations on April 11 and 12, 1922, where they had been seized on arrival from Newry. Northern Ireland goods were at that time being boycotted. The judge allowed the net value, less 5 per cent., and gave a decree amounting to £123 14s. 0d. and £7 expenses.

ASYLUM STAFF'S STRIKE THREAT.—The staff of the Mullingar Mental Hospital threatens to strike within a month unless the Committee of the institution affords satisfaction in the matter of claims for long service pay, ration allowances, etc. The Committee admits the claims, but declares that it will not pay until the financial position of the institution has improved. There is at present a debt of £36,000.

IGNORANCE OF LICENSING REGULATIONS.—At Dundalk yesterday, a Church street publican was fined £2 for opening after hours. The house was visited by Civic Guards at 10.20, and several men were found there. The defendant, as holder of an early closing licence, should have closed at ten o'clock. He said that he was unaware of this regulation, and that for twelve years had kept open until eleven o'clock.

PUBLICAN AND HIS GUEST.—In a licensing prosecution at Dundalk yesterday, a publican said that he invited a man into the house on a Sunday night to have a chat about Karl Marx and his doctrines. The guest confirmed this: he said that he had a chop and potatoes, and listened to a lot of words, that he did not understand. The charge against the publican was dismissed.

LABOUR OFFICIALS EVICTED.—Pursuant to a recent decree in the High Courts, the Sub-Sheriff for Co. Wicklow yesterday took possession of the Irish Transport Union offices, evicted the tenants, and put some of their office furniture into the street. There were no incidents.

ULSTER.

LANDS ILLEGALLY OCCUPIED.—In imposing a nominal fine for trespass on two elderly women, named Gaffney and Diamond, who are holding forcible possession of lands in Drumskelt, to which they claim to be entitled, although they were evicted in 1898, the magistrate at Ballybay, Co. Monaghan, warned them that they were liable to imprisonment for twelve months under the Public Safety Act. The defendants allege that they were reinstated on the farm by the Volunteers in 1921 and 1922.

Arrangements are being made to teach the Welsh language in University College, Cork, where an elementary class has been formed.

The disused Methodist Church at Mallow is to be acquired by the Cork County Technical Instruction Committee, for conversion into a technical school.

Dublin Metropolitan policemen were on duty yesterday at various points in the city noting the volume and other particulars of the traffic.

It was announced at the meeting of the Monaghan County Council that Mr. Denis Carolan Rushe, Secretary, intends to resign. Mr. Rushe is a keen antiquarian, and has written two histories of Monaghan.

Lord Athlumney, Balrath, County Meath, was fined £3 in the Dublin Police Court yesterday for driving a motor car on October 10, to the public danger, and on the wrong side of the road.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The deaths registered for Belfast during last week numbered 113, representing an annual rate of 13.7 per 1,000 of the population. The corresponding annual rate for the past four weeks was 12.6 per 1,000. During the forty-six weeks ending on Saturday last, the death-rate averaged 13.8, being 3.6 below the mean rate for the corresponding portions of the ten years 1913-1922. The deaths registered in Londonderry during the last week numbered 16, representing an annual rate of 17.8 per 1,000. The corresponding annual rate for the past four weeks was 15.3 per 1,000.

NEWRY CANAL FROZEN.—It was reported to the Newry Harbour Board yesterday that four or five miles of the canal were frozen over. The ice was one and a half inches thick, and the ice-boat had to be brought into commission. This is the second time—last year being the first—that the ice-boat has had to be used in forty-two years.

DEATH OF WELL-KNOWN VOCALIST.—The death took place at Laurel Mount, Greenisland, yesterday, of Mr. William Thomas, aged 56, a well-known Belfast singer. He had been connected with many local musical organisations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE FREE STATE LOAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I was strongly recommending the Free State Loan to a thrifty working man this evening. The first question he asked was "Can I buy it at the Post Office, the way I did 5 per cent. War Loan? I have never been in a bank." I find that our financial people have overlooked the Post Office; but I would point out that an applicant for National Loan may get a form in any post office and apply for £10 of stock.

Post Office applications for £1 or £5 blocks would have been very popular. It is better than Savings Certificates. It looks as if the thrifty working man had been left out. A Post Office issue through the Gazette is not too late.—Yours, etc.,

"AN INVESTOR."

Dublin, November 23rd, 1923.

LINGERING LEAVES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—"Leaves have their time to fall," writes Mrs. Hemans. Deciduous trees, however, are helped by winds of varying strength in the casting of their leaves, and, of course, in such case—that is, apart from the natural functioning of the tree itself—some leaves must remain later than others. Last night in the course of a walk along the North Circular road, in the direction of the Phœnix Park, I noticed that, while most of the sycamore trees on each side of the road were denuded, on the remainder of the trees quite a number of the leaves was left. Having read something concerning the effect of electric light on vegetation, I made closer observation. To my surprise, in every case the lingering leaves were on that side of the trees nearest to, or facing at a short distance, the benign light of a Corporation arc-lamp.—Yours, etc.,

"ARBOR."

Dublin, November 23rd, 1923.

MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING AFFAIR.

A mysterious shooting affair, resulting in the death of Mr. Patrick McLean, a prominent Mayo Gael and footballer, took place at Ballycastle, County Mayo. It is believed that McLean was in company with a soldier, whose revolver went off accidentally, hitting McLean on the hip. He was removed to Castlebar Hospital, where an operation was performed, and he died shortly afterwards. McLean was captain of the Ballycastle team, and one of the most prominent players on the county fifteen.

INCORPORATED LAW SOCIETY.

SOLICITORS AND THE LAND ACT.

The half-yearly meeting of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland will be held on Monday next at 1 Molesworth street, Dublin. The report of the Council for the year ending November 26, 1923, which has been circulated, states that the membership of the Society is now 716; 357 of these are Dublin members.

The Council had under consideration the question of the remuneration of solicitors for work done under the Irish Land Act, 1923. The Council regret that the legal profession is not represented in greater numbers in both the Senate and the Dail, and they hope that, as vacancies may occur, further members of the profession will be elected.

The securing of suitable premises wherein to carry on the work of the Society must, of necessity, remain in abeyance until the Society is placed in a financial position, by means of compensation for its destroyed property, to acquire such premises.

UNIVERSITY NEWS.

TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

The Senate of Dublin University met in the Theatre of Trinity College at 2 p.m. yesterday to consider Graces submitted by the board for the establishment of new degrees.

The caput consisted of the pro-Vice-Chancellor (Rev. Dr. Roberts, S.F.,T.C.D.), the Provost, and the pro-Senior Master Non-Regent (Professor Thrift, F.,T.C.D.).

The following degrees were established:—

Bachelor of Applied Science (Sc.B.Tech.).

Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering (B.A.I.Mech.).

Bachelor of Electrical Engineering (B.A.I.Elec.).

FUNERAL OF MR. M. J. DERHAM.

There was a large and representative gathering at the funeral of Mr. Michael J. Derham, T.D. for Co. Dublin, which took place yesterday morning after Requiem Mass at the Pro-Cathedral, Dublin. The interment was at Holmpatrick, Skerries.

The Governor-General was represented by Major-General T. Cullen, and President Cosgrave, who is indisposed, by Colonel J. O'Reilly. The Ministers present were—Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, and Mr. Finian Lynch. The attendance also included the Speaker, Deputy Speaker, and a large number of members of the Dail, Senators Farren and Counihan, the Clerk and Assistant Clerk of the Dail, and representative people from North Dublin.

The chief mourners were Mr. Derham's parents, sisters and brothers.

The Licensed Grocers' Association of Ireland were represented by Mr. T. F. Healy and Mr. M. Byrne.

NEW CHURCH TO OUR LADY OF LOURDES,
LR. GLOUCESTER STREET, DUBLIN.
A temporary Edifice has been erected on the site secured for the New Church, which is badly needed in this locality.
It is already crowded, and the Shrine has aroused a deep spirit of Devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes, with most beneficial results among the people.
The Accommodation afforded by the temporary Structure is inadequate. The Administrator strongly appeals to the Catholics of Dublin and of Ireland for the means to undertake the building of the New Church. The district being one of the most densely populated and poorest in the city, little pecuniary aid can be expected from it.
The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass will be offered EACH WEEK for Subscribers.
Subscriptions will be thankfully received by any of the Clergy, or by

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

The hunger strike was abandoned yesterday.—(Page 7.)

In the Dail yesterday the Labour Party's Bill for the nationalisation of the railways was given a first reading "without prejudice."—(Page 5.)

The terms of the Free State Loan were announced yesterday.—(Page 7.)

At the Dublin Commission yesterday James Flynn was convicted of the manslaughter of Anne Gaffney at Waterford by shooting her with a revolver, and was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment in the second division.—(Page 11.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Owing to fresh outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease in England all British ports, with the exception of three in Wales were closed to Irish cattle yesterday.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD

Two explosions followed by fire occurred on the British steamer, Otterburn, off Marseilles, yesterday. Ten lives were lost.—(Page 7.)

The German Cabinet has fallen.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

The Free State Loan.

We cannot improve upon Mr. Blythe's lucid explanation of the terms of the Free State Loan or on the cogency of his appeal to the citizens of the Saorstat. If the security is, in fact, good, an investment in this Loan of ten million pounds will be an excellent stroke of business. It offers a return slightly better than that from the British Five per cent. War Loan, with the further attraction of freedom from all the complications of "double" income tax. The Loan must be a success—not merely a respectable, but a brilliant, success—if, in the opinion of the Free State's investing public, its security, the national credit, is sound. Mr. O'Higgins said in Dail Eireann yesterday that the Free State's credit was "an unknown factor in the outside world," and for Irish students of our domestic situation it retains some elements of uncertainty. The extinction of those elements depends on two forces—the Free State's Government and its people. Mr. Blythe tells us what the Government has done and hopes to do. The people, if they will—for, as everybody knows, the means are not wanting—can do the rest. They are asked to-day to help to create the security which the welfare of the Loan demands. In other words, they are invited to combine an act of patriotism with a financial transaction. Mr. Blythe argues, and we are in the fullest agreement with him, that such an act of patriotism will be in itself a "business proposition" of the soundest and most lucrative kind. If this Loan is a great success, the national credit will be established once for all; the path will be clear for progress and the Free State's barometer will be "set fair."

We hope that the days of pessimism in the Saorstat are ended. Certainly the meeting at the Dublin Chamber of Commerce yesterday was an antidote for it, and similar meetings were held in Cork and Galway. We may say this morning that a truly important thing has happened within the last twenty-four hours. Hitherto the business community of the Free State, as a whole, has stood aloof from the administration, watching sympathetically, no doubt, but inactively, the Government's efforts to establish national peace. Old prejudices die slowly and settled institutions do not accommodate themselves readily to a new order of things. Now the business community has decided that the Free State Government has "made good," and has given it a very solid vote of confidence. The Dublin Chamber of Commerce has called for "active and liberal support of the Loan," and already substantial subscriptions are announced from some of the city's leading institutions. If the small investors throughout the Free State follow the example of the banks and great public companies—and there is every sign that they will not delay—the Loan will be not merely subscribed, but over-subscribed. This event must have reactions of the most beneficent kind on the national situation. It will put the country's finance on a new basis. It will inspire the Government with a new sense of authority and responsibility. Above all, it will create throughout the whole country a unifying consciousness of the duties and privileges of citizenship. The Loan is something far bigger than a business transaction: it represents a vital stage in the evolution of the Free State.

The national credit seemed to be in danger from two points. Concerning one of these Mr. Blythe gives us very satisfactory assurances. The reign of lawlessness is ended and cannot be restored. The Government is confident that it can deal successfully with the lingering traces of disorder and with any future challenge to the authority of the State. This belief is supported by the final collapse of the "hunger-strike" in the prisons and internment camps; and the time has come, perhaps, when, without any risk to the public safety, the Government can allow the majority of the Republican prisoners to return to their homes. The other danger to the national credit lay in the Government's failure to reduce expenditure. Here again Mr. Blythe's assurances are satisfactory, but there is this difference—that they have yet to be fulfilled. He promises that the pruning-hook will be applied diligently during the next three or four months and that the economies which the country demands will be effected. This promise must be kept, in the teeth, if need be, of the most stubborn opposition from any quarter. Its fulfilment, indeed, is a condition of the welfare of the national finance. The present Loan, as Mr. Shanks said yesterday, is only the precursor of a larger commitment, and the fate of the next Loan will depend on Mr. Blythe's ability to balance his Budget. He will be strengthened for this task, however, by the manner in which the country is rallying to the support of his present appeal. Yesterday's events have guaranteed the success of the Free State's first Loan.

Germany's Plight.

The German Government has fallen, and once again the fortunes of the Fatherland are in the melting pot. The end of the Stresemann Administration was not unexpected. Extremes are so popular in Germany at present that so-called "moderates" have little chance of success; and the Chancellor, during his comparatively brief term of office, incurred the bitter enmity not only of the Junker Party, but also of the Socialists. The Nationalists intrigued against him as a result of his firm attitude towards the Bavarian rebels; he became anathema to the Socialists after his dissolution of the Saxon Government. At yesterday's meeting of the Reichstag a vote of confidence in the Government was defeated by the large majority of 230 votes to 155. What will happen now? No party in the Reich can command an absolute majority in the Reichstag, and no leader except Dr. Stresemann has sufficient strength of character to attempt the task of government by a minority. Of course the recent Emergency Law gives the Chancellor power to dispense with Parliament altogether and to set up a dictatorship; but, apart from the undoubted hostility which would be shown by M. Poincaré towards such a course, matters in Germany are so bad that the life of a real dictator would be worth hardly a moment's purchase. The riots in Silesia and the Ruhr show in which direction the wind is blowing. In Silesia the Nationalist farmers and big landowners declared a boycott of the towns in order to force Dr. Stresemann's resignation. They refused to deliver any food for love or money, and some of the towns were reduced to a condition of virtual starvation when the workers decided to take the law into their own hands. They swept through the country-side, burning and pillaging the farmers' property, and many of the finest mansions in Eastern Germany have been destroyed. In the Ruhr the unemployed have followed Silesia's example, and armed conflicts already have taken place. Germany is rushing rapidly towards destruction and no foreign aid can save her. A Bismarck or a Bülow might be able, even at this late hour, to snatch the brand from the burning, but there is a conspicuous lack of real leadership in Germany to-day. The most obvious danger, of course, is that the Monarchists may seize the opportunity to make another bid for power; and the presence in Germany of the former Crown Prince intensifies this peril. The Allies cannot afford altogether to ignore these new developments; for, if Germany goes to the wall, they—or, at any rate, France—will experience difficulty in evading her fate.

Another Embargo.

On November 7th, owing to the discovery of an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease, all British ports were closed to Irish cattle. Within the short space of four days the Free State Government was able to prove that Ireland was absolutely clear of the scourge. Accordingly the embargo was raised on Monday, with the condition that all Irish cattle should be put in quarantine for a period of fourteen days from their debarkation in Britain. Now, less than a week after the raising of the embargo, comes the news of its re-imposition. An order was issued yesterday by the British Government closing all ports, with the exception of Holyhead, Fishguard and Cardiff, to Irish cattle. We have some sympathy with the British authorities, since they are faced with what may become a serious outbreak of this disease, and they are justified in taking all reasonable precautions. The precautions which they have taken in regard to Irish cattle, however, scarcely seem to be reasonable or fair. It has been shown beyond all doubt that this trouble did not originate in Ireland, but on the other side of the Channel. Already our cattle trade has suffered severely from the dislocation of traffic, and it seems to be likely that it will suffer still further losses. The Free State has a very real grievance in this matter. Apparently the British Board of Agriculture assumes that every outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease must have originated in this country and refuses to believe that infection is possible in England or Scotland. On previous occasions there may have been some excuse for this attitude, but now the researches of the Irish Department have established the Free State's immunity beyond yea or nay.

Public Parks.

Londoners are greatly pleased at the recent acquisition by the National Trust of the outstanding parts of the lands which are known as Box Hill. This purchase has been rendered possible through the organisation of public subscription funds by Country Life and by Lieutenant-Colonel R. W. Barclay, the High Sheriff of Surrey. Box Hill, which lies in Surrey, is the largest publicly owned property within fifty miles of London. It is a place of rare beauty—Viscount Grey has described it as "one of the most notable, interesting and beautiful parts of the earth's crust." London continues to grow and, as it grows, its people tend to make their homes in the suburbs or beyond them. All around London, therefore, building has been rapidly on the increase. Now there is at least one fine piece of land which will be safe from the builder for all time. Every great city needs places which can be used as holiday grounds. They must not be too remote if people are to get there and back in a day and if the poor man is to be able to afford the journey. Such a place is Box Hill, which already has become extremely popular as a pleasure ground. Lord Grey said that it cost a good deal to make Box Hill beautiful again after a Bank Holiday, and that is sufficient evidence of its popularity. Dublin has not begun to feel the pressing need of such resorts. Our city is so splendidly situated that in an hour's time the citizen can lose himself in delightful scenery in almost every direction. Nevertheless, some day Dublin may expand to such a size that the preservation to the public of Howth Head, perhaps, and the Three Rock Mountain may become a real necessity.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King went to Windsor from Buckingham Palace on Thursday and enjoyed a good day's sport over the Home Farm coverts, though the weather was not very propitious. His Majesty returned to London in the evening. The Queen, according to her usual custom, has begun to make her Christmas purchases, and has selected a number of presents at the shops.

* * *

The Prince of Wales has promised to attend the Victoria League ball, which, by kind permission of Major the Hon. John and Lady Violet Astor, will take place at 18 Carlton House terrace, London, on December 12th. The Duchess of Atholl, the Marchioness of Londonderry, the Marchioness of Salisbury, the Countess of Shaftesbury, the Countess of Kerry, Countess Beatty, Lady Moyra Cavendish, Lady Stanley and other well-known people are taking an active interest in the entertainment.

* * *

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden are expected to return to London during the first week of December. They will stay with the Dowager Marchioness of Milford Haven at Kensington Palace, before they start for Sweden, where they will arrive in time for the Christmas festivities.

Lord Ardee, eldest son of the twelfth Earl of Meath, K.P., is fifty-four to-day. He has seen much active service during his military career, was wounded twice, and has been awarded several distinctions. Having commanded the Irish Guards for some time, he retired in 1919 with the rank of Honorary Brigadier-General. By his marriage with Lady Aileen Wyndham Quin, youngest daughter of the Earl of Dunraven, he has one son, born in 1910, and two daughters.

* * *

Lord Ventry, Lady de Blaquière, Lord Glanely, Lord and Lady Bearsted and the Hon. Mrs. Levy are among the latest arrivals at Bath. Lord and Lady Plunket have arrived at Cannes, but will return in about a fortnight to Frinhurst, the place which they have taken near Aldershot. Lady Montgomery and Sir William and Lady Rutherford are among the latest departures for Paris.

* * *

Lord Bingham, elder son and heir of the fifth Earl of Lucan, is twenty-five to-day. He holds a lieutenant's commission in the Coldstream Guards and served with distinction through the European War, and was awarded the Military Cross.

* * *

General Sir John Maxwell and Lady Maxwell, Lady Diana Duff Cooper, Lieutenant-Colonel C. G. Dansey, Colonel J. C. Groome and Lieutenant-Colonel C. Bovill are among the passengers who will leave for New York to-day on the ss. Aquitania. The Hon. Kenneth and Mrs. Williamson have sailed for South America. Mrs. Stanley McCormick has arrived in London from New York and is staying at the Hyde Park Hotel.

LUXOR DISCOVERIES.

AN AWE-INSPIRING SIGHT.

LUXOR, Friday.

This morning, in the course of extremely rapid work which is approaching a conclusion, the doors of the gold Faience Shrine within the sepulchre were opened. At the end of last season, after the discovery of the shrine, a brief description was given of what was immediately behind these doors. Now it is possible to give more details of what is certainly a wondrous and awe-inspiring sight. Within the first is a second shrine, with doors bolted, corded, and sealed with the clay seal of the Royal necropolis. The seal is intact, just as it was when placed there 3,270 years ago, which would imply that what lies behind these two doors has not been touched since it was first deposited there.

* * * * * *

Between the doors of the two shrines lie, or stand, numbers of beautiful objects. Foremost among them is an alabaster vase, mounted in silver and gold. There are two "Hapi"—God of the Nile—figures, one on each side, crowned with the emblems of Upper and Lower Egypt, and hold, one in the right and the other in the left arm, the standards of Upper and Lower Egypt, surmounted by the Royal cobras, and bearing the white crown of Upper Egypt and the red crown of Lower Egypt. On the lid of the vase is a figure of the goddess, Mut, in the form of a vulture. The vase is a most exquisite piece of work, the finest yet discovered, but, unfortunately, its contents, which are of some fatty nature, have caused the neck to burst.

Beside it stands a cosmetic vase in calcite, upon the lid of which is a lion, with a long, red tongue protruding, and the sides of which are decorated. The vase has at either end hathor columns, one receiving the hinge, and the other receiving the fastenings.

* * * * * *

Leaning against the north-east corner, within the outer shrine, are a number of fine gilt staves, a mace, and a Uas sceptre, while at the south-east corner is another stack of Royal staves, a mace, and a golden bow.

Over the inner shrine is a large wooden structure, which supports an enormous linen pall, decorated with innumerable golden rosettes. The structure is bolted and corded, which affords an additional reason for the belief that what lies behind has not been tampered with. The greater portion of the forepart of the pall has fallen, no doubt owing to the weight of the metal rosettes upon it. The fallen portion of the pall covers many of the articles mentioned, and until it is removed it will not be possible to give a final list of the objects lying between the two shrines.

* * * * * *

The interior of the outer shrine is completely gilt and covered with numerous religious texts. The second shrine is of similar form, and has, on the front frieze, a great winged solar disc, while on the panels of its doors are representations of King Tut-Ankh-Amen. On the right hand door he is seen worshipping before Isis. These scenes are in incised relief, overlaid with gold, and are of the finest workmanship. Above the figures of these scenes are vertical lines of hieroglyph texts, which appear to be of a purely religious nature. The deciphering of these texts will be postponed until Dr. Alan Gardiner, the well-known philologist arrives.—(Times telegram—copyright.)

£3,500 PENSION.

ANNUITY FOR SIR CHARLES DARLING.

It is announced in the London Gazette that an annuity of £3,500 has been granted to Sir Charles Darling, the ex-Judge.

SCOTT EXPEDITION RECALLED.

DEATH OF FLYING OFFICER ABBOTT.

Flying Officer Abbott, who was attached to Captain Scott's expedition to the South Pole, has died at Henley Aerodrome, near Hitchin. He was one of those in the tent from which Captain Oates went out to his death. Flying Officer Abbott was 42 years of age. His death was due to pneumonia. He leaves a wife and two children. Flying Officer Abbott will be buried with military honours at Northampton on Monday next.

CLEANER STREETS IN DUBLIN.

NEW CLEANSING APPARATUS.

A motor watering and flushing machine of Leyland make, which can be used as an auxiliary fire engine, has been acquired by the Cleansing Department of the Dublin Corporation. It was tested at Stoneybatter yesterday.

Its purpose being to facilitate the work of street sweeping, the new machine has a tank capacity of 2,000 gallons. The water is ejected at a high pressure through four pipes at the back of the apparatus, and spreads in a steady stream, which partly removes the mud and dirt. The sweeping machine follows and completes the cleansing.

Dublin's flusher is claimed to be the largest in use in Britain or Ireland. It cost £1,500

The Streets Committee have also purchased two additional motor sweepers from the Laffley Company, Paris, so that six of these machines will be at work this winter, and have on order from the Leyland Company three 5-ton lorries specially designed for house refuge collection.

ULSTER SAVING CERTIFICATES.

A NEW ISSUE.

The Northern Minister of Finance announces that the first series of Ulster saving certificates will be withdrawn from sale at the close of business on Friday, 30th November, and will be replaced immediately by a new issue. The purchase price of the new certificate will be the same as that of the first issue—viz., 12/6; but it will take 12 years instead of 10 for the certificates to accumulate to £1.

The maximum holding of certificates for any individual will, in future, be 400 £1 certificates. This maximum includes certificates purchased before, or after, 1st December, 1923, but does not affect persons who, before that date, already held certificates of the first issue, in excess of £400; as in the case of the first issue the principal and interest of the certificates are charged on the Consolidated Fund of Northern Ireland, and are guaranteed by the Imperial Government.

During the week ended November 17 the actual cash invested in Ulster Saving Certificates reached and passed the total of £1,000,000. The actual amount invested since 1st April, 1922, was £1,013,011, representing value for 1,620,818 Certificates. The average number of Certificates sold per week is, therefore, over 19,000.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND CLERGY STIPENDS.

The Press Bureau of the Church of England issued a statement yesterday to the effect that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have taken a further step towards improving the stipends of the clergy of the Church of England. The Commissioners have decided to undertake, as soon as possible, the augmentation of all benefices which are, or may become, in private patronage, as follows:—£400 if the population is 4,000 or more; £350 if 1,000 or more, and £300 if the population is 300 or more.

LONDON LETTER.

CONSERVATIVE CONFIDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

I had a chat to-day with an official of the Central Conservative headquarters. There they are very well satisfied with the reports that reach them from most of the constituencies, and are confident that the Government majority will show little, if any, diminution.

Some little anxiety is felt, however, as to the prospects of the party in Scotland. It is believed that only about five seats are likely to be held, including that of Sir Robert Horne, in Glasgow. There were few Scottish Conservatives in the late Parliament, and it seems possible that there may be still fewer in the next.

It is the business of party organisations to be confident, and I have no doubt that in Abingdon street and Eccleston square similar hopes are expressed. It is always difficult to forecast the result of a general election, and on this occasion the problem is exceptionally abstruse owing to the many cross-currents involved.

A Pis Aller.

So far as I can judge, a majority of the electors in London would like to see Mr. Baldwin returned to power, not because they altogether like or understand his policy, but because they regard him as a "straight" man and would prefer him to be in charge of the government of the country rather than Mr. Lloyd George or Mr. Ramsay Macdonald.

The Danger of Apathy.

The chief danger to the Conservative cause is apathy. People do not clearly understand the issues which they are asked to decide, and it has to be admitted that the Conservative leaders have not been too successful in making them clear. There is a good deal of fog about the political atmosphere, and this ought to be dispersed. The Liberals are declaring that Protection in any shape or form would mean rank ruin to the country by its disastrous effects on trade and industry, while the Conservatives seem to content themselves generally with the assertion that it is a good thing which is enjoyed by most other countries. The voter of to-day requires something rather more definite than this, and he will have to get it or he will not take the trouble to vote.

Shipping and Protection.

I was in conversation to-day with one of the greatest experts in the City of London, and I asked what he thought about the prospects of shipping, should Protection come about. He thought that there would be very little change in the conditions attending shipping and shipbuilding generally. Virtually the same amount of material will always have to be carried about from country to country, while more trade might be hoped for from the Dominions. He pointed out that because this country might have Protection it does not mean that other countries will stop trading with us, but it might mean wider markets and more open ports. These remarks are interesting, because my authority is not a hide-bound Conservative or Protectionist himself.

Preparing for Protection.

Should the Conservative Party return to power, no time will be lost in proceeding with the proposals for the protection of the home market against foreign competition. Good progress is being made by the Advisory Committee recently appointed, and the Departmental Committee of the Board of Trade, and a report from the Joint Committee is expected to be issued towards the end of next month containing particulars of the duties which it is considered advisable to impose. In that case, assuming that the Government has a majority sufficient to carry the proposals, the new import duties will be included in the next Budget. The Committee is sitting three times a week, and will continue to do so until the report on the duties is completed.

"The Home Fires."

The Conservative organisation is now getting its second wind, and it is sending out series of posters which should prove most attractive. New verses to the slogan "Keep the Homes Fires Burning" have been written by the score, and rejected just as quickly as they were penned, owing to mistakes or false quantities in the scanning. One good verse, however, has been evolved, and this will be printed for the meetings to take place next week.

Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Lloyd George left London this morning for his tour in the North, which is really to be a bearing of the fiery cross; for he will flit from place to place, spreading his views and passing on with the utmost rapidity. The tour is the biggest of its kind in British political history. No expense has been spared, and everything possible has been done to bring up the organisation attending it to the highest pitch of efficiency. Overflow meetings are to be able to listen to the speeches by broadcasting methods, and it is expected that during the next few days Mr. Lloyd George will address many millions of voters.

An Experiment.

I am rather wondering whether the broadcasting experiment will be altogether a success. Mr. Lloyd George has already had experience of it in America, but there the conditions were rather different: for he was addressing an actual meeting, though his words were also conveyed to thousands of listeners-in. Here, I understand, the arrangements will be rather different. At Bolton, for example, the crowd will assemble on the Wanderers football ground, and Mr. Lloyd George, in the comparative solitude of a room in the pavilion, will "speak his piece" into a microphone. Now, there is no orator in the country who depends more for his effects upon the response of his audience. Somehow, I cannot imagine Mr. Lloyd George at his best unless he has the cheers—and even the interruptions—of a flesh-and-blood audience to stimulate him.

A Veteran.

A veteran of the present election is Sir J. T. Agg-Gardner, Chairman of the Kitchen Committee in the late House of Commons. He is standing again for Cheltenham, to which he has been faithful all through his political career. He was defeated there as long ago as 1868, but secured election in 1874, only to be beaten again in 1880. He came back in 1885, and survived the subsequent elections of 1886 and 1892. In 1895 he was not a candidate, but he was elected again in 1900. The débâcle of 1906 claimed him as one of its victims, but he returned at a by-election in 1911, and was again elected in 1918 and 1922. This, therefore, will be his twelfth contest.

Honours.

The Prime Minister distributed no Honours List at the dissolution, a fact which gave rise to some comment in political circles, but the reason why he did not do so was made clear to-day. The dissolution took place as a result of a decision of the Government to take the verdict of the country on a particular point, and not because it had been defeated in the House of Commons. There will be no question of an Honours List unless the Government's appeal is rejected at the polls. Honours, however, do not seem to be in demand just now. Few members of Parliament betray any great anxiety to get into the House of Lords, and some refuse to go there when invited to take a Peerage to help the Government in a difficult situation. Sr Frederick Banbury is a case in point. He was asked to take a Peerage to provide a seat in the City but he declined, and he is again a candidate at the present election.

IRISH FREE STATE LOAN.

£10,000,000 5 PER CENT. STOCK AT £95.

"AN INSURANCE AGAINST IRREGULARISM."

—MR. BLYTHE.

MINISTER ON ECONOMY.

A Government Sinking Fund to Prevent Depreciation.

Four Points Premium Expected within a Year.

£400,000 ALREADY PROMISED.

THE prospectus is published to-day of the Irish Free State Loan of £10,000,000. Yesterday meetings were held in Dublin, in Cork, and in Galway, and the terms and the conditions under which the loan is being issued were explained to the business men of the Free State. At the meeting of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, where Mr. Ernest Blythe spoke, it was stated that several large sums, amounting to nearly £400,000, had already been promised.

"A subscription to the loan," declared Mr. Blythe, "is an insurance against a renewal of disorder." Other striking points from his speech were:—

The attempt to destroy the State by force of arms has been definitely defeated. There is no need to fear any renewal of the attempt.

We will not borrow for the ordinary recurrent charges on the Government.

You cannot effect your economies with a stroke of the pen.

We realise that this State could not go on at the present rate of expenditure. . . . Within the next three or four months the pruning hook will be diligently applied.

The fact that our income tax is higher than the British income tax is sending people and capital out of the country.

I realise how necessary it is that we should reduce taxation.

We will bring the expenditure down to what the country can afford.

No one need fear that we are going to have an extravagant Government.

I venture to say that the man who invests in our loan will have the advantage of four points appreciation inside twelve months.

No undue importance must be attached to the fact that there were forty-four representatives of Irregularism returned at the last election. . . . They polled only about one-fourth of the total poll.

There is going to be no swing-over of this country to Irregularism.

The conditions that bred and spread Irregularism are being steadily removed. The prisoners are being let out. The wretched hunger-strike that has been going on for a month has finally collapsed.

The foundations are being cut away from Irregularism.

The interest will be charged on the Central Fund and will have priority over all the ordinary services of the Government.

The books of the issue will be kept as separate registers in Cork and Dublin.

The dividend will be paid without deduction of the Free State income tax; but, of course, the income derived from dividends will be assessable. . . . The small investor will not be put to the trouble of claiming a refund.

The Free State undertake to set aside at the close of each half-year a sum equal to 3½ per cent on the nominal amount of the Loan originally created, which, after deducting the amount for interest, will be carried to a sinking fund. If Stock falls below par the Government can buy it on the market and cancel it. I think that, under the circumstances, there is no danger of depreciation.

I believe that the successful flotation of this Loan is the last thing that is required to put the State steady on its feet.

If this Loan is a success there is nobody who has an interest in disorder—whether for political reasons or private reasons—who will have any hope that the long, strong arm of the State will not be able to reach them.

Our recuperative power is strong enough to make good all that has been lost. What is wanted now is really confidence. Confidence is really a thing we make ourselves.

This Loan of ours will give a better yield than other gilt investments, which had no better security behind them than ours has.

We want this Loan to be spread all over the country, and we want as many separate investors as we can possibly get.

I believe that the issue of this Loan marks the beginning of a new and fresh stage in national progress.

I have no doubt that this Loan is going to be a success. I have letters from people telling me that they are going to invest sums running far into six figures.

We want to do as well as we possibly can, because a good response now will get us cheaper money in the future.

MR. BLYTHE'S SPEECH IN FULL.

"CARRIED without dissent in one of the most satisfactory and representative meetings that has ever been held in this Chamber," declared Mr. James Shanks, President of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, when he, as Chairman, had put a resolution approving of the issue by the Free State Government of an internal national Loan, to an exceptionally large meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce, held in the Chamber, Dame street, Dublin, yesterday afternoon.

The meeting was specially called for the purpose of hearing an address from the Minister of Finance (Mr. Ernest Blythe), on the subject of the issue of a national Loan.

Mr. Ernest Blythe, the Minister of Finance, who was enthusiastically received, said:—

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I think we may say without any egotism that this is a momentous occasion. We meet here to assist in doing the last thing that is necessary to put this new Irish Free State firmly and steadily on its feet. The new State has had a rough passage, but there is no doubt now that it will survive and will thrive. (Hear, hear.) We who have had the main responsibility on our shoulders during the past year or more feel that the load is already lighter. The attempt to destroy the State by force of arms has been definitely defeated.

"There is no need to fear any renewal of that attempt. The Government, pressed even by friends and well-wishers to effect a compromise, which would have left a danger of a renewal of the conflict, refused to compromise. We have now come to a stage when the people need not fear a renewal of the campaign of destruction of last year. No person need have any doubts in that regard.

"There are districts where there is disorder to some extent, where there is blackguardism, and where you have an odd little 'hold up,' but we are getting before them and we will suppress them. Whatever odd little isolated incidents may occur, no person need fear we are going to see any renewal of any widespread organised disorder. That is one thing we have to bear in mind when we are considering the probabilities of stability here.

"We have to look, on the other hand, to the financial condition. During the past eighteen months the country has had a heavy burden thrown on it in respect of Army charges and in respect of compensation for damage done during the conflict. It is to meet this heavy liability that we have to borrow.

ECONOMIES PROMISED.

"That is not such a serious matter, because we are satisfied that there will be no increase in that particular sort of liability. We will not borrow for the ordinary recurrent charges in the Government. At the present moment, as I indicated in the Dail, ordinary recurrent charges do exceed revenue. We propose to reduce them so that they will not exceed revenue, but will be less than the revenue.

"I do not want to utter promises. I would prefer to do the thing and not make the promises, but you cannot effect your economies in all cases by a stroke of the pen.

"When we were dealing with the problem of disorder we were accused of being half-hearted. We were accused of being dilatory; we were accused of being weak. I do not say we took the best possible course on every occasion. I do not say that we never made mistakes. We were human, and we made mistakes. We often failed to do the best thing we could have done, but we acted conscientiously according to our lights.

"We acted with no desire to gain popularity; we acted with no desire to avoid odium or blame. We acted with one desire in our minds and hearts—that was, doing what was necessary for the public good. I will promise you this—that the group of men who bore the odium that we had to bear during the past year are prepared with as much firmness to do the necessary work now in respect of finance as had to be done in respect of military work and military responsibility to the forces of the Government during the past year.

"We realise that this State could not go on at the present rate of expenditure. We realise that this country cannot afford an increase of taxation to balance the Budget. We realise very well, indeed, that it does need a decrease of taxation. I, for instance, realise very well that the fact that our income tax is higher than the British income tax is sending people and is sending capital out of the country—(hear, hear)—and I realise as well as any man in this room how necessary it is that we should reduce taxation.

"That is realised by all the members of the Government, and I can promise everyone here that during these next three or four months they will see that the pruning hook is diligently applied. I can simply point to our past record in doing the work we had to do, as earnest of our intention to carry that out. We will bring the expenditure of government in this country down to what the country can afford.

"As I have said, the armed resistance to the State has been broken. We may look for stability; we may look for ordinary normal relations here in the future.

TERMS OF THE LOAN.

"We are going to issue our Loan now. The amount will be ten millions. That will suffice for our present needs. Some of the liability, a great part of the liability, in respect of compensation for malicious damage will not occur for a considerable period.

FIRST LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Messrs. Guinness	300,000
Hibernian Insurance Co.	59,000
Dublin and South-Eastern Railway	25,000
Royal Dublin Society	10,000

"In the case of many awards reinstatement conditions will be attached, and the money will have to be paid only as the work progresses and as the architects' or engineers' certificates come in.

"Ten million pounds will suffice for the present. That will be a Five per cent. Loan, and it will be issued at £95.

"Now, I venture to make a prophecy. South Africa lately issued a Five per cent. Loan at £99 10s. That Loan was oversubscribed, I think, within a few hours. It stands something above issue price. I venture to say that in twelve months from now the credit of the Irish Free State will stand as high as the credit of South Africa. (Applause.) I venture to say that the man who invests in our Loan to-day will have the advantage of four points appreciation inside of twelve months.

"No undue importance must be attached to the fact that there were forty-four representatives of Irregularism returned at the last election. There is a big body of Republicans in the South African Parliament. People who were returned here at the last election were returned just at the end of a period of civil war. They were returned at a time when very many people had relatives in prison—there were 13,000 people in prison camps.

"They were returned at a time when, in some counties, large numbers of people had paid no rates or any debts for two or three years. For instance, in the County Leitrim—where there is a Local Government Commissioner instead of the County Council—until the election was announced rates were coming in at £5,000 or £6,000 a week. When the election was announced word was sent round by Irregulars—'Don't pay; for if we are returned you'll never have to pay.' (Laughter.) And the receipts sank from £5,000 a week to £50 or £60 a week, until the election was over.

"You had everybody in the country who had a debt that he thought he could escape paying; everybody who had a spite against a soldier or a member of the Dail; everybody who had a relative in prison voted for the Irregular nominees. But, in spite of that, they polled only about one-fourth of the total poll.

NO RECURRENCE OF DISORDER.

"Anybody who looks the facts in the face—who looks back at the history of the past eighteen months or two years—need see no cause for alarm in that. That was the crest of the wave. As I said before, nobody need fear that there will be any recurrence of armed disorder; and I pledge my word for it here that no one need fear that we are going to have a period of extravagant administration.

"We who have had to do very hard and very unpleasant things during the past year are not going to have our labour go for nothing in the financial collapse of the country. (Applause.) What we had to do was no picnic. We did it out of a sense of duty, and we are not going to lose the result in extravagance. There is not going to be extravagance.

"There is going to be no swing over of this country to Irregularism. The conditions that bred and spread Irregularism are being steadily removed. The prisoners are being let out. The wretched hunger-strike that has been going on for a month has finally collapsed to-day. (Hear, hear.) People who tried not to are being made to pay their debts; the poteen-makers who were defrauding the revenue are being hunted down, fined heavily and sent to jail; all the things that gave a vested interest to disorder and crime are being removed. The foundations are being cut away from Irregularism. I ask everybody here to bear those facts in mind when considering the attractiveness of the proposal which we are putting before them.

"The Loan, as I have said, is a Five per cent. Loan, issued at 95, and the interest will be payable on the 1st June and the 1st December. There will be 2 per cent. payable on the 1st June. The principal will be repayable at par on the 1st December, 1945, or, at the option of the Government of the Free State, on or after the 1st December, 1935, at three months notice given in the official Gazette.

"The instalments will be £10 per cent. on application, £20 on allotment, £30 on the 18th January, and £35 on the 22nd February. In the case of people who pay in full on allotment there will be discount at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum. Applications must be made in £10 or multiples thereof. The Stock is a trustee investment. The interest will be charged on the Central Fund and will have priority over all the ordinary services of Government.

BOOKS IN CORK AND DUBLIN.

"The books of the issue will be kept as separate registers in Cork and in Dublin. This is the first time that a register of Government Stock has been kept in the principal office of the Bank of Ireland in Cork. The Stock can be dealt with in any sum that is a multiple of a penny, which will allow trustees in charge of broken sums to invest them.

"The dividend will be paid without deduction of the Free State income tax, but, of course, the income derived from such dividends will be assessable at the rate to which the individual is liable. This, we hope, will be attractive to the small investor, who, if he does not come within the income tax limits, will not be put to the trouble of claiming a refund of the tax.

"The Government of the Free State undertake to set aside at the close of each half-year a sum equal to 3½ per cent. on the nominal amount of the Loan originally created, which, after deducting the amount for interest, will be carried to a sinking fund. If Stock falls below par the Government can buy it on the market and cancel it.

"I think that, under the circumstances, there is no danger of depreciation. I think that if we look the whole facts squarely in the face that that is a conclusion that is fully justified. We all, I presume, have interests in this country. We are living in this country and are going to live in this country. We are all concerned in the stability of the country. As I said, I believe that the successful flotation of this Loan is the last thing that is required to put the State steady on its feet.

"I believe that if this appeal is generously responded to that we will dismay and dishearten those interested in instability. We will show that the last hope they had is gone.

"We have had the propagandists saying that the Free State will go burst because it cannot borrow, and we have friends—people who wanted order and lawful conditions and security—responding to that propaganda and shaking their heads; and so we have had an atmosphere that gave some hope of result to those who persevered in their agitation for the overthrow of the Free State. If this Loan is a success there will be no hope left. If this Loan is a success there is nobody who has an interest in disorder—whether for political reasons or private reasons—who will have any hope that the long, strong arm of the State will not be able to reach them.

CONFIDENCE WANTED.

"What is wanted now in this country to get perfectly peaceful conditions is to convince everyone—whether it is the robber around the mountains of West Cork or the poteen-maker in County Monaghan—that there is confidence in this State and that there is support behind it, and that its long arm will reach out and pin them. If we succeed in convincing everybody that that is a fact, the prospects of this State and country are very hopeful, indeed.

"The damage that has been done is not damage from which we cannot recover. Our recuperative power is strong enough to make good all that has been lost. What is wanted now is really confidence. Confidence is really a thing we make ourselves.

"Anything that can be done to create confidence in the Loan is an insurance against a recurrence of disorder. This Loan of ours will give a better yield than other gilt investments, which had no better security behind them than ours has. In addition to that I say this—that a subscription to this Loan is an insurance against a renewal of disorder.

"There is a duty on every man to promote well-ordered conditions in our country. It will benefit him, and it will also benefit all his neighbours. And I would appeal to every one in the room to see that this appeal, this first appeal of the Free State, is a striking success. (Applause.)

"Those who have finances at their disposal—those who have most to give—should give it towards the security and stabilised conditions in the country. From the point of view of a business proposition the investment is a good one; and I would also appeal to those who have not much funds at their disposal to do all that they can in the matter, because we want this Loan to be spread all over the country, and we want as many separate investors as we can possibly get. We also want all classes and conditions of the people to be interested in the State in the way that they could hold the Stock of the State.

"I also want the people to take an active interest in the public administration. No matter what group of men you put into power, no matter how well-intentioned they may be, no matter how interested they may be in their work, you cannot have good administration unless the public takes a keen interest in it.

"Unless you have a lynx eye kept on them,

WHY THE LOAN IS ISSUED.

STATEMENT BY MR. O'HIGGINS.

£750,000 FOR INTEREST AND SINKING FUND.

Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Minister for Home Affairs, in the Dail yesterday:—

"I have been asked by the Minister for Finance to make a short explanatory statement with regard to the loan which is about to be issued. The loan consists of ten millions of 5 per cent. stock issued at 95 per cent. These terms are very favourable to investors, in comparison with gilt-edged issues at present on the market. The British 5 per cent. War Loan is quoted at over 100. The Commonwealth Government of Australia recently issued a 5 per cent. loan in London at 99, and the present quotation is nearly 100. South Africa also issued recently a 5 per cent. loan at 99½, and the present quotation is slightly in excess of the issue price.

"The better terms granted by the Free State are due primarily to the fact that the credit of the country is an unknown factor in the outside world. In fact, the financial position of the Free State should be at least as sound as that of the Dominion Governments mentioned in the preceding paragraph, and the actual security afforded for the present loan, namely, the Central Fund, may be regarded as absolute.

"A substantial sinking fund is provided in connection with this loan. This will tend to keep up the market price after issue, as the sinking fund will be used to purchase stock that may be quoted on the market at or under par. For the purposes of the loan generally, £750,000 a year is set aside. Out of this the interest on outstanding stock will be paid, and the balance, which will increase automatically as the years go on, will be used for the purpose of the sinking fund.

"The loan is a trustee security for trustees in the Free State.

"For the convenience of Southern subscribers and of the Cork Stock Exchange, a register of the loan is being established in Cork. This is the first time that a Government's Stock Register is being maintained in that city. It will enable dealings in the loan to take place expeditiously in Cork, and without any necessity for brokers having to pass on their business to outside centres.

"Dividends will be paid without any deduction of income tax at the source. Persons receiving such dividends who are not within the income tax limit will, therefore, be saved any trouble about applying for refunds of tax.

"Another advantage of the loan is that there is a prospect that the substantial yield which it allows will be payable over a considerable period of years. The loan is not bound to be redeemed until 1945, but the Government has an option of redemption in 1935, or later. It is probable that holders can count upon keeping the loan until 1945. In the case of the British 5 p.c. War Loan the position in this respect is much less satisfactory. In that case redemption must take place not later than 1947, but the Government may redeem in 1929. It is highly probable that the power to redeem in 1929 will be exercised by the British Government in that case.

"This characteristic of the Free State loan makes it of special value to trustees and others who want to obtain a good income over a considerable period.

"The fact that the loan is primarily an internal issue has several advantages. An issue abroad would have to be made at a less favourable rate. This would directly result in imposing a heavier burden on the Exchequer, and therefore tending to keep taxation at a high level. Moreover, the dividends received by home subscribers will swell their income and assist the yield of income tax, whereas dividends paid to foreigners produce no similar return for this country. Again, borrowing abroad is one of several methods by which inflation can most readily be achieved. This evil is far less likely to arise when the Government borrows from the savings of the country itself.

"It may be suggested that the Government should go directly to the banks for the money that it requires, and ask them to supply its needs out of the large deposits that they hold.

"The answer is that the Government have already done this on the limited scale on which a loan is justifiable. Larger borrowing by the Government from the banks would be directly inflationary, and could not be reconciled with sound principles of finance. The same objections do not arise if individuals who have deposits in the bank take steps to transfer them to the Government by way of subscription to the loan.

"The co-operation of all substantial holders of money is very important for the loan, and it is very desirable that they should understand that the commercial interests of the country will benefit greatly through the loan being a success. Taxation will thereby tend to be kept down, and the credit and stability of the country assured. The establishing of a sound credit now will contribute directly towards the financing of the State on a cheaper basis in future.

"The terms of the loan, however, make special provision also for attracting small investors. The loan can be obtained in blocks as small as £10, and even that amount can be subscribed by instalments spread over a period of three months. The numerous advantages of having many small investors in Government securities scattered throughout the country need no emphasis."

Mr. O'Higgins added that he had been asked by the Minister of Finance to invite the hearty co-operation of the members of the Dail and Senate in making the loan the success it ought to be, and towards making it a great act of faith on the part of the people of the country in their own future as a self-governing community. (Applause.)

"TWO PER CENT. INTEREST."

MR. BLYTHE'S EXPLANATION.

With reference to the prospectus of the Irish Free State 5 per cent. National Loan, 1935-45, published to-day, the Minister of Finance desires to draw attention to the fact that the statement in the prospectus that 2 per cent. interest is payable on the 1st June, 1924, refers only to instalment allotments as provided for in the prospectus. In the case of fully-paid applications of £95 per cent., for which separate provision has been made on the special Form "B," a full half-year's interest, namely—£2 10s. (two pounds ten shillings) per cent. will be paid on the 1st June next.

On the terms of the prospectus a commission of 5s. per cent. is payable in respect of applications made through bankers, stockbrokers, and financial houses to the extent to which such applications receive allotment.

Sir Edward Hulton has presented £75,000 to the staff of the newspapers he controlled until recently.

STRESEMANN DEFEATED.

FALL OF GERMAN CABINET.

NO CONFIDENCE.

JUNKERS FOR A DICTATORSHIP.

The German Cabinet has fallen and Dr. Stresemann, the Chancellor, with it.

This is the result of a vote yesterday in the Reichstag, which, by 230 to 155, rejected a vote of confidence in the Government.

Dr. Stresemann, who has had three months' office as Chancellor, succeeded Dr. Cuno last August, and it fell to him to announce Germany's termination of passive resistance in the Ruhr. The effects of this "surrender" have been seen in his precarious political position ever since.

A DICTATORSHIP.

HERR STRESEMANN'S CHALLENGE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Friday.

While the Reichstag debate went on drowsily throughout the day, the Extreme Junkers were reported to be hatching a plot to overturn constitutional government, and proclaim a Dictatorship.

One of the chief Nationalist organs in Berlin to-night sneers at what it calls "Parliamentary chatter," and declares that "something really striking will happen in the next few hours."

General Von Seeckt's edict issued to-day, dissolving the Communist and violent reactionary organisations, is interpreted as a first effort of defence on the part of the authorities against a contemplated new "putsch."

The Reichstag debate has been noteworthy by reason of the Chancellor's blunt challenge for a vote of confidence or no confidence in his Cabinet.

"I want no quibbling or Parliamentary arithmetical tricks in the matter of voting," he said, and at his request, therefore, the Coalition parties introduced a vote of direct confidence in the Government, and at seven o'clock the vote was taken, and Dr. Stresemann was defeated by 230 to 155.

Dr. Stresemann immediately summoned a meeting of the Cabinet. His downfall is due partly to a vendetta against him by the Nationalists on account of his Ruhr "surrender" and partly to general disappointment at the failure of his policy.

He promised the country, as a result of the Ruhr surrender, an understanding with France, financial improvement and an economic recovery. But Germany is deeper in the morass than at any moment since the Armistice. The country has definitely turned from Parliamentary government and is hankering after a dictatorship.

Later.

Dr. Stresemann announces that he will advise the President to appoint a new Chancellor as soon as possible. He is carrying on current business in the meantime.

EXPLOSION & FIRE AT SEA.

10 LIVES LOST ON BRITISH STEAMER.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Friday.

An explosion, resulting in the loss of ten lives, occurred early this morning on the British steamer Otterburn, 4,224 tons, off Marseilles.

The vessel, which belongs to the Guernsey Shipping Co., Ltd., left Marseilles last night at 7 o'clock for New York. The first news that something was wrong on board was conveyed by a wireless message from the vessel asking for help, but gave no indication of the nature of the trouble. A tug was being sent, when, at 20 minutes to 1 o'clock this morning, two explosions were heard out at sea, and a thick cloud of smoke was seen on the horizon.

Two pilot boats, which were immediately sent out, found the Otterburn enveloped in flames. Both anchors had been thrown out, and from the chains the French rescuers picked up three members of the crew, who had been hurled into the water by the explosions and had swum back to the ship.

On the fore-deck, which was not seriously attacked by the flames, were ten sailors and firemen, two of them injured. All were rescued.

The first mate and three of the crew refused to leave the ship, hoping that the fire boat fro mMarseilles would arrive in time to check the spread of the fire and to permit the Otterburn to be kept afloat. from Marseilles would arrive in time to check of victims. This morning 25 members of the crew are reported to have been brought into port, and it is stated that 10 are yet missing.

It is established that stowaways were concealed on board, and it is thought that they may have numbered as many as a dozen.

When the flames began to get hold a number of strange men appeared on deck, and threw themselves into the sea, but how many must have perished in the hold cannot be said.

The cause of the disaster, it is thought, may prove to be traceable to the presence of these clandestine passengers. Accounts by survivors appear to indicate that the trouble began with a breakdown in the engine room, followed at intervals by two explosions. The engines were completely wrecked, and almost immediately flames rose from the hatches.

The police, who have been on board, put forward the theory that one of the stowaways, alarmed at the stopping of the ship, struck a match to help him to find out what was happening, and so produced the explosion.

The cargo included some barrels of chlorate of potash.

The name of the captain, who is missing, is given as Wilson. Others missing are Thomas Turnbull, seaman; John Aily (?), fireman, and David Morrison, deck hand.

Among the injured at the Hotel Dieu is a man named Joseph Lemener. A number of the crew were French.

According to Lloyd's agents the explosion occurred in the after-hold. The decks were partly torn away. The vessel has been beached with the hull leaking badly and the stern water-logged.

MacMILLAN ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

WIRELESS BREAKS THE TERROR.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Friday.

A wireless message picked up here from the Bowdoin, Dr. MacMillan's Arctic exploration ship, now 700 miles from the North Pole, states that a new record was made yesterday evening, when the ship's operator talked with Hawaii, 5,000 miles away. The message says:—"We receive evening-paper news from the stations at Oxford, England, and Nauen, Germany, daily. We have heard stations in Holland, Mexico, France, Norway, Italy, Japan, and Spain. The long Arctic night, so much dreaded by explorers, has no terrors for the crew of the Bowdoin.—(Reuter.)

The Prince of Wales will be present at the Victoria League Ball on December 12.

END OF HUNGER STRIKE.

DELEGATES FROM KILMAINHAM

VISIT ALL THE CAMPS.

A SECOND DEATH REPORTED.

The hunger strike by the political prisoners in the Free State jails and internment camps came to an end yesterday. The strike began on October 14, when 380 prisoners in Mountjoy Prison refused to take food. Other prisoners joined in the movement, and at one period in October the Republicans claimed that over 8,000 men and women were participating in it.

At an early stage President Cosgrave announced that in no circumstances would the Government release any prisoner who was taking part in the strike. According to an official statement, only 176 prisoners remained on strike on the night of the 22nd inst.

Denis Barry, of Cork, who had been on hunger strike for 34 days, died on the 20th inst., and, according to a statement issued by the Sinn Fein Publicity Department last night, Andrew Sullivan, of Mallow, died yesterday in St. Bricin's Hospital. He was removed to the hospital from Mountjoy Prison on Thursday, and had abstained from food for 40 days.

THE DELEGATES.

The circumstances in which the strike was ended are explained in the following statement, which was issued yesterday by the Government Publicity Department:—

"The following letter was received by the Military Governor of Kilmainham Prison last night:—

'Kilmainham,
'22nd November, 1923.

'The Military Governor, Kilmainham Prison.

'DEAR SIR,—I shall be greatly obliged if you will endeavour, without delay, to obtain permission from your authorities for me to send two delegates to those prisons and camps where there are hunger-strikers, with a view to calling off the strike.

'In case this be granted, I am desirous that the delegates should travel to-night and with the least possible delay, and that they be provided with a closed motor car. I desire also that the interviews between my delegates and the prisoners' representatives should be private.

"The delegates will give their word of honour not to attempt to escape if a guard be not placed with them inside the motor.

(Signed) 'MICHEAL MAC GIOLLARUAIDH,
O/C. Prisoners.'

"The facilities desired by Mr. Kilroy were provided, and during the night and this morning Messrs. Tom Derrig and D. L. Robinson, who are at present interned in Kilmainham Jail, visited the men on hunger strike in Mountjoy Jail and the internment camps at the Curragh, Newbridge, and North Dublin Union. Mr. Hearty, who is interned in Mountjoy Jail, journeyed to see the men in Dundalk Prison. As a result of these visits all prisoners who were on hunger strike decided to take food."

BURIAL OF DENIS BARRY.

The body of Denis Barry was buried within the precincts of the internment camp at the Curragh yesterday.

An application will probably be made in the Chancery Division on Monday next with reference to the disposal of the body.

Mr. Patrick Lynch, K.C., and Mr. C. Maguire (instructed by Mr. O hUadhaigh), attended at the private residence of the Master of the Rolls on Thursday evening, and made an application on the subject.

The Master of the Rolls gave them leave to serve notice of the application on the Free State authorities for Monday next, when the matter will probably be dealth with in the Rolls Court.

CANADIAN BANK ROBBERY.

BANDITS TAKE 8,000 DOLLARS.

MONTREAL, Friday.

To-day the Banque Nationale, near St. Hyacinthe, was robbed for the second time within a few weeks. The bandits forced the woman manger to the door of the vault, and forced her at the point of a revolver to open it. The caretaker had previously been knocked unconscious and a girl clerk was tied to the banisters, where she remained for six hours before the robbery was discovered. The robbers got away with 8,000 dollars.—(Reuter.)

NEW GOLFING LAW.

FINDING OF A NEW YORK JURY.

NEW YORK, November 23.

A jury of "duffers" decided here to-day that a golfer who is hit by a ball driven by a player following him may not be awarded damages, it being his own look-out if he gets hit. The case, which has attracted wide attention here, arose in a suit which Mr. John Harris, a bond salesman, brought against Mr. Henry Coe, junior, the son of the prominent banker.

Mr. Harris complained that Mr. Coe drove his ball on a green where he (Harris) had just holed out, but had not left the green. He contended that this was a violation of the etiquette of the game. Neither the judge nor the jury had any knowledge of golf or of the fine points of the game, and they were frequently mystified by the evidence of the professionals and amateurs called.—(Reuter.)

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

BILL PASSED THROUGH NORTHERN COMMONS.

In the Northern House of Commons yesterday the Minister of Labour moved the second reading of the Workmen's Compensation Bill. He said that the present bill had 29 clauses.

Clause 1 repealed the war additional Acts, except with regard to those who were receiving benefit at present. The next clause increased the minimum amount of compensation from £150 to £200, and for the first time account would be taken, not only of the wages of the injured, but of his responsibility in regard to dependents. There would be an increase of the maximum weekly payment from £1 to 30s. Compensation would be payable under the principal Act if the injury disabled the workman for more than three days from earning full wages, but should not be payable in respect of the first three days on which he was so disabled, unless the incapacity lasted for four weeks or upwards. The matter of giving notice was made easier for the workman.

The second reading was passed, as were also the remaining stages, and the measure passed to the Senate.

PRINCE OF WALES AND HIS RANCH.

TORONTO, Friday.

Mr. William Carlyle, superintendent of the Prince of Wales's ranch in Alberta, addressing the members of the Society of Technical Agriculturists to-day, said that the Prince intends to make his visits to the ranch regular events, unless they are interfered with by the affairs of Empire. Mr. Carlyle added: "The Prince is a real farmer, make no mistake about it."

FARM LABOURERS THREATENED.

It has been reported that nine labourers who resumed work with farmers at Portlaw, County Waterford, were visited by armed men on Wednesday night, taken out of their homes, and threatened with shooting if they went to work again. It is also alleged that some of the labourers were beaten and that shots were fired over their heads.

Burnings are reported on three farmers' holdings in the Dunhill area.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE IRISH LOAN.

COMMENT IN LONDON.

In its City Notes column, The Times states:—The first public borrowing operation undertaken by the Irish Free State is announced to-day. Although it is an internal loan, subscriptions are being invited in this country. By the nature of things the launching of the loan is a leap into the shadows. Prima facie the terms seem rather high, but there are few borrowers who are not guilty of erring on the right side in gauging their own credit. The amount of the loan is £10,000,000 in 5 per Cent. Stock, and the price of issue is 95 per cent. The last instalment of 35 per cent. will be payable on February 22, and 2 per cent. interest will be paid on June 1. The principal will be repaid at par on December 1, 1945, but the Government have the option to redeem the loan on three months' notice on or after December 1, 1935. Dividends on the stock will be paid without deduction of Free State income tax, but the income will be assessable to tax in the hands of the recipients. Those holders not domiciled or ordinarily resident in the Free State will be exempt from all Free State taxation.

The loan, of course, does not appeal directly to the City, for the financial future of the Free State is still regarded as wrapped in obscurity. Nevertheless, the outcome of the issue will be awaited with much interest. No doubt, the result will be officially announced, but such announcement would be valueless unless the amounts subscribed by the Irish banks are separated from those subscribed by the private investor. A good feature of the loan is that the Government undertakes to create an exceptionally big sinking fund. The Government will set aside on June 1 and December 1 in each year a sum equal to 1¼ per cent. of the amount of the loan originally created. There is one important point in the prospectus, however, which is entirely obscure. Will interest and principal be paid in English pounds sterling, or in an Irish Free State pound? The Free State, being now a separate political currency, must necessarily have its own currency, which will not be interchangeable with English pounds sterling, except by an exchange operation. If the loan were an external one, interest and principal would, of course, have to be paid in English pounds if floated in England, and in dollars if in America. But this being an internal loan, with registers in Dublin and Cork, the point as to whether the interest and principal of the loan are to be paid in Irish or English currency is important to the investor outside Ireland. We think that all doubts on this question should be removed by an official statement.

OYSTER FISHERIES DECLARATION.

FREE STATE'S ASSENT.

A White Paper was issued in London last night, giving the text of a declaration respecting oyster fisheries outside territorial waters, in the seas lying between the coasts of Great Britain and France, which was signed at Paris on September 29th, 1923. It contains the following:—

Oyster fishing should open on the 1st of September, and shall cease on the 15th of June.

From the 16th of June to the 31st of August no boat shall have on board any dredge or other implement whatsoever for catching oysters.

The foregoing stipulations shall apply outside territorial waters, in like manner, and to the same extent as the regulations which they supersede.

It is understood that the foregoing stipulations are also applicable to the Irish Free State, the Government of which has given its assent thereto.

The present declaration shall come into force on the 1st of October, 1923.

ULSTER TOURIST TRAFFIC.

FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The conference of representatives of seaside resorts in Northern Ireland, county, urban and district councils, railways and shipping companies, and hotel interests, which had been summoned by the Ulster Association to consider the question of developing tourist traffic, took place yesterday morning in the Ulster Minor Hall, and was largely attended.

Mr. Robert Baillie, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Ulster Association, presided. He said that the Ministry of Commerce of Northern Ireland had been taking a very great interest in the question, and that seaside and health resorts of Ulster would be specially dealt with in the Ulster Pavilion at the Empire Exhibition at Wembley next year.

He claimed that what others had done, Ulster could do equally well.

Mr. W. H. Webb, D.L., urged that the project should be carried through with enthusiasm. Referring particularly to the question of the erection of a new hotel in Belfast, Mr. Webb said that he expected every day a complete proposition from the United Hotel Company, with the plans and everything else of a first-cass hotel for Belfast.

A resolution was adopted, on the motion of Mr. F. D. Russell, J.P., President of the Newry Chamber of Commerce, seconded by Mr. James Boyd, declaring that a general publicity campaign to attract visitors to Ulster was essential.

A sub-committee was appointed to report to a further conference in December.

BOYNE VIADUCT.

HEAVY TRAFFIC TEST.

Engines of Classes "A," "B" and "C" pass constantly over the Boyne viaduct, on the Great Northern Railway. A heavier Class "D" engine for accelerated traffic has been used only between Belfast and Dundalk and between Dublin and Drogheda, thus avoiding the span over the Boyne.

Recently, however, experiments, lasting several hours, were carried out by expert Irish and English engineers and staffs for the purpose of ascertaining whether the bridge could carry the heavier class of engine. Sixteen ballast wagons of the heaviest type, laden with granite from Goraghwood direction, and approximately 600 tons in weight, were hauled across the viaduct at a speed of forty miles an hour. The process was repeated from both the Northern and the Southern sides. The most modern apparatus was used to register the vibration, and photographs were taken, with the lens directed on the lines and wagon wheels. Afterwards the same load was run dead slow on each track.

The results of the test have not yet been made public, but it is stated that they were satisfactory.

GRAIN AND POTATO CROPS IN NORTHERN IRELAND.

The estimated average yield of the wheat crop in Northern Ireland in 1923 was 17.7 cwts. per statute acre, as against 17.9 cwts. in 1922 and 18.4 cwts. in the ten years 1913 to 1922. The estimated average yield of the oat crop in 1923 was 15.7 cwts. per statute acre, as against 15.3 cwts. in 1922 and 16.0 cwts. in the ten years 1913 to 1922. The estimated average yield of the barley crop in 1923 was 16.6 cwts. per statute acre, as against 16.4 cwts. in 1922 and 17.2 cwts. in the ten years 1913 to 1922.

The estimated average yield of the potato crop in Northern Ireland in 1923 was 5.6 tons per statute acre, as against 7.4 tons per statute acre in 1922 and 6.0 tons per statute acre in the ten years 1913 to 1922.

TAXI-CAB MURDER CHARGE. — George William Iggulden (24), a portrait painter, of Fulham, was committed for trial at Westminster yesterday, charged with the wilful murder of Ethel Howard, of Shepherd's Bush. In a statement made by the prisoner he described how he kissed the woman, and said that while their taxi-cab was passing through Brompton road he lost control of himself and cut her throat.

CATTLE EXPORTS STOPPED.

ENGLISH PORTS CLOSED.

DRASTIC ORDER.

THREE WELSH LANDING PLACES OPEN.

The Department of Agriculture in Dublin issued the following statement last night:—

The Department were to-day informed that an effect of the Order of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, referred to in to-day's newspapers, is to limit the landing of Irish animals to the landing places situated in Wales—viz., Holyhead, Fishguard, and Cardiff. It was, accordingly, necessary to suspend shipment to other ports pending further notice.

Under the Order in question the movement of animals from the landing places is practically confined to Wales, the whole of England (except the Southern counties), as well as the Southern counties of Scotland, being declared a scheduled area into, out of, or through which the movement of animals is prohibited. It is understood, however, from a telegram received late to-night, that a fresh Order has now been made, which modifies this situation in the following respects:—

(a) Movement of animals by railway, without untrucking, will be permitted through the scheduled area to places outside the area.

(b) Movement into the scheduled area will be permitted on licence, but only of fat stock direct to slaughter-houses for slaughter within 96 hours.

(c) London is added to the scheduled area.

It is understood also that Cumberland and Durham are being constituted a separate area by a further Order, an effect of which is to admit animals for slaughter in that area to ports at which landing is not specifically prohibited.

THE NEW ORDER.

VAST AREA INCLUDED.

The drastic new Foot-and-Mouth Disease Order of the Minister of Agriculture, which was announced yesterday morning, was published in the London Gazette last night. Described as the "Great Britain (Foot-and-Mouth Disease) Order," it defines the area into, out of, within, or through which the movement of animals is prohibited as follows:—

An area comprising—in Scotland—the counties (including all burghs geographically situate therein) of Berwick, Haddington, Midlothian, Linlithgow, Lanark, Peebles, Selkirk, Roxburgh, Dumfries, Kirkcudbright, Wigtown, and Ayr, excluding such portions of those counties as are already comprised within a prohibited area or controlled area for the purposes of an order of the Minister relating to foot-and-mouth disease.

In England—the counties (including all county and other boroughs geographically situate therein) of Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmorland, Durham, Yorkshire (East, West, and North Ridings), Lancaster, Chester, Derby, Nottingham, Lincoln (Holland, Kesteven, and Lindsey Divisions), Norfolk, Isle of Ely, Cambridge, Soke of Peterborough, Rutland, Leicester, Stafford, Salop, Hereford, Worcester, Warwick, Northampton, Huntingdon, Bedford (East and West), Suffolk, Essex, Hertford, Middlesex, Berkshire, Buckingham, Oxford, and Gloster, excluding such portions of those counties as are already comprised within a prohibited or controlled area for the purposes of an Order of the Minister relating to foot-and-mouth disease.

ORDER MODIFIED.

MOVEMENTS PERMITTED ON LICENCE.

The Ministry of Agriculture last night issued the following:—

"The existence of this disease was discovered on Thursday in a Barnsley slaughter-house in cattle, some of which had been exposed in Newcastle market on the 20th inst., and some in Gateshead market on the same date. There was, therefore, the strongest probability that these animals were infective when in those markets, and also that other animals in the same markets were in a similar condition. Cattle from those markets are normally widely distributed through other important markets to the Northern, Midland and Eastern counties, and the possibilities of widespread infection were therefore present. In these circumstances the Ministry considered that immediate control of all movement of animals was necessary to prevent avoidable contact between infective and other animals, especially through the congregation of stock in markets and sale yards.

"An Order was accordingly made by the Ministry yesterday entirely prohibiting all movements of stock into, within or through a large area stretching from the Clyde to the Thames, but excluding Wales. This Order has to-day been modified so as to permit movements of animals within this area by licence of the inspectors of local authorities, and also the holding of fat stock markets subject to veterinary inspection. All store stock markets continue to be prohibited. The above modifications, however, do not apply to scheduled areas already in existence at the time of the issue of Thursday's Order, nor to the counties of Northumberland and Durham, which have to-day been declared a prohibited area, it being now known that animals definitely exposed to infection in Newcastle and Gateshead have been distributed in those counties.

"There is reason to believe that infection was brought to Newcastle by pigs moved from infected premises at Turriff, Aberdeenshire, before the outbreak at Turriff was reported."

QUESTION IN THE DAIL.

In the Dail yesterday Alderman Alfred Byrne said that he had just heard that an Order had been received in Dublin at one o'clock that all ports in Great Britain were closed against the importation of live stock from Ireland, with the exception of Holyhead. He wished to know if the Minister for Agriculture had any information on the subject, and what was the cause of the closing of the ports.

Mr. O'Higgins (for the Minister for Agriculture) said that his information was that the situation was exactly as described by the deputy. The closing down Order was made by the British authorities in consequence of a serious outbreak of the disease in England. All ports, with the exception of those of Holyhead, Fishguard, and Cardiff, were closed.

Mr. Thomas Johnson asked if the Minister would take into consideration the desirability of immediately setting the Drogheda Meat Factory at work.

Mr. O'Higgins said that that question should be brought to the notice of the Minister for Agriculture.

THE FREE STATE LOAN.

unless they are made to realise that their actions are being watched and that they will be brought to account when necessary, you cannot get on in the way you should.

"We are not as people who have had the experience of responsibility; we have not been accustomed to get things done. We have been more accustomed to criticism. (Hear, hear.) But now that we have the responsibility it is necessary that we should realise it and take a keener interest in the administration of public affairs. I believe that the issue of this Loan marks the beginning of a new and fresh stage in national progress.

SUBSTANTIAL PROMISES.

"I believe this Loan distinctly marks the end of the whole period of turmoil and disorder. We who have had responsibility for government have been concerned up to recently with a military problem. Now we are, all of us, turning our minds to the financial problem. A year ago—six months ago—the public safety and the promotion of the public interest rested with the soldier. Now we have come to the stage when it is not the man with the gun or the man with the rifle who alone counts—but the man who is going to put his money behind the State.

"We have come to the time when the man who has money to invest can do the best public service to the country. We ask them to do it. I have no doubt myself, from various indications I have got, that this Loan is going to be a success. I have had already letters from various people telling me that they are going to invest sums running far into six figures in the Loan. I know that we are going to do well with it.

"I want that we should do as well as we possibly can, because a good response now will get us cheaper money in the future. That is very important to everybody, because the interest on any money we have to borrow in the future is going to be paid by the taxpayer. The cheaper we borrow the better. We must establish our credit so that we can borrow on favourable terms, and so that an undue burden will not be thrown on the taxpayers of the country.

"Now, one of the reasons that we wish to borrow internally is this. If we borrow, say, in England we will get only half the income tax on the dividend; if we borrow here we will get it all. I am very interested in the yield of the taxes we have, because I am more than anxious that the yield should be such that, together with the economies which we contemplate, we may be able at the very earliest possible moment to reduce the rate of taxation.

"I think I need hardly say more to you. I am sure all of you realise the importance of the success of the Loan. I have no doubt that every man in this room came here because he is determined to help. I simply want to say that, as one person holding a responsible office in the Government, I appreciate very much the good-will that has been shown by the commercial community. It is very necessary that our commercial community should be public-spirited and interested in public affairs. It is clear that the commercial community is going to do its share in bearing the burden of having the public administration in this country right and good. It is clear that the commercial community is going to be very active in looking after its own interests, not in any narrow, selfish way, but in a big, generous, public-spirited way. I thank you for the evidence of good-will and desire to help, as shown by your presence here to-day." (Loud applause.)

INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL.

WHAT A SUCCESSFUL LOAN WILL MEAN.

Mr. James Shanks, Chairman, in introducing Mr. Blythe, said that if the loan was successfully floated there could not be a doubt that the credit of the State would be largely enhanced. It would lead, in its turn, to a revival of confidence in the future of the State, and it would lead to a revival of the energies of the industrial community; and the revival was very much needed owing to the losses they had sustained. There had been misgivings, and he did not think that they were quite dissipated, regarding the Government's expenditure on administration. It was only right to refer to this matter frankly, but he would say that if between now and the date of the next loan, if the Government made good as regards expenditure, then there would be no difficulty about the second loan. He should say, however, that there would be no difficulty about the first loan, but with the state of the present taxes it was not surprising that they should be particular about retrenchment.

"PLENTY OF MONEY."

ESTABLISHING IRELAND'S NATIONAL CREDIT.

Sir Thomas Esmonde, after Mr. Blythe had spoken, proposed:—

> "That this meeting of business men, having heard the statement of the Minister of Finance on the necessity of raising a large sum of money to meet extraordinary expenditure, approves of the issue by the Government of an internal National Loan.
> "The terms and conditions of issue, as stated by Mr. Blythe, render the loan attractive as an investment. A full subscription will do much to enhance the credit and stability of the State, thereby assisting materially to restore public confidence in the future of the country, and giving a needed stimulus to its industry and trade. For these reasons, this meeting desires to urge upon the business community and the general public active and liberal support of the Loan."

"I congratulate the Minister of Finance on his statement," he said. This is an important juncture in the fortunes of the Irish Free State. This is our first financial enterprise, and upon its achievement depends to a considerable degree the future fortunes of the country. I strongly approve of the policy the Government have adopted of confining the floating of this Loan to their own citizens. They could not do anything else in view of all the circumstances of the case. There has been so much doubt and hesitation and obscurity as to the real position of Ireland generally that the Government have been exceedingly wise in giving us an opportunity of showing our confidence in ourselves.

"We have at last attained to the position of recognised nationhood. If we are worthy of that position we must shoulder its responsibilities and bear its burdens ourselves. We cannot depend upon outsiders. To do so would neither be creditable to us, as Irishmen, nor useful to the interests of Ireland. Our claim has always been for independence. We must be independent in our national finance as in everything else. If we cannot rise to the height of our own responsibilities, what chance have we of enlisting the cooperation of other people who are not concerned as we are in the advancement of Ireland's prosperity?

"It will be time enough by and by when our first financial venture proves a success, as it will undoubtedly prove, it will be time enough then for us to invite the co-operation of outside capital for the development of our country's resources if we see fit to invite it. Outside capital—should we need it—will come much more easily, and upon much better terms, when we establish our own credit ourselves.

"I have no hesitation whatever in supporting this Loan, and in recommending it to the support of the Irish public. I believe it to be a sound investment. It is an investment based on the credit of the Irish nation, and that security should be good enough for us. The Minister has declared the terms of the Loan. They are fair terms—fair to the investing public and fair to the State. I would point out that they are the same terms offered by the British Government in floating their 5 per cent. War Loan.

"The security, I repeat, is ample, if we believe in ourselves; and the security will be exactly what we make it.

"There is money, and plenty of money in Ireland. Ireland is a very rich country. Relative to its size and its population, it is one of the richest countries in the world. The success of this loan secures for us our position in the world's markets. The success of this loan establishes our national credit. If it succeeds, as unquestionably it will succeed, it is a proof that Irishmen have full faith in their own country—full faith in themselves, and full faith in their own capacity to make good. We are determined to make good; and we shall make good.

"I have no patience whatever with faint-hearted critics, who have nothing better to offer us than destructive criticism. This type of individual is of no use. As a rule he is eloquent, but there is nothing practical or helpful about him. Our duty is clear. We have to establish Irish credit, and we mean to do it.

"This is a meeting of business men. We have nothing to do with this Government any more than we have with any other Government. I speak in the narrow sense — for Governments come and go. They are ephemeral things. But the State, the country, remains. The interests of the country are beyond the individual interests of any and all Governments, and for the sake of the country it is the clear duty of all Irish citizens of good-will, to support the first Irish national financial enterprise as far as they reasonably can. It is for us to show that our loyalty to Ireland is genuine and not mere lip-service.

"We have now reached a stage in our development when our capacity for business must show itself in a practical way, for those of us who believe in our country. We have now a welcome opportunity of showing the earnestness and sincerity of our belief. I read lately in that entertaining paper, the Morning Post, 'that nowhere was there an active desire to gain for the Free State more real independence, or even more self-respect.' I take leave to differ from this opinion. This meeting shows that we propose to establish our financial independence. We do not hold it to be in accord with our self-respect either to ask, or to expect, favours of any kind outside our own country."

Mr. John Good, T.D., in seconding the resolution, said that if proof were wanted that the commercial men of Dublin were behind that Loan, it was amply shown by that large meeting.

He thought that the Minister of Finance was exceedingly wise, notwithstanding the temptation to go for a large loan, in making his first loan a small one; and, he might add, a short one. That was a matter of the greatest importance to that new State that the first loan should be enthusiastically subscribed. He was quite satisfied from what he had heard in connection with the loan that it would be taken up immediately, and that it would be subscribed many times over.

Some doubt existed in some minds as to possible depreciation. Mr. Blythe had referred to that point.

Mr. Good then pointed out that as the Loan would be issued at £95, redeemable in twenty years at par, it would mean a return of 5¼ per cent. He expected that the Loan would appreciate in value.

There was a great deal of money in the country belonging to charitable institutions which was invested outside the country. As Mr. Blythe had made clear in another place, those institutions could not, after the 31st March next, rely on getting dividends from their investments outside the country free of income tax. Under the new Irish Loan institutions investing in it will get a refund of income tax. That would mean, naturally, that a large amount of that money would in the near future pass from existing securities into the new Loan. The effect of that will be to make an appreciation in the security.

He had no need to urge upon the business men of Dublin their duty to their country in the present crisis. He was sure that they, individually and collectively, would do what they could to support the Loan. He hoped that Irishmen and Irishwomen would rally to the present call of the country.

Senator O'Dea said that Mr. Blythe virtually pledged himself to do all he could to reduce public expenditure in every one of his departments so far as he reasonably can, and that was all they could expect. If he were able to carry out that promise, it was safe to say he would have no difficulty in getting not only £10,000,000, but £50,000,000.

New Zealand, with a population of 1,500,000, had a national debt of £193,913,000. If New Zealand could afford to be prosperous and carry that national debt, there was no reason why Ireland should not be able to carry £100,000,000. He thought that Mr. Blythe might rest content that the Loan was going to float, not only the amount he required, but he expected he would get treble what he asked for.

Mr. William Hewatt, T.D., in supporting the resolution, said that the Minister of Finance would go away gratified at the extent of the interest that had been taken in the loan. It was due to the Minister that business men should interest themselves in the matter. The Minister had gone very fully into the question and the situation they had to meet in the past. The loan called to them to search their own pockets and create an interest in it outside.

Their own intelligence would tell them the loan was a good one. This was not a time for pessimism. Let them join together and say to Mr. Blythe: "This loan is not only going to go, but it is going to go blithely."

LONDON, TOO.

QUESTIONS TO MR. BLYTHE.

A question was put to the Chairman whether it was intended that the stock should be inscribed only in Cork and Dublin, thus very much restricting the market by reason of dealings not being carried out in London; and whether it would not be possible to have the stock inscribed in London.

The Chairman replied that he had been informed by Mr. Blythe that the matter would be considered at an early date.

Replying to a question whether there was any time limit for another loan, Mr. Blythe said that some considerable time would elapse. It depended on the speed with which the Court dealt with compensation claims and matters such as that.

The resolution was then put to the meeting and passed with acclamation. There was no dissent.

£385,000 PROMISED.

GUINNESS'S TO SUBSCRIBE £300,000.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Minister for Finance.

It was announced that the Royal Dublin Society had subscribed £10,000 to the loan, Hibernian Insurance Company £50,000, Messrs. Guinness £300,000, and the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway £25,000.

It was found impossible to accommodate anything like the number of people that came to attend the meeting, and very many had to be turned away.

Among those present were:—

STATE'S SOLVENCY.

APPEAL TO SOUTHERN BUSINESS MEN.

From Our Own Correspondent.
Cork, Friday.

Under the auspices of the Cork Progressive Association a meeting of business men was held in the Pavilion Theatre this afternoon to hear an address from Mr. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, on the loan which the Government is issuing. Mr. Hogan, accompanied by Mr. J. J. Walsh, Postmaster-General, arrived in the city early in the afternoon, and was received by the principal business men of the city. Mr. T. P. Dowdall presided at the meeting.

Mr. Hogan said that if business men of Cork City and County, as well as of the South generally, supported the loan with the same measure of enthusiasm as they had supported the national movement, the success of the loan would be assured.

He did not intend to waste time pointing out the advantages of an internal loan. He would only say that an internal loan would have the effect, at least in the long run, of reducing taxation and preventing inflation. The investor in an internal loan was in exactly the same position as the business man who had shares in a big wholesale or retail business, and was a customer as well. He had it both ways.

MONEY TALKS.

Money talked, and if the business men, farmers, and trade unionists of the country showed that they were willing to stake their confidence in the future of the country by investing in the loan, they would be announcing not only from one end of Ireland to the other, but all over Europe, in a way that could not be misunderstood, that the Irish people had faith in themselves, that they had faith in the future of their country, and in their fitness for self-government—in their ability not only to constitute a new State, but to run it with decency, efficiency, courage, and success.

Mr. Hogan then announced the terms of the loan, and said that they were extremely advantageous compared with those of any other gilt-edged security on the market.

A DUTY.

"We ask you," continued Mr. Hogan, "to subscribe for the purpose of paying for the destruction caused during the past two years and for the development and reconstruction of business and of agriculture. We think that we are entitled to ask for money for that; we think that, if we balance the Budget, and show that our security is as good as any in the world, and that we propose to place this State beyond the reach of any enemies, foreign or internal—we are entitled to ask the citizens of the country to pay for the wanton, mad destruction that was done during the last two years. Sincerely, we ask for the money to develop the business of the country, which is depressed for reasons that lie outside the shores of Ireland.

"The State is more solvent than any country in Europe, England included. If it ever becomes insolvent it will not be due to any lack of resources in the country. It will not be because of any political or economic reasons; it will be because of the quality of the people in the country.

"I do not believe that that is so. If we have faith in our business methods and our ability, then we are the soundest country in Europe. We believe that. We say that we have a duty to the country in this matter. We say that it is necessary to put our finances right once and for all. I appeal to you to do your duty in your time and generation."

NOT BIG ENOUGH.

GALWAY BUSINESS MEN'S VIEW.

Mr. Eamonn Duggan received an enthusiastic welcome when he addressed the Galway Chamber of Commerce this afternoon, on the Free State loan. Mr. Duggan explained the terms of the loan at length, and said that the Government required the money because of the regrettable circumstances of the past eighteen months. From the Government point of view there was one thing even more important than the procuring of the loan, and that was that the credit of the country should be established in the eyes of the outside world. (Applause.) They could easily get the money they wanted outside Ireland. They had been offered it again and again. But the Government felt that if the country's credit, both commercially and politically, was to be maintained, the loan should be subscribed by men at home.

The Government had been faced with difficulties as great as any Government had ever been faced with. He claimed that they had faced those difficulties in such a manner that the people of Ireland could feel quite optimistic about the future of Ireland. (Applause.)

Mr. E. K. Jackson, in proposing a motion "that the national loan is worthy of the support of the Irish people," said that he spoke as one of those who, at one time, did not believe in Ireland as a nation. He and others who had thought with him now felt that the country was their own, and if they believed in themselves and were going to help themselves to pay their way and advance their interest and their business, he thought that they should support those who were in control of the Government of the country. (Applause.)

No nation could live by itself. They were all dependent, one upon another, for certain things. They in Ireland must realise these elementary things, and he thought that in that respect Galway would not be behindhand in supporting the loan. No matter to what political party they belonged they were all Irishmen, and it was to their interest that Ireland should have her credit and her honour among the nations maintained.

Mr. R. Philip O'Gorman, in seconding the motion, said that the Loan provided Irishmen with an opportunity of showing the faith they had in their own fatherland.

Mr. P. P. Shee, manager of the National Bank, Galway, said that he did not think the Loan was large enough. He thought that the Government ought to have tackled the problem immediately, and made it thirty millions instead of ten millions.

Mr. J. O'Kelly Lynch, manager of the Munster and Leinster Bank, concurred.

Dr. Dillon proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. P. Duggan.

Mr. F. J. Smellie seconded the vote of thanks.

In reply to a question by Mr. Lydon, Castlebar, Mr. Duggan said that those who held Republican Bonds could either have them repaid in cash or have them transferred to the Free State Loan, as a Dublin Jew, who had £100 invested in the Republican Loan, had already offered to do. (Applause.)

Mr. W. G. Fogarty, who supported the vote of thanks, pointed out that if the pessimists did not support the Loan they would speedily find themselves with the credit of the country gone, and with no country worth living in.

Mr. Duggan, in reply, expressed his delighted surprise at the enthusiasm that had been shown for the Loan in Galway. He would report to the Ministry with particular satisfaction that the Galway business men did not think the Loan was large enough. He added that those who did not invest now would not get such good terms on the next issue.

OBITUARY.

MISS MILLICENT ORMSBY.

The death occurred suddenly on Tuesday of Miss Millicent Ormsby, 15 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin. Miss Ormsby attended a meeting at the Incurable Hospital in the morning, and at the time of her death she was directing letters to friends, asking them to attend a bazaar, which is to be held in Dublin next week. Miss Ormsby was hon. treasurer of the Irish Ladies' Association, Missions to Seamen, and was interested in many Dublin charities.

MR. THOMAS WHITE.

Mr. Thomas White, who died at his residence, Raimesfield, Maidenhead, yesterday, was very well known in Bray, where he had a large circle of friends. Mr. White was chairman of the well-known firm of Messrs. C. R. Harker, Stagg and Morgan, Ltd., London.

Two retiring Scottish Labour members, who are seeking re-election, have suffered bereavement. Mr. Neil Maclean, who represented Govan, has lost his fourteen years old son under an operation, and Mr. James Maxton, late member for the Bridgeton Division of Glasgow, after speaking at a meeting, found his mother dying on his return home.

THE FUTURE LIFE.

DOES DEATH END ALL?

TRUE COMFORT FOR THE SORROWING.

At St. Andrew's Church, Dublin, yesterday, the Primate (Most Rev. C. F. D'Arcy, D.D.) delivered his fourth and last address in connection with the Dublin Parochial Mission, his subject being "The Future Life."

He said that the greatest of all proofs that we shall not perish with death was found in Verse 27 of the 12th Chapter of the Gospel of St. Mark:—"He is not the God of the dead, but of the living." Belief in a hereafter prevailed all the world over. The obvious fact of the death and decomposition of the body did not compel even the primitive savages to think that the ending of our bodily life was also the ending of our spiritual existence, and only a few sophisticated people, whose minds had been warped by the influence of modern materialism, were capable of imagining that death ended all. The body was but the instrument of the soul. They might smash the harp, but the harper remained; they might break the sword, but the warrior was not annihilated.

When they came to think of the state of the soul after death, they found themselves confronted with the arguments which so many derived from what were called "spiritualistic manifestations." These had convinced many very able minds at the present day, among them men standing high in the scientific world. If he, however, declined to attach to these manifestations as much weight as those able men did, it was because it seemed to him that the communications which the departed were supposed to make seemed as a rule to be merely broken reflections—generally vague and blurred, as well as broken—of the earthly life.

He confessed that most of those communications seemed to him to be very like the disconnected fragments which belonged to dream-consciousness. They really gave us no knowledge of the life beyond the veil. At their best, they were reminiscences. How this could be he did not pretend to say.

"It may be that every mind leaves an impress, which, like a gramaphone record, can be reproduced. It may be that minds in the unseen world sometimes produce telepathic effects here. It may be that, like us, they dream of the past, and of those they love, and that these dreams awake a response in minds properly attuned in this world. Who knows? But certainly these revelations do not seem to be good enough to give us any sure foundation for faith."

When they turned to the New Testament they found very little which conveyed definite teaching as to the condition of souls when parted from their bodies. Our Lord, as a rule, practised a strict reticence on this subject. The Intermediate State was implied, but, as to its nature, there was silence. This was the more remarkable because Jewish thought at the time was largely occupied with the subject.

DISEMBODIED SPIRITS.

The truth was that the influence of Our Lord dominated the New Testament, and it was His rule to practise a perfect reserve on this question. What wisdom there was in this! To let the mind brood upon the condition of disembodied spirits did not make for a sane or wholesome life. The only clear teaching which we did get was contained in the words to the penitent thief—"To-day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise." Closely parallel to this was St. Paul's "desire to depart and be with Christ." But this signified safety, peace, blessedness, and the presence of the Master.

The New Testament, however, proceeded the Primate, was full of the Resurrection. Now, it could not be denied that, from the modern scientific point of view, the very idea of resurrection was very difficult. Nevertheless, surely it was clear that if we were to believe in a future life in any satisfying way, we must believe in something more than a merely disembodied condition. It was by means of bodily organs that the soul enjoyed its wealth of experience, and a soul deprived of the body, and not endowed with some means of communication and expression, to take its place, would be in a state of poverty.

The Resurrection, then, meant the transmitting of all the conditions of our present existence by the descent upon it of a higher order of being. As a man awoke out of a dream into the great world of reality, so should we awaken out of this imperfect, corruptible life into a world of higher reality. We sought for immortality; yet we knew that an immortality of such life as we have here would be a curse, and not a blessing.

FROM LOWER TO HIGHER.

If the whole man was to pass from the lower life to the higher, the body must have its equivalent there, as the soul had its continuity. Such a doctrine was far truer than all that our experience teaches, and far more satisfying than any mere doctrine of the immortality of the soul. At one stroke it got rid of all those perplexing problems which had puzzled so many minds, about the material particles of the body, and supplied a conception of immortality which was worthy of our great religion.

"Behold," said the Apostle, "I show you a mystery. We shall not all sleep; but we shall all be changed . . . . Then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written—'Death is swallowed up in victory.'" There was the only true comfort for the sorrowing.

Two other Services—one for men and the other for women and business girls—were held during the day at St. Ann's Church, Dawson street. Both were well attended. The preachers were the Rev. C. E. Raven, D.D., and the Rev. A. W. Barton, D.D.

There will be special Services in all churches to-morrow, and Thanksgiving Services next Monday. A concluding United Thanksgiving Service will be held in St. Patrick's Cathedral at eight o'clock next Thursday night. The preacher will be the Archbishop of Dublin. The clergy are invited to bring their robes and join in the procession.

Thanksgiving Services for the Mission will be held in the parish churches on Sunday evening, or on Monday evening, according to local arrangements. A United Thanksgiving Service will be held in St. Patrick's Cathedral next Thursday, at 8 p.m., at which the Archbishop will preach.

MR. HUBERT ROONEY'S PUPILS' CONCERT.

Mr. Hubert Rooney's annual pupils' concert will take place in the Theatre Royal next Saturday afternoon, commencing at half-past two o'clock. Solos will be rendered by Feis medallists and concerted numbers by a hundred pupils. The orchestral accompaniments will be provided by the Dublin Amateur Players.

CASTLEREA DRAPER'S STOCK FOR SALE.

Attention is drawn to the anouncement in our advertising columns of the sale by the Receiver of the stock-in-trade of the old-established firm of John Fitzgibbon and Sons, Ltd. The stock is being offered to the trade in one or more lots, and can be inspected on Monday week.

THE "IRISH FIELD."

This week's issue of the Irish Field, published to-day, contains the latest sporting news, including selections for Manchester and Mullingar. Football, Hunting, Coursing, Golf, and Angling are dealt with in special articles and reports, while, as usual, the Kennel Notes form a special feature.

HIBERNIAN BANK CLERKSHIPS.
Result of October, 1923 Exam. just announced. Successful from SKERRY'S COLLEGE, 76 St. Stephen's Green—Messrs. J. Carrick, J. L. Dempsey, J. Dennehy, M. A. Keane, G. Kennedy, A. Rogers, P. Rouiller.—(Advt.)

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister of Canada, left Euston yesterday on his way back to Canada.

Las Palmas and the Canary Islands have been declared infected places, and are under quarantine, owing to an outbreak of pneumonic plague.

Boilermakers' to go Back.—The boilermakers' ballot has resulted in a two to one vote in favour of the acceptance of the agreement, and work will be resumed on Monday.

Dr. Clifford's Funeral.—The remains of Dr. John Clifford were cremated yesterday morning at Golders Green Crematorium, London. The main part of the funeral Service was conducted at Westbourne Park Chapel by the Rev. S. W. Hughes, Dr. Clifford's successor at the chapel.

London Dock Drowning.—At an inquest in London yesterday concerning the drowning of five men through the capsizing of a painter's boat raft in Surrey Dock on Tuesday afternoon, it was stated that 25 others were rescued, and that there were too many men on the raft. It was also said that the accident might have been avoided if the men had kept still on the raft. The inquiry was adjourned.

Steamer Turns Turtle.—The House of Lords yesterday allowed the appeal of the Standard Oil Company of America from a decision of the Scottish Court of Session in the company's claim against the Clan Line Steamers, Limited, Glasgow, for £111,000, for the loss of cargo on board the Clan Gordon, a turret-built ship, which turned turtle, and sank two days out of New York for China. The captain, to trim the vessel, had water pumped out of the tanks, and she turned turtle. Lord Haldane observed that the requirements of ballasting were due to the construction of the steamer as a turret vessel, and the master had not been instructed as to its significance. The owners were, therefore, at fault.

INSULT AND INJURY.

STORY OF COUNTY MAYO INCENDIARISM.

The destruction of Downhill House, Ballina, the residence of Mr. John Garvey, ex-Crown Solicitor for Co. Mayo, last February was related at Ballina Sessions during the hearing of a compensation claim for £5,830.

Mr. Garvey said that on Sunday night, February 18, when he was in bed, the maid ran into the room and told him that the house was full of men.

Mrs. Garvey got up and went to the landing. The men were calling out his name and he got up and went out. His wife was standing with outstretched arms trying to prevent the men from proceeding further. The men had their rifles pointed at Mrs. Garvey.

One of the men told him to "clear out." His wife and himself returned to the room to dress and were followed by armed men, who refused to leave so that Mrs. Garvey could dress. He asked to be allowed to get a pair of boots, but was not allowed to do so.

He was asked if he had any trench coats, and when he replied in the negative one of the armed men said: "You are a liar." They found an officer's coat and cap and danced on them. Mrs. Garvey tried to get some photographs and medals belonging to her son, who was killed in France, but these had been stolen.

Mr. and Mrs. Garvey were ordered outside the house. He had no boots; Mrs. Garvey was wearing only a nightdress. The contents of the house were sprinkled with petrol and set ablaze, and in a short time the residence was completely demolished.

It was explained that under the lease Mr. Garvey was bound to make good the damage done. The judge said that he would attach a full reinstatement condition to his report. He expressed sympathy with the applicant and his family.

BELLEEK TRIANGLE.

SOLVING A BOUNDARY PROBLEM.

Our Enniskillen Correspondent states that the Northern Government, following the recent visit of Sir James Craig to Fermanagh, has endeavoured to remove some of the difficulties consequent on the setting up of the present boundary. These were chiefly in what has become known as the Belleek triangle. It is impossible at present to get into that area on either side of Lough Erne, except through Free State territory. The Northern Government has two plans for dealing with the difficulty, the estimated cost being £40,000. It is proposed to link up Boa Island, in Lough Erne, off the Pettigo area, with the mainland by the erection of two bridges, one at either end, so that farmers need not enter Pettigo village to go from one part of Fermanagh to the other, and at Rosscor, a few miles from Belleek, it is proposed to throw a bridge across the River Erne.

The Minister of Home Affairs has written to the County Secretary, urging the Commissoner transacting the business of the County Council to have the matter taken in hands at the earliest possible moment. He states that the Government felt "that there were urgent and substantial reasons for carrying out the works referred to, and the Ministry have already caused a preliminary survey to be made of the district in question by the Engineering Inspector of the Ministry, in conjunction with the County Surveyor, Mr. J. P. Burkitt. It would appear, from the preliminary report furnished, that the works should not cost more than £40,000 in all. The Government are satisfied that the carrying out of these works will be not only of considerable local benefit, but also of general importance to the whole area of Northern Ireland, and are, therefore, prepared to take such steps as may be necessary with a view to the provision of the major portion of the expenses of the work from the Government Funds."

The County Council suggests the finding of £5,000, and the County Surveyor estimates that the works will find employment for 250 men for at least a year.

PUBLIC MEETING AT ARRAN QUAY CHURCH.

President Cosgrave has promised to address a public meeting at St. Paul's Church, Arran quay, Dublin, at 2 o'clock to-morrow. The Most Rev. Dr. Byrne, Archbishop of Dublin, will preside.

The annual charity sermon in aid of St. Brigid's Orphanage, Eccles street, Dublin, will be preached to-morrow in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Upper Gardiner street, by the Very Rev. Andrew Macardle, S.J. The institution was founded in 1856, and at present there are 372 orphans within its walls.

The annual general meeting of the Pioneer Total Abstinence Association of the Sacred Heart will be held to-morrow in the Theatre Royal, Dublin. The Pioneer address will be delivered by the Very Rev. Father Angelus, O.S.F.C., and the proceedings will terminate with concert items, contributed by several local artists.

A Washington message states that the Catholic Encyclopædia is to be made a permanent institution, with enlarged scope that will make it a general encyclopædia covering the entire range of human knowledge. "Universal Knowledge" will be the name given to the general encyclopædia, which will be published in fifteen volumes.

A remarkable collection of Arab manuscripts, the autographs of Contardo, Ferrini, Alessandro Manzoni and Perosi, Irish, Swedish and Spanish collections, not to mention photograph copies of rare Coptic manuscripts and other valuable documents from the private collection of J. Pierpont Morgan, were added to the Vatican treasures, and were still further increased by the acquisition of such libraries as the Rassiani and the Chigiana.

It has been decided to give the name of the late Cardinal Amette to the street in Paris in which the new Church of St. Leo is to be erected. The Archbishop was held in high esteem by M. Poincaré, who once said: "I would have liked to have bestowed the decoration of the Cross of the Legion of Honour on Cardinal Amette, but he shrank from accepting it. It was the same with the honour conferred by the French Academy."

CHRIST CHURCH, LEESON PARK.

Canon E. S. Woods, Vicar of Holy Trinity Church, Cambridge, the special missioner, will preach at a Service for Men in Christ Church, Leeson Park, Dublin, at 3.30 to-morrow afternoon. It was originally intended that this Service should be held in St. Columba's, Ranelagh.

SUGAR firm. Porto Rico unquoted. Futures firm, 12 to 14 points up. Approximate future sugar sales, 37,000 tons. Dec., 5.79; March, 4.78; May, 4.88; July, 4.97. To-day's sugar sales: 7,000 bags of Cuban to refiners at 7.53 for prompt shipment, 3,000 bags of Venezuelan at 7.89 for shipment first half of December, 4,000 bags of Peruvian to refiners at 7.59 for prompt shipment, 4,000 bags of Peruvian at 7.53 for shipment first half of December, and 4,000 bags of Philippines at 6.50 for shipment latter half of December.

COTTON opened steady, but 5 to 10 points lower, and prices were depressed early owing to the disappointing attitude of spinners and selling by Wall street houses. The market rallied, however, on the decreased visible supply figures, improvement in the spot situation, and expected heavier exports, and the upward movement was assisted by foreign interests and spot houses buying, bull support, and a scare amongst shorts. The closing was firm, 47 to 20 points up. Spot steady at 30 points gain. New Orleans spot unchanged. Receipts — Atlantic, 15,000; Gulf, 22,000; Pacific, 3,000. Exports—Britain, 1,000; Continent, 6,000; Japan, 16,000. Chicago, Friday.

WHEAT opened steady and unchanged to ¼c. up, and went higher on bullish cables and commission house buying; then took a lower turn under increasing stocks, a disappointing export inquiry, and the weakness of outside markets. Realising and liquidation were in progress, and the market closed easy at 1¼c. to ⅛c. fall. Spot steady. No. 2 hard winter spot, 106½; No. 3 hard winter spot, 104¼. December, 102¼; May, 108¼; July, 106¼.

CORN opened steady, ¼c. to ⅛c. dearer, and rose further on small stocks, adverse weather, and commission house buying, but later fell away on predicted increased receipts, lower cash markets, selling by cash houses, and liquidation. The market closed easy, ⅛c. to ¼c. lower. Spot No. 2 mixed, 80. December, 72¼; May, 72¼; July, 73¼.

OATS easy at ¼c. to ⅛c. decline. December, 42¼; May, 44¼; July, 43¼.

PROVISIONS opened easy, and declined with lower hog and grain markets, heavy receipts, slack export inquiry, and traders unloading. The speculative sentiment was bearish, and the market closed quiet, with lard 27½ to 7½ points down. Ribs unchanged, and pork unquoted. Lard—November, 13.20; January, 11.82½; March, 11.65; May, 11.67½. Ribs—January, 9.50; May, 9.60.

BACON steady and unchanged. Receipts of hogs at fifteen principal Western centres, including Chicago, since November 1st, total 3,211,000, against 2,362,000 same season last year.

BLOOD AND SAND.

An Irishman's Impressions of a Bull Fight.

(BY V. B. H.)

A FEW years ago, in the late spring, my friend Addington and I were wandering in the Pyrenees, when the melting snow made further expeditions dangerous. I suggested that we should go down to Barcelona and see a bull-fight. Addington demurred at first, but, to my delight, he finally consented, so we joined the train at Perpignan and slowly crawled South.

We put up at the Hotel of Four Nations in the Rambla, that shady boulevard that runs straight through Barcelona from the sea.

That night at dinner I told the head waiter that we had come to see a bull-fight, whereupon he was very pleased. This fat, elderly man was passionately devoted to the national pastime. He told me that he had not missed one important fight in forty years; but the greatest event of his life was at hand, for in three weeks time the famous Mazzantini was coming, and everybody knew that there had never in the world been an espada to equal him.

A few days before the Sunday fixed for the great event we got permission to go over the Plaza de Toros (bull-ring). The arena, a large open space, was surrounded by tier upon tier of seats, reaching to an immense height. A stout barrier, six feet high, formed a narrow passage between the spectators and the arena. There the bull-fighters, not at the moment engaged, take their stations. The seats were priced according to whether they were situated in the sun or the shade, the latter being very much more expensive. This distinction can best be appreciated by one who has sat for four hours in the glare of a Spanish sun. We visited the little hospital where the unlucky ones were given first aid, and we glanced in at the chapel, where all engaged in a fight receive the Holy Eucharist before entering the ring. I even dragged the unwilling Addington to the stables, and as we gazed at the poor emaciated horses, so soon to meet their fate, I felt glad when I realised that their end was near at hand.

The head waiter secured us two very good seats in the shade. As he gave us the tickets he begged us not to get disgusted and leave when we saw the first horse gored.

The Hero's Arrival.

We spent the intervening days very pleasantly, seeing the sights of Barcelona. Everywhere there was a feeling of excitement in the air: nothing was talked about but the coming fight.

On the Saturday Mazzantini arrived, and no conquering hero could have received a warmer welcome. In the afternoon he drove through the gaily-decorated streets, and was greeted on all sides with a respect amounting almost to veneration.

On Sunday we were early astir; the sun shone down brightly from a clear blue sky; the Rambla was crowded with people, many of them country-folk. All were decked out in their brightest clothes and were in their gayest humour. I was struck by the number of beautiful women.

After lunch we made our way through a laughing, jostling throng to the bull-ring. Everyone, on entering, was presented with a fan in the national colours, vivid scarlet and yellow. The printed programme was an elaborate affair; it gave the names of the bulls and their well-known lineage. They were bred in special farms, principally in Andalusia. It told us that six were to be killed that afternoon. Mazzantini would account for three, a lesser-known "espada" would be responsible for the others.

When we had taken our seats I glanced around. In the brilliant sunshine the scene was dazzling. The seats opposite were packed with an animated, chattering crowd; there were nearly as many women as men. As I watched the thousands of brightly-coloured fans waving gently to and fro on the opposite side of the arena, I likened them in my mind to a number of immense butterflies. A more entrancing spectacle it would be difficult to imagine.

The Grand Entry

The first part of the ceremonial was the grand entry of the bull-fighters. With a flourish of trumpets the procession appeared, the greatest possible brilliance of costume and accoutrement is aimed at. First came the chulos, or assistants, young, swarthy fellows with scarlet cloaks, then the picadores, dressed in yellow, with their legs encased in steel guards, covered with leather. The sorry steeds on which they were mounted were so gaily caparisoned that they might have been taken for thoroughbreds. Next the banderilleros, and, finally, the espadas, lithe and active. They looked the perfection of muscular training. They were dressed in short jackets, richly embroidered in gold and silver, satin knee-breeches, light silk stockings, and heel-less shoes completed their costumes.

After a couple of circuits of the arena the procession halted before the President's box. The President is usually some person of high rank. He throws down the key of the toril, or bull-cell, thus signifying that the proceedings may begin. The procession then retires, only the chulos remaining in the ring.

The band stops playing, and a hush falls on the assembly. All eyes are fixed on a small door which now opens, and the bull rushes out. For a moment he seems dazed by the unaccustomed glare. Then a bright scarlet cloak is temptingly spread before him. Snorting, he lowers his head and charges. The chulo steps nimbly aside, and the puzzled bull stops and shakes his head; the spectators smile. These futile charges are repeated several times. Each successive failure seems to make the bull more angry, and, as he pauses, blinking his wicked eyes, the delighted crowd laughs loudly.

This went on for about a quarter of an hour; then came the turn of the horses. While the chulos divert the bull's attention the unfortunate horse is marshalled into position. Although the eye nearer to the bull is blindfolded he seems to sense his impending fate; he is quivering with fear. The picadore on his back is armed with a spear, with which he endeavours to ward off the charging bull. The bull sweeps on, and, planting his horns in the horse's belly, with a vicious heave of his shoulders sends horse and man hurtling through the air. As they lie struggling on the ground the chulos, with their cloaks, lead off the bull once again, while the fallen picadore is lifted up and escorted behind the barrier. The wounded horse, plunging wildly, struggles to his feet. From the dreadful gash his entrails emerge, and as he gallops around the arena in a frenzy of pain he still further adds to his agony by trampling on the gory mass.

I glanced at Addington; his face was white, he wiped his forehead, and passed his tongue over his parched lips.

"That's finished me," he said, faintly. "I can't stand it any more, I'm off."

"Don't go," I said; "remember what the waiter told us; this part is disgusting, but let us see it through."

Another horse was similarly gored; luckily for him his wound was mortal; one immense shudder, and he lay perfectly still; his brief day was over!

A team of brightly-harnessed mules came in; the dead horse was attached; with much shouting and cracking of whips the arena was encircled, and then, at a furious gallop, the cavalcade disappeared in a cloud of dust.

The blood was covered up with a few handfuls of sand, the chulos retired, and the stage was set for the next act.

The Banderilleros.

Now comes the turn of the banderilleros. They leap into the ring, looking wonderfully agile and handsome. Each one carries a couple of barbed darts, about eighteen inches long. In turn they attract the attention of the bull, and as he charges, while avoiding his horns, they endeavour to plant the darts deep in his shoulders. If successful they are loudly applauded; but if the darts are not well placed the spectators show their displeasure by hoots and yells of derision. This display continues until the bull is sufficiently enraged for the final duel; then the banderilleros retire.

Now the last act has come; a moment's pause, and the espada enters. How magnificent Mazzantini looked that afternoon! Completely ignoring his enemy, he marched, with light, springy steps, straight across the arena to the President's box. Halting there, with uplifted sword, he dedicated the death of the bull to some high personage; then he turned inwards, tossed his hat backwards over his shoulder, and proceeded bareheaded to his task.

For a few moments Mazzantini played with him, as if to take his measure.

Then there came a thrilling moment! Mazzantini turned his back to the bull, and calmly proceeded to light a cigarette. This was too much for the bull! A few short yards away I saw him stealthily lower his head and prepare to charge.

I felt I must scream out. I looked over opposite; all those great big butterflies had ceased to move; a strange hush had fallen; everyone was craning forward.

The bull charged, and I felt certain that Mazzantini's end had come; but, at the very last instant, just when it seemed impossible to avoid those cruel horns, he sprang nimbly aside. I gave a long sigh of relief as the bull flashed past; our hero was safe!

I glanced up again now; the big butterflies seemed to be frantically waving their wings, and a thunderous roar of applause shook the arena. Then, as a noisy chatter of delight broke from the spectators, Mazzantini calmly exhaled a long blue cloud of smoke, and turned smilingly towards the bull.

The Last Act.

This latter was now furious with rage; one could easily imagine his hatred for this contemptuous opponent. Again and again, he hurled himself at him, but always the result was the same. Then he appeared to turn sulky; he walked away, glancing backwards. Mazzantini followed, taunting him, with arms outstretched.

Once more the red flag was flaunted in his face, and once more he charged, missing only by a fraction of an inch.

Mazzantini, standing directly in front of the bull, now raised his sword and, drawing it slowly through his fingers, seemed to test it. One felt that the end was drawing near.

For the last time the crimson banner waved. For the last time the gallant bull lowered his head and charged. Then, as he flashed past, Mazzantini raised himself on to his toes, leaned slightly forward, and drove his gleaming blade home, in at the back of the neck, close to the head, downward into the heart.

The end had come! The mighty bull stopped suddenly, his knees gave way, as do a sawdust doll's, his huge weight toppled over, and he crumpled up dead.

Now a scene of delirious enthusiasm took place. Amidst intense excitement, hats, gloves, sticks and cigarette cases were thrown into the arena. Ladies tore their ear-rings from their ears, and their brooches from their gowns to pay tribute to their hero.

I heard afterwards that all those articles were redeemed when the bull-fight was over, on payment to the attendants.

Five times that afternoon the drama was repeated. In all, there were six bulls and thirteen horses slaughtered.

MANGAN.

Poet and Translator.

(By J. B.)

IN 1803, just a hundred and twenty years ago, James Clarence Mangan was born in a mean Dublin street, somewhere near the Castle. During the brief and sordid forty-six years of his existence he devoted whatever time he could spare from his everyday drudgery to poetry and translation. Mangan's father was a publican, and the young poet went to work as a clerk in a lawyer's office at the early age of fifteen. From this on, till his death in 1849, he worked in various uncongenial positions, and for the greater part of this time supported his mother and sister with his scanty earnings. Fortunately for the poet, he at length obtained a position in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, and here he was able to gratify his inclinations for study, and at the same time provide for himself and his relatives.

Mangan, like many another highly-strung genius, fell a victim to drink, and in his later years to opium. In extenuation of the victim, be it said, that in happier circumstances he might have avoided these pitfalls; in any case, he was not of that sturdy disposition which battles through poverty and drudgery to material success. His pathetic devotion to his mother and sister may be compared with that of Lamb for his afflicted relatives.

To the general public, however, he is best known as the author of that exquisite lyric, "My Dark Rosaleen." This poem, published in the Nation in 1846, is an adaptation from a sixteenth century Gaelic source. It illustrates Mangan's graceful facility in verse, and the great purity and sweetness of his style. A comparison with the original shows that Mangan did not so much translate as transform. He uses a sixteenth century love lyric of great inequality of style as a framework on which to hang his own graceful fancies. This was his usual practice in translation from Irish, German, and Persian. He had a fair acquaintance with the Eastern languages, but of Gaelic he knew nothing, and, like Moore, he had to depend on his friends to translate for him. Like Moore, too, he succeeded in capturing successfully the even liquid flow of the old Irish metres, so different from the stresses of English prosody. This is exemplified in many poems, but particularly in "O'Hussey's Ode to The Maguire." It might be well to mention that a great many of Mangan's translations were from authors who never existed. The poet merely invented a strange Persian or German name, like "Bham-booz-el" or "Baugtrauter," to stand sponsor for his compositions.

A most notable achievement of Mangan's was the combination of the emotional refrain with the lyric. This repetition of a set of words or a phrase at the end of each stanza to get emotional emphasis has often been attributed to Edgar Allen Poe, but it has been fairly demonstrated that Mangan's "In the Time of the Barmecides," in which this device was first used, was written before Poe's "Raven." It is not here suggested, however, that Poe merely copied the effect. Mangan and Poe were curiously similar in many respects; they were both men of undoubted genius; both died young, and both were equally unfortunate in their circumstances and temptations.

Mangan died of cholera in the Meath Hospital in 1849. For some time nothing was done to perpetuate his memory, but some years ago a bust of the poet was erected in St. Stephen's Green. Looking back at his work, one is led to the conclusion that its greatness lies in its spontaneity. Mangan never became a political propagandist, nor did he lose by self-consciousness the naturalness which was lacking in the work of so many of his time. It is true that many of his poems, like "My Dark Rosaleen," may be described at patriotic lyrics, but their treatment is ideally spiritual, quite different from the fierce political invective of his contemporaries. By avoiding these pitfalls he has built up a monument of verse which seems destined to live in the annals of Anglo-Irish poetry.

THE BROADS.

THE Broads! The name just suits them conjuring up a mental picture of great stretches of water, and far-spreading level surroundings, suggestive, in a slight measure, of Holland, and yet with a greenness and freshness that surely could belong only to the British Isles.

In no where else in these islands do we find anything like the Norfolk Broads, and a visit to them in summer makes an impression that is not easily forgotten.

The Broads are reached by rail, and the journey from Cromer or Yarmouth or Lowestoft is but of a few minutes' duration. The change of scenery from that of the wide flung North Sea, with its turbulance and winds, to this vista of peace, is almost remarkable, and the visitor can hardly realise that he is but a short journey from the ocean.

The Broads are at their best from the months of May to September. And it is then that tired city folk, that ardent yachtsmen, painters, fishermen, naturalists, and many others seek change and rest, either in one of the tiny bungalows, with their delightful miniature gardens, that are dotted along the banks of the waters, or in a houseboat or yacht, as their fancy may dictate.

To describe them geographically, one may say that the Broads are a series of rivers or waterways, and the happy possessor, temporary or otherwise . . . of a boat of some kind, has an excellent opportunity of seeing not only delightful scenery, but many interesting historic ruins of Abbeys and of Castles.

IVAN ADAIR.

FOUR SCANDINAVIAN WRITERS.

III.—Per Hallstrom.

(BY MATUSCHKA.)

IN dealing with four winters of Norway and Sweden, I have chosen two of the older modern school and two of the younger. In all cases I have chosen writers of note, but only the first, Strindberg, can be said to be so widely celebrated that his fame remains fame, even in this Western corner of Europe. It would be more correct to say that his fame has spread as far as this country—but only to a handful of people. I believe that of the remaining three, Björnsön is known but a little, and the last of them, merely as the Nobel Prize winner of 1920.

Per Hallström is probably not known at all. I have chosen to write of him rather than of Ibsen for this reason. Many people know much already of the author of "The Doll's House" and "Hedda Gabler"; of Hallstrom they do not know, but it would be well for them to know.

Per Hallström is the great short story writer of Sweden. He is to his own country what de Maupassant is to France. He has gathered up into these stories material from America and Sweden, Spain, France and England. He has treated the characters of his stories with the psychological differences necessary to mark off one country from another, and his Spanish stories are as truly Spanish as his Swedish stories are Swedish.

Herein he shows remarkable adaptability. His manner of self-expression cannot be likened to a heavily built edifice mounting up from its solid foundations. It is rather like some delicate tapestry, the maker of which draws in colour, design, fantasy, as it pleases him, drawing them magically into a whole. We are told that his style resembles ever widening circles, and that it is most unlike a straight line. He himself wanders far to find the colour for his picture. He digresses; he lingers by the way; he takes many a by-path that the balance of delicate analysis may be achieved.

He says, himself, in speaking of the construction of a story, "the more a story tends to become an episode as separate from a novel, a description of types or milieu, the more remote it is from the sculptural, and the nearer it approaches to painting and drawing."

He is said to have been influenced by Nietzsche, but he differs from him in the matter of hardness of doctrine, as he differs from the Maupassant in lack of conciseness and concentration, and gains in his ultimate belief, where the French writer is unchangingly a pessimist. His first book is "Strayed Birds." Another collection of short stories is called "Purple." Many of these are translated and edited together under the title "Selected Stories." In this volume "Melchior" is to be found; a sorrowful and beautiful tale of a man who was too easy going, too much of a good fellow to be wise and careful; how little by little, by a kind of gradual juggling, his ease goes from him. Even his comfortable chairs slip somehow from the house. He lives with his housekeeper, who nags. The day comes when she drives him out to sell his house, the only creature he loves. In "Carneola" and "Hidden Fires" the motif is that of a great love of man and woman, culminating in death. At all times the destinies of the persons involved in Hallström's stories are perfected and ennobled by death, so that it frees them from all that is small and mean.

As a young man Hallström worked in America as a chemist. Since he returned to Sweden in 1908 he has received honours from his countrymen, from which he rather withdrew than that he sought them out. He is on the committee of those who decide the Nobel Prize winner.

He is a devoted Shakesperean student, and has, perhaps, set a model for himself after the manner of the great master rather than of any other. He says of him:—

"Here, as in the world of reality, the universe re-echoes in the individual fate, hangs upon it by a thousand slender threads. The drama is not isolated upon a stage—it moves past like a gleam where wind and waves have come from far, and have farther yet to go.

"THE MASK."

(By "M.")

OUT of doors the short November day had faded into cold grey twilight; and the pleasant room was filled with the frosty fragrance of a great sheaf of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, that stood in a tall jar. It was a man's room, and held those things which men treasure through the passing years; and in a deep leather chair the owner of these treasures sat and gazed through the long, low window, at the orderly English landscape.

Things outside were almost painfully neat, he thought, and the dead leaves were carefully gathered up, instead of whirling in a mad dance, as they did round the old grey house at Rathderry, where his heart yet dwelt behind the sightless, shuttered windows. He looked across the fields with their trim, close hedges, and with a wave of unutterable longing, he pictured the loose stone walls that straggled untidily over the little green hill, at the foot of which rose the red chimneys of Rathderry House, through the gaunt bare trees.

The man stirred uneasily and withdrew his gaze from the peaceful English scene outside, to look at a large framed photograph that hung upon the wall. It was a picture of a powerful black horse, whose sensitive ears were pricked forward, and whose great intelligent eyes seemed to gaze straight at the figure in the chair, and the man's sight became blurred, for some reason or another. Below this picture there hung a fox's mask, the teeth still bared as in that moment when he turned to face his relentless pursuers in the half-ploughed stubble field. Just beneath the mask was the word, "Gurtna," and the date "December 8th, 1913." The man sank deeper into the big chair, and was lost in dreams, as the evening darkened and the wind began to rise.

What a hunt that had been, and how his hounds had worked; never making a mistake through all the forty minutes of the wonderful run, that came almost at the end of a disappointing day. It had been a run that tested both horse and rider, when the half-hearted were cast to the winds, and the faithful few pounded behind the closely-grouped pack. He had ridden the big black horse, and had flown the dreaded, dangerous "furry dyke" without even knowing that it had come in his way; for the black horse had a heart as big as his powerful body, and the memory of him would live for ever with the master he had carried so well.

A falling log in the big wide grate roused the man from his reverie, and, with tightly set mouth he turned to the papers on the table at his side. Someone had sent him a copy of the Irish Times, and with eager fingers he opened it, and turned the familiar pages.

Then it seemed to him as though on all that sheet of print just one thing was written: "Rathderry Hounds, Saturday 15, Gurtna."

Suddenly the man bowed his head on the crumpled sheets of paper.

A scientific meeting of the Royal Dublin Society will be held at Leinster House on Tuesday, November 27th, at 4.15 p.m.

Sir William Hepworth Mercer, K.C.M.G., is to be the chairman of the Pacific Cable Board, in succession to the late Sir H. Babington Smith. Mr. M. F. Headlam, C.B., of the Treasury, will succeed Sir William Mercer as one of the representatives of His Majesty's Government on the Board.

"LITTLE WILLIE."

THE ex-Crown Prince of Germany cannot remain out of the lime-light for long. By his return to the Reich he has set all Europe talking about him again; and for the moment, doubtless, he is well content. To such men notoriety of some sort is essential; and even such doubtful fame as that won by heading the list of war criminals must have been a gratification to the ex-Crown Prince. There can be little doubt about what his return to Germany foreshadows. Knowing the temper and nature of the German people as he does, he may cherish ambitions which have every chance of being realised. He may aim, and be justified in aiming, at the Imperial Throne.

The ex-Crown Prince is still a young man in the prime of his life. His character endears him to a certain section, and that a wide one, of the German people. For he is the Prussian high officer and Pan-German par excellence. He has all the graces and vices of that type; and that is the type which still dominates the German masses, whatever anybody may say. He is a militarist of over-weening ambitions, and is a cool and clear-sighted soldier, according to all accounts. He was in charge of the operations at Verdun during the war, and won no small name for himself by his conduct of military affairs there. Like all the Prussian officer class, he is brutally aggressive and without physical fear. The Zabern incident some years before the war threw an unenviable light on his character. An officer had cut down with his sabre a defenceless cripple, who was unable to get off the pavement in time to make way for him. He left him in the gutter. "Little Willie" wired a message of congratulation to the coward for his "brave and dignified" conduct!

Like many of the better-class Pan-Germans, "Little Willie" possesses a curious admiration for English institutions and manners. His clothes are always cut in the latest London style; he will smoke none but English-made cigarettes; he speaks English flawlessly and with a cultured accent. But the ruthless and stupid arrogance, which is so characteristic of the Prussian type, refuses to be hidden; a blind, invincible self-esteem makes him often appear to us islanders as a conceited buffoon, but his buffoonery is more often of the criminal, than of the laughable and innocent, type. When he visited India some dozen years ago his over-bearing behaviour caused not only laughter, but annoyance. For, like his peers, he is supremely tactless.

So long as he remains in Germany he will be dangerous beyond all shadow of doubt, and he will need to be watched. He has immense belief in the Hohenzollerns and in the German people, and he has a powerful following, made up of men of his own type throughout the Reich. These Pan-Germans are stupid and brutal to a degree, but they are incredibly ambitious, and are men of action, all of them. They are, therefore, to be distrusted.

White's Wafer Oats

The man who has to get through his work rapidly and be prepared for sudden and severe calls upon his energy needs a large margin of protein in his food.

A never failing reservoir of easily convertible energy, ready for any demand the body may make upon it, is at the service of daily users of Wafer Oats.

It has been stored by Nature with energy, with the mineral salts which the body needs to give it tone, and with food for replacing the waste tissue which results from activity of body or mind.

The exclusive processes employed in the manufacture of Wafer Oats make it very easily digested and of such delightful flavour.

THE PASSING HAND.

(BY BENJAMIN TROVATO.)

I AM not really so much concerned with the hand in itself as with the shaking or grasping hand. By that I do not mean the hand which twitches on the morning after the previous occasion, nor yet the hand which grasps your "brolly" from the hall-stand in the club. I mean the hand-shaking, or hand-grasping hand.

The hand-shake as a social custom in conventional greeting is, I am told, dying out. Nor is its passing to be much regretted. The sentimentalist, of course, will mourn it as a part of the good old order; but, none the less, its removal from our midst will have compensating advantages. Hitherto one had the same form of salute to greet Mrs. Brown-Robinson, whom one cordially detests, and to welcome home one's young brother Joseph from the frozen wastes of Labrador. Of course, it is true that one could have welcomed Joe with both hands, but to do so borders on the effusive, and would not only be at once distasteful to oneself, but embarrassing to manly young Joe as well.

But the real objection to hand-shaking goes deeper than this. The real objection is hands. One ought to be able to choose the hands that one's own palm is to come in contact with. It is true one may desire to clasp the pale hands one loved beside the Whatsitsname, but does one desire to explore the dark and clammy hand of Mr. Uriah Heep? I think not. Nor is it pleasant to find reposing in one's own the poet's hand, which is as lifeless in its greeting as would be the fin of an absent-minded and rather blasé seal. Again, if you have ever met the honest grasp of a surgeon's hand you will feel, as you restore the circulation to your fingers, that the more intelligent, more civilised and more graceful habit of raising the right hand above one's head in salute should, if only in mercy, be revived.

No doubt the hand-shake in its present form is a more austere greeting than the affectionate salutation of the French, which in these countries is only practised amongst ladies who immediately afterwards refer to each other as "that cat, Mrs. So-and-So." It can also be said that it is less embarrassing to shake hands than to rub noses, as is the amiable custom amongst some tribes; but, on the whole, its passing will do good, and although one may still sigh for the vanished hand there will be no need to sigh for the vanished hand-shake. If one cannot get it in Europe, there is always America. The sentimentalist who sighs for passing customs will get a hearty reception from his American cousin, and will be asked to "Put it right there, sir."

I suppose, indeed, that in their elegant and expressive language the Americans would tell us that "the mitt which rocks the cradle rules the world" were it not that the modern cradle is oscillated per foot and not per mitt, as heretofore.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

To-morrow will see the close of the Mission in the Dublin parishes. The attendance at Services, parochial and central, has been very good; and the utterances of the missioners showed that they fully realised the importance and value of the opportunity provided for offering help and encouragement to the many who have been suffering from spiritual strain, and for reminding the careless of the responsibilities which attach to the Christian calling. A united Service of Thanksgiving will be held in St. Patrick's Cathedral at 8 p.m. on November 29th, when the Archbishop will preach.

The Mission in St. John's Church, Sandymount, will begin this evening at 8. The missioners are the Rev. J. C. Fitzgerald and the Rev. W. F. Cullen.

The Rev. A. Aitken Crashaw, Rector of Oughtibridge, Sheffield, is about to conduct a parochial mission in the parish of Antrim. Arrangements are being made for a parochial mission in the parish of Ballywillan, Portrush, next March, which will be conducted by the Bishop of Ossory.

The annual meetings of the Clerical Society of Ireland will be held in the Boardroom, 37 Dawson street, on Tuesday and Wednesday next at 2.30 p.m. On Tuesday, the Rev. Canon Price (President) will read a paper on "The Anglo-Catholic Congress and Movement," which will be spoken to by the Revs. C. B. Moss and W. H. T. Gahan. At 4 o'clock a paper on "Religion and Boys" will be read by the Rev. Dr. Harden, the speakers being the Revs. C. B. Armstrong and Canon J. C. Forrester. On Wednesday the first paper will be read at 2.30 by the Rev. G. A. Chamberlain (Vice-President) on "The Revolt of Civilisation," the speakers being Revs. Canon W. S. Kerr and E. C. Hodges. At 4.30 the Revs. T. C. Hammond and Canon G. F. Graham will speak to a paper on "Modernism," by the Rev. W. R. M. Orr. It is to be hoped that the members present will endeavour to remain until the close of the second speech on each paper.

The question of the future of the Fishamble street Mission has been occupying the serious attention of the Committee. Difficulties have arisen owing to the departure of many former workers from the city and to the reduction in the number of Divinity students who are able to undertake work in the Mission. For many years this Mission has provided a valuable training ground for Divinity students in work of a pastoral nature, and any curtailment of its activities would be a real loss to the Church.

At a racent meeting of the Committee of the Dublin University Mission to Chota Nagpur it was announced that the Rev. G. C. P. Stevenson was expected home at the beginning of January, and that the Rev. A. P. Armstrong, late curate of Enniskillen, intends to sail for India early in the new year to take up educational work in St. Columba's Collegiate School. The Rev. H. M. Harris was appointed hon. secretary for the Diocese of Dublin. He will be glad to assist any of the clergy who wish to help the Mission by organising lectures, etc.

Arrangements are being made for holding simultaneous missions in the rural parishes in Dublin Diocese and in East Glenadough in the autumn of 1924, and in West Glenalough and Kildare in the spring of 1925. The Church of Ireland Home Mission Society, 39 Molesworth street, will supply explanatory leaflets and give suggestions for preparation to any of the clergy who communicate with this address.

MAGDALEN CHURCH.

In the Magdalen Church, Dublin, the sermon to-morrow morning, in connection with the Parochial Mission, will be upon the subject, "The Greatest Question of All." At Evening Service the chaplain will conclude the series on Old Testament heroes.

CHRISTMAS AT ROSS'S HOTEL.

The management of Ross's Hotel, Kingstown, issues its Christmas programme just when people are beginning seriously to discuss "where shall we go?" The Christmas arrangements cover the period December 22 to 27, and include a dance on the Saturday, concert on Sunday, whist drive on Christmas Eve, concert, gala dinner, dancing and games on Christmas Day and Boxing Day, and bridge on Thursday. There will be an orchestra daily. All functions and meals are available to non-residents. This hotel has an ever-widening circle of friends, who appreciate its solid comforts in dining, rest and recreation rooms, while its general amenities are all that can be desired.

CINEMA BAL MASQUE.

At a meeting of the Cinema Bal Masque Committee last Wednesday details of the function were discussed and several fresh attractions arranged. It was decided that the Committee should endeavour to obtain a cinematograph record of the event. A special studio is being erected so that dancers can be photographed in fancy dress. Methods of judging for the award of the prizes (£180) were arranged and the manner of of producing colour lighting effects settled. It was reported that the preparation of the floor by a special process had begun and that heating arrangements on the most approved hygienic principles were in hand.

IRISH STOCK EXCHANGES.

DUBLIN.

FUNDS AND BANKS IRREGULAR. GUINNESS DULL. MARCONIS BETTER ON THE DIVIDEND NOTIFICATION. COATS HIGHER. TOBACCOS AND OILS LOWER.

Beyond some slight activity in British Government Funds and Banking Securities, the week-end business current on 'Change was of the smallest possible description, and the price fluctuations irregular. Marconi Ord. were harder on the belated final dividend notification for 1922. There is no change in the distributions for 1922, i.e., 12 p.c. on the Participating Pref., and 15 p.c. on the Ordinary capital.

In the Funds, Consols rose 1/16 to 57½, Victory Bonds ⅛ to 91⅞, and Irish Land 3 p.c. 1 to 65¼, but War Loan 4 p.c. fell ⅜ to 100 1/16, Funding Loan ⅛ to 88⅞, and Irish Land 2¾ p.c. ½ to 59¼, while War Loan 5 p.c. repeated 100¼, and Guaranteed 2¾ p.c. Land Stock 59¼.

In Banks, Bank of Ireland Stock rose 1 to 246, but Hibernians fell 1/16 to 6 7/16, Nationals ¼ to 19¼, and Royals ½ to 13 for an odd lot.

Marconi Ord. rose 9d. to 45s.

As regards Home Rails, Great Southern Ord. eased ⅛ to 47⅜, and the Guaranteed repeated 60. Dublin and South-Eastern was bid for at 18½, or ½ under last price. Dublin and Kingstown Leased Line rose ¼ to 102, and Dublin and South-Eastern "A" 4 p.c. Debs. were still called 60 to 62 nominally. Great Northern Debs. fell ¼ to 75¼.

Parent Tyre Def. fell 2s. to 21s., and Dunlop Rubber Ord. realised 8s. 7½d. for a few shares.

In Drapery Shares, Walpole Bros. 5 p.c. Pref. fell 5s. 1½d. to 60s. for a broken lot.

In Trading, etc., J. C. Parkes and Sons Pref. repeated 13s. 6d., and Burke Debs. 8, while Irish Times 2nd Pref. rose 3d. to 15s.- Irish-American Oil Pref. repeated 19s. 6d. Mexican Eagle Oil fell 9d. to 22s. 10½d

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

AERATED BREAD CO.—The report states that during the year the Board have continued their policy of reducing the prices charged to customers, and the increased volume of trade shows that these reduced prices are appreciated by the public. The reductions have, however, slightly affected the percentage of the gross profit. Allowing for these reductions in price, the trade shows a large increase over that of the previous year. The net profit earned was £131,149. After deducting income tax paid to April 5, 1923 (£8,883), and adding the balance (£14,639) brought in, there is a total available profit of £136,905. The directors recommend a final dividend for the year ended September 29, 1923, of 1/- per share on the Ord. Shares, in addition to the interim dividend of 9d. per share paid in June last.

ATTAREE KHAT TEA.—Interim dividend of 7½ per cent.

BARGANG TEA.—Interim dividend of 7½ per cent.

BOVRIL AUSTRALIAN ESTATES.—The company announces that the half-year's interest due 30th November inst. will be paid by warrants on that date, and that the Debentures, all of which mature on that date, will then be paid off.

BRITISH OVERSEAS BANK.—Dividend at rate of 6 per cent. per annum—3/- per share, less tax—on "A" Ordinary Shares, for half-year.

DENVER UNITED BREWERIES.—Report for year to 30th June, 1923, states that sales of temperance beverages show decrease as compared with the preceding year. A new brand of beverage has lately been placed on the market, which it is anticipated will appeal to public taste. Profit was £2,447, which is considered satisfactory. Sales of ice cream are very encouraging, and the directors are of opinion from profit shown since the close of the year that this department will speedily develop into a lucrative business.

JOSEPH SPINK AND SONS.—Dividend of 10 per cent., free of tax.

MANBRE SUGAR AND MALT.—Final dividend of 12½ per cent., making 17½ per cent. on the Ordinary, and £67,377 to be divided among the 75,000 Deferred Shares.

MARSTON, THOMPSON AND EVERSHED.—Interim on Ord. Shares of 1/6 per share net, payable 24th November.

OCEANA CONSOLIDATED.—The report of the directors of the Oceana Consolidated Co. for the year to June 30 last states that the balance of profit for the period is £28,583, and £54,297 was brought in, making £82,880. A valuation of the company's assets, taking quoted securities at middle prices on June 30, 1923, and unquoted securities on the basis of the best information available shows a depreciation which is amply covered by the reserves. The directors have declared a dividend of 7½ per cent., less tax, for the year, and £53,804 is carried forward.

RAJAWELLA PRODUCE.—Dividends on the Preference Shares at 6 per cent. per annum for the half-year; on the Ordinary Shares of 20 per cent. for the year, both less tax. The issue of 8,378 new Preference Shares of £1 each and 57,912 new Ordinary Shares of 10/- each is recommended, with the right to the Ordinary shareholders to take up one new Ordinary Share at 12/6 in respect of each five Ordinary Shares held.

ROYAL BANK OF SCOTLAND.—For year ended 13th October the net profit is £426,225. Dividend of 12 per cent., with bonus of 2 per cent., for year, both less tax; £20,000 written off buildings expenditure; £30,000 to pension reserve fund, and £162,225 added to rest, making it £1,565,961.

STEEL CO. OF SCOTLAND.—Dividend of 5 per cent. for year.

STEPNEY TYRES.—Report for the year to September 30 last states that owing to severe competition due to unrestricted importation of foreign tyres into England free of duty, and consequent reduction of prices below actual cost of manufacture, the accounts, after providing for depreciation, reserve for bad debts, and income tax, show a net loss of £35,454.

STRAND HOTEL.—Final dividend to 30th September, 1923, on Part. Pref. Ord. Shares at the rate of £15 per cent. per annum, making, with the interim payment, a dividend of £11 per cent. for the year.

TINGRI TEA.—Interim dividend of 7½ per cent.

WEST CHESHIRE BREWERY.—Report for past financial year shows net profit, including £15,397 brought forward, of £56,221. Settlement of amount of refund under excess profits duty has enabled the directors to place £22,000 to reserve, making this £108,000, and final dividend of 5 per cent. and bonus of 5 per cent. are proposed, making 15 per cent. for the year; carrying forward £31,598.

YOUNGS, CRAWSHAY, AND YOUNGS.—Final dividend of 7½ per cent., making 10 per cent for the year on Ord., less tax.

OIL OUTPUT.

Mexican Eagle Oil Co.—The production for the week ended 17th November, 1923, was 159,000 barrels.

LONDON STOCKS IRREGULAR.

NEW LOANS IMPENDING.

The Stock markets were inclined to be rather irregular yesterday, partly owing to the nervous fluctuations in the foreign exchanges and partly to the great amount of underwriting for new loans this week-end. In the Gilt-edged market British Funds were at first rather dull, but they brightened later, and became firm, closing unchanged. India 7 per cent. Loan gained 1 at 115.

In the FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES market weakness developed among French issues on the renewed decline of the franc. The Fours fell ½ at 25 ex div. Mexicans were very strong, and had another good advance on the intimation that the interest on the foreign debt would be paid at the end of the year. The Fives at 56 and the Sixes at 66 both rose 2½ points. Peruvian Corporation Debs. gained a point to 94 on the doubling of the dividend. Argentine Fives of 1886 rose 1 to 100. Brazil issues were weak and lower; the Fours at 40, the Funding of 1908 at 79, and the Funding of 1914, at 69, each fell a point.

HOME RAILS were quietly steady, changes being few. London Midland and Scottish Ord. rose ½ to 105, and the 4 per cent. Pref. a point to 83. London and North-Eastern Def.-Ord. at 32½ rose ½. Metropolitan Pref. at 99½ gained 1.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILWAYS showed but few changes on the day. Antofagasta Ord. were rather in demand and rose a point to 86½. Mexican Rails gained ½ to 10, and the 6 per cent. Pref. rose 1 to 18. Mexican National 1st Pref. rose ½ to 5½. Argentines were unaltered, but "Canpacs" lost a point at 166. Grand Trunk Pacific Debs. fell back 2 points to 39½.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

RALLY IN EAGLES.

Transactions in Oil Shares yesterday were on an extremely small scale, and there was little of interest, apart from a few of the leaders; while like most other departments of the "House," this section developed an irregular tendency. The price movements finally recorded were, however, slight. Some hesitation was observable at the start, and Mexican Eagles further weakened, but later the price rallied. Shells kept within comparatively narrow limits, and finished showing a small loss, and Royal Dutch, in which few transactions were recorded, also slipped back slightly. Anglo-Persians further strengthened, while a small gain was marked in Burmahs. V.O.C. holdings came into request. There was little of interest among Trinidad issues. General Petroleum of Trindad met with a moderate amount of support, but United British were again a dull market. The only quotable alteration among Rumanians was a shrinkage in Phœnix. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

From all accounts the loan that is to be provided, under the auspices of the League of Nations, for the rehabilitation of Hungary is well advanced, and when conditions are more favourable in the new year it may be launched. Unlike the accommodation granted to Austria, this money, it is said, will not carry the guarantee of the members of the League, but will be hypothecated on some valuable assets that Hungary possesses. This is interesting, but we imagine that, even if the assets are valuable and adequate, it may be found necessary for the League to be ultimately responsible for the loan. It was the guarantee of the various Governments that gave the Austrian loan a fillip, and, in the case of the Hungarian, those who provide the money must surely be given the safeguard of "recourse to the Powers" in case of eventualities.

Holders of Grand Trunk Pacific 4 p.c. Debenture Stock will be glad to learn that conversations between Major Graham A. Bell, Deputy Minister of Canadian Railways, and representatives of the Debenture Holders' Committee have been resumed, and are to be continued. In a recent interview, Major Bell was reported to have spoken unfavourably regarding the outcome of the negotiations, but his remarks were apparently wrongly interpreted as referring to the Grand Trunk Pacific, whereas it was in reference to the appeal of the Grand Trunk Junior Stockholders.

A circular of the Rubber Shareholders' Association, issued last night, points out that the Straits rubber group, comprising eight companies, is taking a referendum on the question of publishing costs of production in annual reports, etc. For the benefit of R.S.A. holders in this group, the circular gives the committee's comments, pointing out that since the directors of the above group have decided for themselves against publication of costs, the shareholders' votes should be recorded on that issue alone, and that to vote for leaving the question to the decision of the directors would be tantamount to voting against. The circular gives the committee's reasons for publishing production costs, which may be summarised into the points that market price is governed by supply and demand, and unaffected by publication; that complete secrecy is impossible; and that the Association's scheme for standardised accounts would remove misleading elements, due to difference in methods of arriving at actual cost of production.

In spite of every effort on their part, said Mr. E. G. Cubitt, at yesterday's meeting of the shareholders of Lewes Chemical Manure Co., the heavy loss of £22,294 had to be reported. Some shareholders suggested the immediate closing down of the business. The Board had carefully considered that drastic step, but they had decided in view of some slight sign of improvement in trade, to postpone a decision until the end of the season that had just commenced.

The Customs duties on footwear imported into the Argentine are to be doubled.

LONDON MINING MARKET STEADY.

RAND MINES GROUP IN FAVOUR.

With the preliminary arrangements in connection within the mining carry-over, in progress on the last dealing day of the week, it was hardly surprising to find markets generally quiet yesterday. Exchange rates were steadier, but business all round was on a very modest scale. In the Mining market Kaffirs held their ground, but public interest was at a low ebb, despite a recovery in the price of gold. It was evident, however, that the open account in these descriptions was of small dimensions, and no difficulties arose over Contangoes. The members of the Central Mining—Rand Mines group—were in favour, while the demand was not sufficient to put prices materially higher. Rand Mines stood appreciably higher, and several of the Far Easterns were harder.

Business in the Rhodesian market was slight. Chartered were the turn stronger, while Cams, Rezende and Sherwood Starr closed at a higher level. De Beers issues were slightly easier at the close, but Consolidated Diamonds improved a little. The price of tin was lower at £222 12s. 6d. per ton, and Nigerians showed several declines. Kramat Pulai, however, were in request, and closed higher. West Africans were quiet, a gain in Fanti Consols being offset by a loss in Ashanti Goldfields. Rio Tintos maintained their positon. In other directions Mexicans were in demand, Mexico Mines again advancing. Mexican Corporation rose sharply on the publication of the report. Closing prices:—

STORE CATTLE SALE.

MESSRS. GANLY, SONS AND CO.

There was a much better show of cattle this week, entries embracing some exceptionally good lots of aged bullocks and heifers in forward condition suitable for short keep, the demand for which was keen, and values were on a firmer basis than last week. A lot of choice Aberdeen Angus polly bullocks the property of Mr. T. Byrne, Dunlavin, made the top price of the sale—viz., £23 10/-, the live weight being equivalent to 47/6 per cwt. Another pen, the property of Mr. Peter Byrne, made 44/- per cwt. Horned bullocks sold as follows:—£22 17/6, £22 10/-, £22, £21 5/-, £21, £20 7/6, £20, £19 2/6, £19, £18 10/-, £18, £17 15/-, £17 5/-, £17, £16 10/-, £16, etc.; from 36/- to 41/- per cwt.

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

At above firm's sale on Thursday last trade proved very much weaker than heretofore. Prices generally fell about 2/- per cwt. all round, probably owing to the change to harsh weather on this side preventing home feeders investing, and the detention now enforced across the water. It was not possible to effect a clearance of the rougher and thinner sorts, but cattle of good quality and condition found purchasers. Horned bullocks and heifers made from £19 17/6 to £13, or from 38/- to 34/- per cwt. Pollies from £19 10/- to £14, or from 42/- to 36/- per cwt. Aberdeen Angus and Hereford Crosses, £21 to £15, or from 43/- to 39/- per cwt.

The next meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the Little Entente will take place at Belgrade on January 11 and 12.

INDUSTRIALS FIRM.

MOVEMENTS IN FAVOUR OF HOLDERS.

Miscellaneous and Industrial markets generally maintained a firm tone yesterday, and in some departments a slightly increased turnover was experienced. Changes mostly favoured holders, one or two strong spots again being noticeable. Thomas Tilling shares, for instance, came in for a good deal of attention on strong rumours of amalgamation with the Underground group, but no confirmation of this report was obtainable. The shares closed substantially 5s. higher at 46s. 3d., and other Motor descriptions displayed firmness. Rovers were inquired for and put on 9d. to 15s., Napiers 6d. to 12s. 6d., and S.T.D. Pref. a like amount to the same level, while Humbers strengthened to 25s. 9d. Rolls Royce eased to 29s. 6d. Among Iron and Steels, South Durhams found fresh support and rose 3s. 9d. to 66s. 3d. in anticipation of the meeting to be held on Wednesday next. Iron and Steels generally exhibited a hardening tendency. Little of interest transpired among Shipping issues. Cables were inclined to improve. There was not so much doing in Tobaccos, but in the Brewery section Allsopp issues responded to the good dividend announcements, while Watney Combe Def. further advanced. Hotel shares remained firm. Movements among Caterers and Foodstuffs were unimportant.

In the Miscellaneous trading section, Manbre Sugars and the Def. displayed strength on the good dividend announcements. African and Easterns hardened, as did also Cements and Wm. Griffiths. Land shares showed to advantage, Bays and Sudan Plantations continuing their upward movement. Dealings are expected to commence on Monday in Clyde Valley Electrics at round about 11½. The lists for the Denaby and Cadeby £800,000 6 p.c. Debs. were closed early yesterday morning owing to over-subscription. Fresh support was forthcoming for Courtaulds, which rose to 62s. 9d. at one time. Some realisations before the close, however, caused the shares to finish below the best at 62s. 6d., though at that level they showed an advance of 1s. on the day. In the Banking section Nationals of Egypt rallied to 24½ and Westminsters to 17 7/16. Union Discounts gained ½ at 16½. Insurances had a firm appearance. Suns put on ⅜ to 18⅜, while rises of ½ took place in Eagle Stars to 15½, in Phoenix to 10⅞, in the Pelican shares to 11⅜, and in Royals to 24¼. Employers hardened to 4 7/16. Except for Amalgamated Press, which put on 1s. 6d. to 49s. 6d., Newspaper shares were dull. Associated Def. dropped ⅛ to 6 1/16, and "Daily Mirrors" 1/16 to 6½. George Newnes declined to 14s. 9d., or 1s. 3d. down on balance. On the maintenance of the dividend for the past year, Marconis further improved to 2 3/16, while the Prefs. held their ground at 1 13/16. Among recent issues "Daily Mail" Debs. gave way to 2½ prem., but Tata Power "A" and "B" Debs. both improved to 2¼ dis., and South Wales Power Debs. to 1½ premium.

MARCONI REPORT.

A DIFFICULT YEAR.

The report of the directors of Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company, Ltd., states, in submitting the accounts for the year ending the 31st December, 1922, they regret again to have to state that many matters to which they have made frequent reference in past years still remain unsettled, so that the accounts do not reflect the true strength of the company's position.

The credit balance of profit and loss account for the year amounted to £302,948, which, added to the balance brought forward from the last account, leaves to the credit of profit and loss account a sum of £967,778.

They recommend payment of further dividends for the year ending 31st December, 1922, on the Ordinary Shares 10 per cent., making 15 per cent. for the year; on the Preference Shares 5 per cent., making 12 per cent. for the year, leaving a balance to carry forward to next account of £525,271 15s. 10d.

The directors have carefully considered the value at which the shares and debts due by associated and other companies stand, and are of the opinion that, in the aggregate, they are not worth less than the amount entered in the balance sheet—£3,543,531. Patents and rights figure in the accounts at £304,041. The directors are of opinion that their value considerably exceeds that sum.

The past year was again one of extreme difficulty. Unsettled political conditions, unstable exchanges, and financial stringency have continued to prevail in most foreign countries. Business has consequently been very restricted and very difficult. Some of the associated companies have felt that severe strain resulting from the continuance of these unprecedented conditions. They have needed further substantial financial assistance to enable them to weather the storm.

The directors regret that no settlement has been made by any of the Government departments in respect of any of the company's claims arising out of the war for services rendered during the war or in respect of the use of the company's patents and inventions since the war. No sum, therefore, in respect of any of these matters appears in the past year's accounts. Negotiations, however, are being conducted with the Chancellor of the Exchequer with a view to referring all these questions to a single arbitrator. It is hoped that it may be possible to make some more definite statement at the general meeting.

In July last the directors had hopes of completing an agreement at an early date with the Postmaster-General in respect of licences to conduct telegraph services with the Dominions, Colonies, and foreign countries, and were of opinion that these negotiations might be prejudiced by any statement which they might then make. They, therefre, thought it wise, in the interests of the shareholders, to defer convening the general meeting, and issued a circular accordingly. Difficulties, however, arose which have delayed agreement being reached, and although the directors are not without expectation that matters may be brought to an early satisfactory conclusion, they do not feel justified in further postponing the meeting. A full statement will be made to the shareholders on that occasion.

THE MONEY MARKET.

TREASURY BILL TENDERS.

EXCHANGES NERVOUS.

Much surprise was caused by the fact that some Treasury 4 per cent. Bonds had been sold at the tenders this week. Offers for the same at £94 10s. were accepted in full. Disappointment resulted from the Treasury bill tenders, the average expected being 3⅜ per cent., whereas it was under 3 7/16. Offers for bills dated Monday to Thursday at £99 3s. 4d. were accepted in full, and for Fridays and Saturdays £99 3s. 6d. got 66 per cent. This had the effect of weakening discounts, fine three months' bank bills closing 3 7/16 per cent., after business at 3⅜. This week's Treasuries were 3¼, which rate applied for January bills. Money was easy, night loans mostly 2½, although a little accommodation was still going on at 2⅜. Fixtures were 2½.

Gold advanced 6d. per ounce to 94s. 5d. On Indian buying, silver rose 1/16d. per ounce for both spot and forward delivery to 33d. and 32 11/16d., respectively.

Less buoyancy was noticeable in the market for foreign exchange, where the feeling was rather nervous. Sterling was 4.36⅞-4.37, after 4.38, while French francs were 81.25-81.35, with Belgium 94.75-94.85. The following are closing quotations:—

NEW ISSUES.

IRISH FREE STATE NATIONAL LOAN FOR £10,000,000.

The prospectus is published in this issue of the first loan of the Irish Free State. It is an issue of £10,000,000 5 p.c. Registered and Inscribed Stock, issued at 95, and returning to an investor just over £5 5s. per cent, without taking the redemption profit into account. The most important point of the prospectus is that the dividend on the stock is payable without deduction of income tax, and holders of the stock who are neither domiciled nor ordinarily resident in the Free State will receive their dividends exempt from all Free State taxation, present or future. The terms are exactly the same as those attached to the British 5 p.c. War Loan, and it is unnecessary to point out that the payment without deduction of income tax is a special attraction to small investors whose incomes are below the taxable limit. A person who has no other source of income may buy up to £2,500 of National Loan Stock and get £125 a year clear without any income tax worries or claims trouble. The loan is redeemable at par between 1935-1945 by the operation of a sinking fund. In addition to the sum for the payment of interest on the loan the Government will set aside on 1st June and 1st December 1¼ per cent. on the nominal amount of the loan, which will be carried to a sinking fund, to be applied during the succeeding half-year to the purchase of stock for cancellation if the price is under par. The interest is payable on the 1st June and 1st December, and 2 per cent. on the instalments will be payable on June 1 next. The instalments are: £10 on application, £20 on allotment, £30 on January 18, and £35 on February 22. Applications must be for £10 or multiples thereof, and forms of application may be obtained and filled up at any bank or post office in the Free State. The register of the stock will be kept at the Bank of Ireland in Dublin, and at the branch office of the bank in Cork, and the stock will be dealt in on the Dublin and Cork Exchanges. All the usual transfer and registration facilities are guaranteed. Trustees in the Free State may invest in the stock. The list of applications will close on or before Monday, December 10. Applicants may use the form attached to the prospectus on page 8.

"KING JOHN."

BRITISH EMPIRE SHAKESPEARE SOCIETY PAPER.

Shakespeare's "King John" was discussed in a paper read by Dr. J. A. A. Johnson, LL.D., President, at a meeting of the Dublin Branch of the British Empire Shakespeare Society in the Molesworth Hall, Molesworth street, Dublin, on Thursday night.

The lecturer said that in "King John" Shakespeare departed more from the accurate relation of events than he did in his other histories. Although there were many anachronisms and errors of chronology, the story of the play in all broad essentials was true. Shakespeare's historical plays focussed the attention on the clash of ideals and the clash of forces which were the heart and soul of the events written down by historians. In this play he concentrated on the story of Arthur and the struggle with Rome.

Three characters were painted in most masterly fashion, John himself, Constance, and Falconbridge. John had often been compared with Richard III., but only resembles him in his misdeeds. He most closely resembled Claudius, King of Denmark.

The Falconbridge was the pure creation of Shakespeare's brain. He possessed all those noble attributes that had made the English race the greatest people in the world. A steady growth of character could be observed in him all through the play.

A programme of recitals and songs was presented by Miss Dagg, Miss Casey, Mr. W. J. Killeen, Mr. Mirrelson, Mr. B. E. Byers, and Miss Cordner.

BELFAST LINEN TRADE.

For Fortnight Ending November 21st.

Flax—The Irish markets continue to be well supplied. The demand for all classes of fibre has been sustained and prices are firmer for the lower grades. On the Continent supplies are more plentiful and prices are easier, but a still further reduction in prices is anticipated.

Yarns—There is little fresh to report during the past two weeks. Tow yarns are still well in demand for dress goods, and more mills are reported going on full time. Line yarns are in better enquiry and orders are coming through in limited quantities, but we are afraid line yarns will not be right until damask end improves. Taking the market generally, the steady improvement is being maintained, and prices firmer.

Weavers—Demand continues on a wider range, and the quantities placed are fairly satisfactory. The whole position of the trade in relation to prices, at which orders have been booked, is most uncommercial, and manufacturers generally are deploring the fact, that whilst more looms are working, it is doubtful if the rates will permit them to see cost.

Merchants — Housekeeping goods continue in moderate demand, day by day orders coming along for immediate delivery. In U.S.A. market sales from stock are distinctly good, as is to be expected at this time of the year.

Dress Linens—Some important repeat orders are coming forward for dress linens and suitings, but the deliveries asked for by customers abroad cannot in many cases be accepted, and extensions have had to be arranged. The demand is for a wide range of colours, the assortments including all the latest French shades. Prices remain firm, with an advancing tendency.

CHURCH WIDOWS' AND ORPHANS' FUND.

The Board of the Widows and Orphans' Fund (Church of Ireland) met on Thursday. Permission to continue membership was granted to two clergymen who had undertaken duty in England, and to one who had accepted a living in New Zealand. An application to secure increased benefits was granted. Notification was received of the death on October 12 of a member of the fund. His son was declared entitled, under Section 25, to an annuity of £15 12/-. The Board decided to pay out of the proceeds of the special appeal a bonus to each orphan qualified on June 30 last. Intimation was received of the death on October 20 of an annuitant at £100, chargeable to the Connor Widows' Fund. The Board adjourned to December 20.

Our customers, therefore, incur no risks as to its wearing qualities, and, if it can be proven that as good a vehicle is procurable elsewhere for any amount up to Fifty Pounds, we will take back any car supplied by us, and refund the sum paid for it.

PRODUCE AND FOOD.

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD, Friday.—Owing to the Ministry of Agriculture issuing an order prohibiting the movement of cattle from Birkenhead lairages business was disorganised, and no quotations were available, either for cattle or sheep. There were about 3,800 fat cattle, and 2,785 lambs standing.

GRAIN.

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE, Friday.—There was a fair number of samples on our Exchange and in private hands throughout the city, but except for prime quality grain little progress seems to be practicable in business, and prices in the main are without real quotable change. Irish wheat goes 22/6 to 26/6; best white oats are bringing 16/- to 16/3 and 16/6, but poor and ordinary descriptions are still quoted from 14/6 to 15/9 per barrel. Black oats of good commercial quality from 12/- to 12/9 and 13/- per barrel, but some lower grades are scarcely negotiable. Rye nominally around 25/-, and barley 16/6 to 21/- per barrel.

MARK LANE, Friday.—There was a fair attendance of buyers at the week-end market, and a fair business resulted at full to occasionally firmer prices. WHEAT—English tends firmer, and suitable milling grades quoted at 9/3 to 9/10, with inferior at 8/- per 112lbs., free on rail. Imported steady; No. 1 Northern Manitoba quoted 47/9, Barusso 62½lbs. 46/6 both ex ship per 496lbs. FLOUR—A firm demand; London standard straight run quoted at 48/-, patents 40/- to 41/-, Town Households 36/- per sack delivered; all English country straight 30/6 to 32/- per sack, delivered to London stations. Imported steady; Manitoba patents range from 37/- to 40/-, as to sample, Minnesota 39/6 to 40/6, Australian 33/- to 34/- per 280lbs. ex store. BARLEY—English firm, and malting kinds range from 10/- to 15/-, with feeders 8/6 to 9/- per 112lbs. free on rail. Imported fully steady; Californian 40/- to 44/6, Chilian brewing 38/6 to 44/- per 448lbs. ex store. MAIZE firmer, while sparingly offered; Plate ex ship 38/6 to 39/-, landed 39/6, No. 6 yellow African ex ship 38/-. OATS—English steady at 8/4 to 10/3 per 112lbs. free on rail as to sample. Imported very firm; Plate r.a.q. ex ship 22/6, landed 23/9, No. 2 Canadian feed landed 26/-, No. 2 Canadian Western now ex ship to arrive 28/3, old landed 29/3, No. 3 do. old landed 27/6 new 27/3, Algerian Tunisian landed 27/-, New Zealand A grade 38/- to 40/-, B grade do. 36/- to 37/- all per 320lbs.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—WHEAT—American markets finished decidedly better than expected, and, with no shipments to Liverpool from the Argentine for first week, forward deliveries of wheat here were dearer at the outset, and further improved to a fair extent on scarcity of sellers, and, despite unfavourable late afternoon cables, finished steady at the best point. C.i.f. parcels of No. 1 Manitoba about due sold at 44/1½, November-December 44/- to 43/10½, No. 3 15th December 41/1½ to Liverpool, and latter December 41/1½ Manchester. C.i.f. parcels of MAIZE River Plate November-December sold at 37/7½, December-January 37/10½, Gal.-Fox. afloat 37/- and Bessarabian afloat 38/- per quarter. Wheat on the spot was quiet with prices unchanged to 1d. per cental under Tuesday. Maize spot parcels met a moderate demand at about 2d. per cental over Tuesday; River Plate quoted 8/1 to 8/2, and white South African 8/1 to 8/4 per cental. FLOUR firm and held for 1/- advance; official price of straight run now 37/- per 280lbs. ex mill. Graded wheat futures open ½d. per cental dearer, and further advanced gradually until ¾d. to 1d. advance on last night had been registered, the market closing steady thereat. In yellow River Plate maize options January sold at 8/1½ to 8/2, and latter price closing value.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON, Friday.—BUTTER—General stability was again the leading feature in this market, and New Zealand descriptions are 6/- per cwt. dearer on the week, with all others slightly higher. Demand was again directed towards best qualities. Indications are now acting as to the general position holding good until the end of the year. The United States recently purchased large quantities of New Zealand for direct shipment, and it would appear that American supplies will be short until next spring. New Zealand finest salted quoted 206/- to 210/-, good to fine 200/- to 202/-, unsalted 210/-, Australian salted 198/- to 202/-, unsalted 208/-; Argentine finest selections 176/- to 180/-, fair to fine 155/- to 174/-, inferior 148/- to 152/-; Irish creameries, salted 194/- to 204/-, unsalted 206/- to 210/-, separators 185/-; Danish 216/- to 218/-, Dutch 196/- to 212/-, Baltic States 170/- to 194/-, Siberian 145/- to 178/- per cwt; Dutch rolls 22/6 to 23/6, French ditto 23/- to 24/- per dozen lbs. CHEESE—The market for English remains very sparingly supplied, and prices consequently maintain a firm tendency. Colonial was accorded fair support, and prices are dearer on the week. BACON—There was a good inquiry for most kinds, though lean selections were mostly sought after, while the market for fat and heavy disclosed some irregularity; no change was made in quotations. Irish ranges from 97/- to 105/-, Danish 94/- to 100/-, Swedish 92/- to 98/-, Canadian boxes 88/- to 92/-, bales 88/- to 94/-; Canadian cured American 84/- to 87/-, American Wiltshire cut 78/- to 86/-, Cumberland cut 76/- to 78/-, bellies (English cut) 68/- to 74/- per cwt. HAMS—Supplies of English remain small, and requirements are sustained. With regard to American, a firm tone predominated for best descriptions, but secondary kinds met an easy market. EGGS—There is a good demand for all the lower-priced goods in face of smaller arrivals. Trade for best qualities is inclined to sag. Quotations—English 32/- to 36/-, Danish (18lbs.) 28/- to 32/-, 16lbs. 24/- to 26/-; Dutch, all brown 28/- to 32/-, mixed 24/- to 29/-, Italian 17lbs. 20/- to 22/-, 16lbs. 19/- to 21/-, 15lbs. 18/- to 19/-, Styrian, Jugo Slavian, Serbian, Hungarian, and Lithuanian 16/- to 18/-, Polish 13/- to 13/6, Russian 14/6 to 15/6, Morocco 13/-, Chinese 12/6 to 13/6, South African best 20/6 to 21/-, medium 16/6 to 16/9; Argentine 16/6 to 17/-, Australian 20/- to 21/-, New Zealand 22/- to 23/- per 120.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—Irish and Danish BACON steadily held at fully late prices. Canadian Wiltshires remain quiet, without material change in value. There is no new feature in the market for American bacon here, Chicago advices being discouraging with regard to both live hogs and speculative products, and holders are free sellers of all descriptions. American Wiltshires are reduced to 76/- to 80/-, backs 75/- to 82/-, and light Cumberlands 66/- to 72/-, with buyers operating sparingly, bellies again meeting a fair demand. HAMS steady for long cut, but shorts continue to move downwards on free sellers, being now offered at 105/- to 117/- per cwt. Shoulders still quiet for squares, though picnics continue to be firmly held at recent currencies. LARD on the spot still scarce and nominal for prime steam, but American refined is reduced 1/- to 84/- to 85/6, with buyers operating cautiously. CHEESE is only moderate request, but steadily held for late rates. BUTTER continues firm and hardening; Irish creameries now raised to 200/- to 204/-, and Canadian 195/- to 198/- per cwt., though present high prices somewhat restrict trading. EGGS firm, at 28/- to 30/- for Irish hen, 17/- to 18/- Canadian, and 13/- to 14/- Polish per 120.

PATRICK KEHOE, LTD., Irish Bacon Curers and Lard Refiners. Importers of American Provisions. (Estd. 100 years).—103 FRANCIS ST., DUBLIN.—(Advt.)

REFINED LARD "FUTURES," Liverpool, Friday.—The decline in Chicago had already been fully discounted here, and with sellers showing more reserve prices improved 3d. to 6d. per cwt.—November exceptionally being unchanged—during the early session. Business comprised Nov. at 82/6, Dec. 74/3 to 74/9, Jan. 69/6 to 69/9, and May 67/6 per cwt. Afternoon cables were easier, and with freer sellers prices gave way, closing unchanged to 6d. per cwt. lower on the day. Sales—Nov. 82/3 to 82/-, Dec. 74/3, Jan. 69/3 to 69/-, and May 67/3 to 67/- per cwt.

MANCHESTER, Friday.—BUTTER—The market remained firm, with Danish selling around 200/-; Finnish quoted at 218/- and New Zealand 206/- to 210/-. Irish creameries met a steady sale at 198/- to 202/- per cwt. The Copenhagen official butter quotation came 8 kroner lower. BACON—There is no alteration to report in this market. LARD—English refined is quoted 6d. lower at 87/6. CHEESE continues firm. EGGS very steady, with Irish quoted 27/6 to 28/6 and Danish 28/- to 30/- per 120.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE, Friday.—Imported fruit continues to be a limited and unprofitable trade. For American apples, also pears and grapes, landed cost prices are invariably difficult to make. Black grapes, 1/6 to 2/- and 2/3 per lb.; barrel grapes, 16/- to 25/- and 30/-; bananas, 20/- to 30/- per crate; cases of pears about 26/-, 28/- to 30/-, and half cases 15/6 to 16/-; selected Irish apples, 26/- to 29/- per barrel. Vegetables in narrower supply, and came on market erratically, owing to frozen state of roads, and sales dragged into a late hour of morning in consequence. However, demand was well sustained for everything, as it came to hand; prices generally stiffer, especially for cabbage. Cauliflowers, 2/9 to 3/-, 3/3, and 3/6 per doz.; seconds, 1/6 to 2/-; sprouts, 3/- to 3/9, 4/-, and 4/6 per float; Swede turnips, 2/3 to 2/7 per cwt.; white Turnips, 6d. to 1/2 per bundle; York cabbage, 25/- to 35/-, 45/-, a few extras up to 52/- to 60/- per load; tomatoes, 10d. to 1/6 per lb.; lettuce, 4d. to 9d. and 1/- per doz.; celery, 2/6 to 4/- and 5/-, selected 6d. to 6/6 per bundle; beet, 8d. to 1/- ditto; carrots, 1/- to 2/6 and 3/6 per doz. bunches; and 10/6 per cwt.; parsnips, 1/6 per doz. bundles, and 4/- per bag; thyme, 1/6 to 3/- per doz. bunches; parsley, 6d. to 9d. per tray and 1/1 to 1/8 per bag.

DUBLIN FISH, Friday.—Limited market of fish in this morning, chiefly plaice and codfish, and some oddments of other kinds. There, however, was a glut of herrings in boxes and barrels, which sold irregularly—viz., 400 packages; also 80 boxes mackerel and 7 chests lobsters offered. Sales averaged—Lobsters, 5d. to 2/- and 2/6 each, mostly in broken lots; turbot, 1/- to 8/- and 10/- each; brill, 1/- to 2/6; best soles, 30/- to 40/- per 9 pairs, medium 20/- to 25/-; slips, 10/- to 17/6 per 9 pairs; best plaice, 6/- to 8/- per 4, others 4/- to 8/- per 8; half-boxes plaice, 20/- to 65/-; codfish, 45/- to 60/-; ray, 10/- to 20/-; herrings, 6/- to 8/- and 10/- per barrel, and 8/- to 17/6 per box; mackerel, 15/- to 17/6.

DUBLIN POTATO, Friday.—Supplies of potatoes are less stinted, and if so much importance and influences attaches to North of Ireland offers and quotations, as we were recently assured by certain Dublin factors and dealers was the case, then there ought to be an immediate or near future reduction in city terms of 10/- to 15/- per ton, as Northern quotations now come £7 per ton for white potatoes, and £8 per ton for reds, free Antrim street terminus. However, there are one or two prominent firms of Dublin factors who are not disposed to associate theirs with the recent advance, and continue to offer one ton to 30 tons of sound white potatoes at £7 10/-, and in another quarter less. 8/- per cwt. for Skerries on town rather tenable now.

DUBLIN POULTRY, Friday.—Market heavily supplied with dead poultry. Trade continues good for chickens and turkeys which maintain previous values. Hens cheaper. Demand for geese poor, but ducks fair. Rabbits dearer for best. Good general sell up at current prices—viz., chickens, 1/- per lb. dead; turkeys, 1/3 to 1/6 per lb.; prime fat dead geese, 9d. to 1/- per lb., alive 5/- to 7/- each; fat hens, 1/6 to 2/- and 2/6 each; old fowl, 1/3 to 2/-; prime fat ducks, 3/6 to 4/6 each, others 2/6 to 3/-; grouse young, 3/-, old 1/3; partridge, young 2/6, old 1/6; pheasants, 3/- to 4/6 each; hares, 2/- to 3/-; rabbits, 1/- to 1/4 each. Wild fowl coming in erratically in oddments and variable condition. Weather favourable to the trade.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG, Friday.—Irish creams of strictly choice quality have come into particularly narrow compass, and the right article commands 1/10½ to 1/10¾ per lb., but there is a quantity of secondary description creams about which rate from 1/7½ to 1/9½ per lb., according to character. Trade is commencing to turn to New Zealand produce, which is quoted firm at 1/10½. Danish nominally around 1/11½ per lb., but with very little attention. Factories are from 1/1½ to 1/4 and 1/5 per lb., and farmers' butter, which is in small supply and mostly of coarse descriptions, making 10d. to 1/2 in the main; but for fine to superfine qualities 1/3 to 1/5 and 1/6 may be quoted. Hen eggs of fresh quality are very scarce and firm. Best case arrivals are quoted 29/6 to 32/- and 32/6 per 120, selected retail parcels up to 35/- per 120. A good deal of pickled and cold storage Irish eggs have been arriving recently, and making 19/- to 20/- per 120. The difficulty of getting Danish eggs along leaves the market bare of such for the moment, but the egg position generally is about at its worst just at present. Duck eggs coming in more freely and, being of fresh quality and with a scarcity of hen produce, are meeting with a better trade. Prices average 26/- to 28/- per 120.

CORK BUTTER, Friday.—The market remains steady and firm; weather frosty. Creameries, 202/- to 206/- per cwt.; choicest mild, 200/-; special dairies and farmers' fresh parcels, 146/-.

GRIMSBY FISH, Friday.—Poor supply. Demand fair. Plaice, 15/-; lemon soles, 24/-; halibut, 14/- to 20/-; cod, 5/- to 6/-; skate, 8/- to 9/-; small haddocks, 6/6; kit, 8/-; gibbed, 8/6; dabs, 10/- to 12/- per stone; soles, 1/7; turbot and brill, 1/2 per lb.

PRODUCE.

LONDON, Friday.—SUGAR—Messrs. Tate and Lyle's cubes quoted 61/6, crushed 59/-, granulated stoved, also fine and coarse grain, 59/1½; No. 2 London and T and L 58/7½, ditto one month forward 58/6, second half December 59/-, January 59/6, February 59/-, March 58/-; yellow crystals spot 54/1½, castor 59/3 to 60/7½, finest 61/4½, pulverised 60/-. Of imported, white Java spot 56/3 to 56/6, Czecho granulated spot 57/9, ditto tendered held for 30/-, November sold 29/6, and December quoted 29/3, f.o.b. terms Hamburg. Sustained operations on the part of American refiners for all kinds of raw sugar is still a feature of the market. White terminal market again manifested activity, and prices were further driven up; November delivery sold 30/-, December 29/7½ to 28/-, August 27/6 per cwt. SPICE—The market for pepper opened with a much harder tone owing to strength of Eastern markets, and a good demand was met with marked reserve; black Singapore January-March steamer sold 4⅜d. to 4 11-16d., Lampong January-March done 4⅜d. Muntok white January-March 7d. for L.S., Tellicherry spot sold 4⅜d. Zanzibar cloves steady, quiet; January-March quoted 1/5⅞ c.f. and i. TAPIOCA fully steady, with a fair inquiry forward. Sago Flour—December-February quoted 16/3, January-March sold 16/- c.f. and i. Liverpool. RUBBER—The market presented quiet features, and standard plantation crepe and sheet spot, also November, sold 1/2⅛, December 1/2⅛, January-March 1/3⅛, April-June 1/3¼. To New York standard estate sheet December-January sold 1/3 per lb. c.f. and i. terms. Wild sorts in quiet request at late rates. Gambier market firm, with few sellers; block November-December 51/- per cwt. c.f. and i. EGG PRODUCTS—Market quiet, apart from hen albumen, and which is firmly held; spot 4/2 per lb. OILS—Linseed firm, but quiet; spot 43/3, January-April sold 38/9 to 39/-, May-August 36/1½. Turpentine dull and easier; American spot 72/9, December 73/-, January-April 74/3 per cwt. Petroleum and Rosin unaltered. OILSEEDS—Linseed continues firm, especially for Plate descriptions on light shipments; Calcutta afloat sellers £23 7/6, November-December £22 10/-. Plate to Hull December sold at £20 3/-, December-January £18 2/6, January-February £17 7/6. DRIED FRUIT—There is a steady demand, with a fair amount of trade doing, but the market in general cannot be described as busy. Of currants, Pyrgos quarter-cases quoted 40/-, bags 39/-, Amalia 44/-, Patras 50/-, Vostizza 65/- to 69/-, finest 72/-. Sultanas—Smyrna new crop quoted 51/- to 54/-, good 62/- to 66/-, fine 80/- to 85/-. Valencia raisins firm for desirable qualities; half-boxes quoted 60/- to 64/-, quarters 75/- to 88/-, seedless 43/- to 44/-. EVAPORATED FRUITS remain quite steady; Californian choice apricots quoted 70/-, extra 80/-, fancy 99/- to 100/-, ditto plums, 30/40 quoted 86/-, 40/50 at 68/-; French plums, quarter-cases 35/- to 67/- per cwt. CANNED GOODS—Considering the time of the year, the market shows a good demand, especially for pine and other canned fruits. Of sardines, Portuguese quarters quoted 2/6 to 3/-, ditto 12 ounce 5/- to 5/6, 18 ounce 9/6 to 11/- per dozen tins. Lobster—Fancy halves quoted 145/- to 150/-. Salmon stocks are now on a light scale, and market firm; 1lb. flat reds labelled quoted 63/6, ditto tall 41/6 to 42/6; 1lb. flat pink 25/-, ditto tall 24/6; cases of 96 lbs., 27/6 to 29/- per case. Apricots 7/3 to 11/-, ditto peaches 8/3 to 11/-, pears 12/6 to 14/-; tomatoes, Spanish threes quoted 6/6, Italian ditto 6/9 per dozen tins. Meats are firmly held in view of slight supplies on offer, and there is a fair general inquiry.

CLYDE CRUSHED SUGAR, Friday.—The market is active, with a large business doing in ready sugars. Quotations advanced a further 1/- per cwt.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW, Smithfield, Friday.—Owing to severe frost and slippery state of country roads, supplies of hay and straw come to hand in belated and uncertain fashion, and at no time was it possible to gauge dimensions of market over the day's arrivals, as from opening to near 11 o'clock stuff was mostly bought up and sent out for delivery as it came in. Early prices ruled firm up to Tuesday's currencies, but subsequently eased about 6d. per cwt. Choice strong hay averaged 6/- to 6/6, and fancy Co. Dublin loads 6/9 and 7/- per cwt.; medium strong hay 4/9 to 5/9 per cwt.; choice old meadow 4/- to 4/6 and 4/9, perhaps 5d. more in occasional early sales of fancy quality. Other classes of hay 3/- to 3/9 and 4/-. Straw averaged 4/- to 4/3 and 4/6. A few extra nice loads of oaten were said to have been realised to rather better advantage.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Friday.—American quiet. Brazilian quotations reduced 23 points. East Indian unchanged. Egyptian fair business. November 20.25d., December 20.25d., January 20.21d., February 20.14d., March 20.09d., April 20.03d. Sales 5,000, imports 38,274 bales. Market barely steady.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN LOWER.

TIN—The market after a weaker opening became steadier, but later sellers were more prominent, and rates eased again, while a fair amount of business was effected. On balance, cash ruled 10/-, and distant 15/- per ton lower as compared with the close of Thursday. Cash quoted at £222 10/- to £222 15/-, three months £222 15/- to £223, settlement price £222 10/. Sales 650 tons. Cash sold £221. Dec. £220 15/- to £221 10/-, three months £221 to £223 5/- down to £221 10/-, £223 5/-, and finally at £223. COPPER was a quiet market, but with sellers equally reserved prices were firmer; cash, also distant, 5/- per ton dearer on balance. Cash quoted £60 17/6 to £61, three months £61 12/6 to £61 15/-, settlement price £61. Sales 250 tons. LEAD—Market steady, and sales embraced some 300 tons; Jan. sold £29. March at £28 5/. SPELTER—Market firmer. Sales 450 tons; Nov. done £32 17/6, March £33 5/- per ton. TINPLATES firm.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

Dr. T. V. and Mrs. Earley, accompanied by their three children, have returned to China after furlough. Sister Gertrude Joy and Sister Minnie Burns, newly appointed to the Sierra Leone district, have sailed for West Africa.

JUBILEE FUND.

The Board of Governors of the Jubilee Fund met at Kildare place on Wednesday afternoon. Having transacted business the Board adjourned.

LAW REPORTS.

BANKRUPTCY CASE FROM MIDLANDS.

STATEMENTS BY JUDGE AND COUNSEL.

Before Mr. Justice Pim, in the Bankruptcy Court, Dublin, yesterday, in the matter of Patrick J. Weymes, of Mullingar, a bankrupt, Serjeant Hanna, with whom were Mr. Lardner, K.C., and Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald (instructed by Mr. E. F. Collins), appeared for the assignees, and asked that the transcript of evidence should be signed.

This having been done,

Serjeant Hanna said that so far as the bankruptcy of Weymes was concerned he asked to have him committed for unsatisfactory answering upon his deposition. There had been no explanation as to where the great bulk of the assets had disappeared to since January last. Without going into the deposition in detail, he applied to his lordship to commit Mr. Weymes for unsatisfactory answering.

Mr. Wood, K.C., with whom was Mr. Geoghegan (instructed by Messrs. William Smyth and Son), appeared for the bankrupt, and asked for the specific grounds on which the application was made.

Serjeant Hanna said that he was entitled to rely on the whole examination from July up to the present, and he submitted that the answering was unsatisfactory.

Mr. Wood, K.C., said that the ground, as he understood it, was that certain assets had disappeared, and he took it from the cross-examination, and it was alleged, that they had disappeared not only from Mr. Weymes's own business, but from the Hide and Skin Company, Ltd. That was possibly one of the gravest matters that his lordship ever had to deal with, and he (counsel) realised the gravity of Mr. Weymes's position, and it was only in that view that he had asked for any explanation. Within the last couple of years Mr. Weymes was possibly on the road to be a millionaire, but misfortune followed him. There was not one penny of assets that Mr. Weymes could acquaint the Court of that he had not done so. Therefore, imprisonment would not help to elucidate the matter any further, and it was with that view that he asked his lordship to deal with the figures.

Mr. Justice Pim—For to-day I do not propose to send him to jail. The deficiency amounted, he said, to over £150,000, and he did not think that the bankrupt's answering had been wholly satisfactory. He did not think that he had told the full truth, and he adjourned the examination—Mr. Weymes to give an undertaking that whenever he was called upon to attend the Court he would do so.

Mr. Weymes gave the required undertaking, and said that he answered the questions put to him truthfully.

Serjeant Hanna said that so far as Mr. Thomas McDonnell was concerned he had no application to make to his lordship to adjourn the examination.

Mr. McDonnell then signed his deposition in the case.

Serjeant Hanna said that as far as Mr. Boyle's deposition stood at present the assignees were not prepared at the moment to ask for any order based on the answering as being unsatisfactory. They asked his lordship to further adjourn the examination of Mr. Boyle, and to direct him to render to the Official Assignee an account of all moneys, etc., received by him from the bankrupt, and to pay the costs of the examination. So far as there may be any acts of Mr. Boyle appearing on the deposition that seemed to his lordship to be an infringement of ordinary professional conduct, that was not a matter for the Official Assignee at all. The question of the affidavit was regarded by the assignees as one of paramount seriousness. It was a matter that concerned the trading community and the solicitors practising in court. He asked his lordship to consider seriously whether, as regarded Mr. Weymes and Mr. McDonnell, and, if he thought right, Mr. Boyle, the papers should not be sent to the Attorney-General. It might be that Mr. Boyle acted negligently, but he did not think that that reference could be made to Weymes or McDonnell. A case of that kind was clearly contemplated by the Perjury Act of 1911.

Mr. Wood, K.C., said that he did not think that his lordship would come to the conclusion that Mr. Boyle deliberately lent himself to a process for deceiving the Court or that he should be ordered to pay the costs of the examination.

His Lordship said that he took an extremely serious view of the affidavit referred to. He did not intend at present to send the matter to the Attorney-General, but he directed that the affidavit and the evidence taken before him be sent to the Incorporated Law Society for their serious consideration. He also ordered that Mr. Boyle should pay the costs of that examination.

BANKRUPT'S SURETIES.

ORDERS FOR COMMITTAL.

In the Bankruptcy Court, Dublin Castle, yesterday, before Mr. Justice Pim,

Mr. Ross Houston (instructed by Messrs. Matheson, Ormsby and Prentice) made an application in the matter of Stephen Smith, of Crosskeys, Co. Cavan, a bankrupt, on behalf of the assignee, for an order that Philip Maguire, of Coolatiernan, Co. Cavan, farmer, and Andrew Conlon, of Carricktubber, Co. Cavan, farmer, be committed to prison for contempt of court, in that they failed to sign, as sureties, certain composition bills in the terms of their undertaking to the Court.

Mr. T. J. Smyth (instructed by Messrs. W. J. Fagan and Co.) appeared for Maguire and Conlon, and said that Conlon said that the bankrupt had been making away with the goods, and planting them in various parts of the country. Maguire's case was that the document he signed was not read over to him, and that he did not understand its nature.

Maguire and Conlon were asked by Mr. Justice Pim if they would now sign the composition bills, and they refused to do so.

His lordship directed that summonses be issued against Maguire and Conlon for contempt of Court, and that they be committed until further order.

BANKRUPTCY ANNULLED.

Mr. John Kennedy, draper, Templemore, was, on his own petition, adjudicated bankrupt in July last. He paid a composition of 13s. 4d. in the £. Yesterday Mr. Justice Pim, on the application of Mr. J. J. Early, solicitor, made an order annulling the bankruptcy.

KILDARE TURF LANDS.

INJUNCTION AGAINST FOURTEEN MEN.

In the Chancery Division, before the Master of the Rolls, in the case of A. R. Verschoyle v. Patrick Moran and thirteen others,

Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann) applied on behalf of the plaintiff, owner of lands at Kilberry, Co. Kildare, for an interlocutory injunction, pending the trial of the action, restraining the defendants from trespassing on the lands, and from removing turf, pending the trial of the action. In an affidavit, Mr. W. H. F. Verschoyle stated that the defendants, including John Collins, otherwise O'Keeffe, Secretary of the Evicted Tenants' Association, who had entered no appearance in the action, and was the leader and spokesman, refused to take turf lettings and trespassed upon the lands and cut turf.

The Master of the Rolls granted the application, the plaintiff undertaking to speed up the trial of the action.

WRIT-SERVING.

A DIFFICULT ISLAND TO REACH.

The difficulty of serving a writ in Inisfail Island, Co. Leitrim, was mentioned before Mr. Justice Dodd yesterday.

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) applied on behalf of Messrs. Little and O hUadhaigh, solicitors, plaintiffs in the action, for liberty to serve a writ by post. Counsel explained that the defendants, Maurice O'Connor and his wife Agnes O'Connor, were indebted to the plaintiffs in the sum of £70 18s. 11d for professional services rendered. The defendants lived on Inisfail Island, and were the owners of the only boat on the lake by which access could be got to the island. Several attempts had been made to effect personal service, but without success. His lordship granted the order.

WATERFORD CRIME.

JURY RETURN VERDICT OF MANSLAUGHTER.

At the Commission in Green street Courthouse, Dublin, yesterday, James Flynn, a well-to-do farmer, pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with the wilful murder of Mary Anne Gaffney, at Bishopscourt, Waterford, on July 28, 1922.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., and Mr. Dudley White, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted; Mr. Connolly (instructed by Mr. H. D. Keane) defended.

The case for the prosecution was that the prisoner and Mrs. Gaffney were on bad terms, owing to the trespass of cattle on his lands. On July 28 last year he met Mrs. Gaffney in a lane-way while she was returning to her home, and her dead body was found there afterwards. She had been shot.

After the shooting the prisoner went to the barrack in Waterford and reported the matter, saying that a revolver had been left at his house by armed men, that he produced it to frighten Mrs. Gaffney, that he was not aware that it was loaded, that she grasped it, and a shot went off.

The medical evidence showed that the bullet appeared to have entered the mouth and lodged under the right ear. Dr. Higgins said that he could not say what was the actual cause of death. He believed that Mrs. Gaffney had a weak heart.

When the evidence had concluded, the prisoner made the following statement:—"I am innocent, my lord. I never handled a revolver before in my life. I got the revolver in the hay in the hay-shed. I had hay in the shed and a large cock in the haggard. I took the revolver out of the pouch, and I examined it, and saw the receptacles for the cartridges empty. Unfortunately, I could not see the receptacle opposite the barrel. I knew nothing of the mechanism of the revolver. I went across to frighten Mrs. Gaffney. I thought that when she would see the revolver that she would not use scandalous or abusive language in the presence of my children. She made a grasp at the revolver. I moved a step backwards. It went off. I jumped over the fence and threw away the revolver. I don't know where I threw it. I went in to Father Dooley, explained to him, and asked him to come out to Mrs. Gaffney. I went to Lady lane (Barracks), too. I am heartily sorry for what occurred."

Mr. Connolly spoke of the prisoner's high character, and submitted testimonials to the Court.

The Lord Chief Justice said that he took all the circumstances into consideration, but he had also to protect human life; to teach people, farmers and others, that the reign of the gun was over, and that the gun could not be used against a defenceless woman, either to kill her or frighten her. The prisoner had been three months in prison already, and he would now sentence him to fifteen months in the second division.

LANDS AT BRAY.

APPLICATION OF NEW LAND ACT.

In the Land Commission Court, before Mr. Justice Wylie, the case of Blackburn, tenant, C. H. Denroche, landlord, was heard, in which the question of the application of the new Land Act was raised. It came before his lordship for decision on the application of the tenant.

Mr. Carson (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons) appeared for the tenant in support of the application; and Mr. Cooke (instructed by Messrs. Bowles and Ffrench) for the landlord, in opposition.

The case in another form came before Mr. Justice Pim some days ago, when an application was made for final judgment on behalf of the landlord for £25, one half-year's rent due in respect of certain lands and premises situated near Bray, Co. Dublin, up to the 1st October last. The lands were held under a lease, dated 21st May, 1894, for a term of years, and Mr. Denroche acquired the interest of the lessor. On that occasion the claim for the rent was admitted on behalf of the defendant, but a stay of proceedings was asked for in order to have the question of the application of the new Land Act decided by the Land Commission.

Mr. Justice Pim, after considering the case, refused the final judgment application, with costs, and also refused the application made on behalf of the tenant.

Mr. Poole now raised a preliminary objection, that after the order made by Mr. Justice Pim, Mr. Justice Wylie had no power to hear the case.

Mr. Justice Wylie held that he was the proper person to hear the case, remarking that it was the intention of the Legislature that the tenants should have a cheap means of having a question of this nature determined.

Evidence having been given by the tenant, Mr. Justice Wylie decided that this was not a holding to which the new Land Act applied. The recital in the lease, he pointed out, showed that the premises were let as a temporary convenience; and that statement was corroborated by the fact that the letting of a house and a plot of ground immediately adjoining this land was made on similar terms and to different tenants.

GAELIC GAMES.

CROWE MEMORIAL.

TIPPERARY NOT TRAVELLING.

(BY PAT'O.)

The meeting of Tipperary and Mayo in the semi-final of the Crowe Memorial was arranged for to-morrow. Yesterday Tipperary wired Mr. O'Toole, Secretary of the Central Council G.A.A. The purport of the wire was that the Tipperary footballers were not travelling. No reason for the Munster team's decision has been given to the Press. The game is off, and those interested in the meeting are disappointed. Dublin won the other semi-final against Sligo, and had the tournament run to a definite conclusion good games were certain, and the Crowe Memorial would have reached worthy proportions. The lapse of the Tipperary v. Mayo game creates a void at headquarters to-morrow. Otherwise the programme is an extensive one. Saturday League games are growing in popularity. Sunday Leagues fill the outlying venues, and the School Leagues are more active than ever.

Eight pitches will be occupied at Phœnix Park this afternoon, and for to-morrow a further group of games is listed. In no branch of Gaelic games is more progress being made than in the School League section under Messrs. Hennessy and Crummie.

The months of November, December, and January are unofficially a closed season in serious competition with hurling and Gaelic football. The grounds are heavy of turf, the days are short, and the fixtures at the season unpopular with the rural population, on whose support so much depends. Charity, holiday, and tournament games over the three months of deepest winter keep interest alive.

In the month of December greatest interest centres in Dublin in the completion of the Senior Hurling and Football Leagues. Faughs are again hurling champions, but O'Toole's have stormy passages to retain their local title against St. Brendan's and the Guards. The Hurling League Championship rests between Faughs, Collegians, and Kickhams. All three teams are keen on securing the medals. Faughs meet Kickhams, and the winners tackle University College in the decisive tie. It is fortunate that this hurling interest in the capital remains to carry us over an otherwise slack period.

In the New Year immediate interests in Gaelic games will be awakened. West, South, North, and East all believe that teams of their province hold the best fifteens. The story of the 1923 games is a story of the revival of the Connaught Province. Connaught came seriously into the picture this year, and the performances of Sligo and Galway last autumn in football cannot be forgotten. The Munster Province and the men trained in Munster still continue to hold sway in hurling. But their dominance is not so complete as it had been. The hurling game is more widely defused, and the future hurling champions may within a decade be the product of the growing strength of the Leinster Schools and Colleges organisations.

The final stage of the handball championship between Pembroke and Lyons takes place at Ballymun on to-morrow week. The closeness of last week's struggle has roused new interest in the game. Here are two very evenly matched men. The champion has won four games and Lyons (challenger) has won three. No one can name the winner, and no one believed Lyons would put up such a strong finish. I believe the champion has something in hand. He has a handful in this first-class player Lyons, but though Pembroke seems to have gone off, I think he will hold the championship.

BILLIARDS.

SMITH v. NEWMAN.

Smith was leading by 781 when this match was resumed at Piccadilly, London, yesterday, but Newman, playing a strong game, cut it down to 450. He totalled 962 points against Smith's 631. Smith's best efforts yielded 114, 169, and 130, unfinished; while Newman was seen in his best form, compiling 358 and 492, the latter break including runs of 73 and 56 close cannons. Interval scores:—Smith, 13,964; Newman, 13,514.

At night this match produced brilliant billiards, honours resting with Newman, who, with a great break of 683 and 77, totalled 794, against Smith's aggregate of 704. Smith's best breaks were 312, 65, 338, and 91, unfinished. Closing scores:—Smith, 14,668; Newman, 14,308.

FALKINER v. INMAN.

Yesterday afternoon, in this match at Leicester square, London, Falkiner forged ahead again, scoring 946, against Inman's 620. Falkiner made a fine break of 833, with many runs of close cannons, his other breaks being 87, 111, against Inman's 70, 83, 146, and 60. Interval scores:—Falkiner, 14,000; Inman, 13,496.

The night's play went all Inman's way. With a score of 894, against Falkiner's 666, he averaged 68 against 84. Inman played splendidly, making clever all-round breaks of 353, 199, 117, and 109. Falkiner's best were 239, 68, 78, and 213. Closing scores:—Falkiner, 14,666; Inman, 14,390.
